TIGHT SECURITY FOR U.N.

People seeking entrance to the United Nations Secretariat in New York today found new tight security measures awaiting them, as guards carefully screened credentials. The precautions were ordered to protect diplomats in the wake of the Olympic Massacre, one of the subjects to be discussed as the U.N. opens its 27th session tomorrow.

Tanzanian Invaders 'Routed'

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI)— Uganda said today it had routed an invading force of 1,500-Ugandan exiles from Tanzania and that its bombers had struck at their base in the neighboring country.

A Dar-Es-Salaam dispatch said one of two planes believed to be Ugandan hit the Tanzanian town of Bukova on Lake Victoria 20 miles south of the Uganda border and that unconfirmed reports said four persons were killed.

A military spokesman in Kampala said Ugandan tanks, infantry and paratroopers, supported by its small air force and navy, had retaken three towns overrun by the invaders Sunday night and driven the attackers off from the administrative center of Mbarara, 160 miles southwest of here.

He said casualty figures by mid-day were 200 enemy troops killed, including three identified as Israelis, with nine Ugandan soldiers killed.

In Dar-Es-Salaam, the capital of Tanzania, an army source said 1,000 troops had been moved to the Ugandan border with instructions not to provoke any incidents or cross into Uganda.

The Ugandan spokesman said air force planes had bombed enemy positions in the northwest Tanzanian town of Bukoba, 20 miles south of the Uganda border on the shores of Lake Victoria. All planes had re turned safely, he said.

Ugandan President Idi Amin, in his first public comment today on the fighting, said Britain was planning to send troops to Uganda to fight alongside the estimated 1,500 invaders who he said crossed the border from Tanzania early Sunday.

The Foreign Office in London denied the charge.

Radio Uganda, which broadcast the president's statement, today said the invaders had been identified as Ugandan exiles who fled the country when Amin deposed Milton Obote as president 20 months ago.

Previously the radio said the attackers were Tanzanians.

The radio said one of the main goals of the invasion was to halt the expulsion of Asians from Uganda. But a government spokesman said the exiled group, the first of which reached Britain today, were going ahead as scheduled.

The Ugandan announcement said: "The enemy troops who are on the retreat have been surrounded by the air and seaborne and Simba (Lion) battalions." The Simba battalion is based at Mbarara.

Uganda's claim of a Tanzanian invasion is the latest round of the dispute which began when Idi Amin, a Uganda major general, overthrew Obote in January, 1971, while Obote was out of the country. Obote returned to neighboring Tanzania and there has been a war of words for 20 months.

Many of Obote's supporters also fled to Tanzania and there have been repeated charges that Tanzania was preparing some sort of military action against Amin. There were numerous minor border clashes, and a new blowup last month when Aman claimed that all of Lake Victoria rightly belonged to Uganda; Tanzania had always claimed part of the lake.

Tanzania has an air force of about 500 men—but no planes. Uganda has an airforce of 600 men and 21 combat aircraft, including seven MIG15s and MIG17s. Tanzania has some Chinese medium and light tanks and Soviet and Chinese field artillery; Uganda has British medium tanks, scout cars and armored personnel carriers. Tanzania's total armed force is reported at 11,100 and Uganda at 12,600.

Tanzania, which includes the island of Zanzibar, lies on the East coast of Africa. To the north across Lake Victoria lies the much smaller, landlocked nation of Uganda. They have a narrow frontier west of the lake although Kenya and the tiny state of Rwanda separate most of the two countries.

The towns reported recaptured were Kyotera and Kalisizo, both of which lie south of Masaka, 80 miles west of here.

Nixon Steps Up War Against Narcotics

Stops Aid To Countries Protecting Traffickers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Terming the battle against drug abuse "one of the most urgent national priorities," President Nixon said today he would suspend all U.S. assistance to nations whose leaders protect narcotics traffickers.

In an address to the International Narcotics Control Conference at the State Department, Nixon ticked off steps his administration had taken to crack down on drug peddlers.

He said more federally funded drug treatment facilities had been created in his administration than in the 50 previous years, with help now available to 100,000 heroin addicts a year. This will be increased to a million per year if Congress approves his requests for funds, he said.

The number of arrests of drug traffickers doubled last year over the previous year, and recent sharp increases in heroin prices furnish evidence of the effectiveness of the crackdown, Nixon said.

Nixon claimed to have "knocked some bureaucratic heads together" to cut through red tape and eliminate interagency rivalries, and pledged:

"We are going to keep the heat on until these despicable profiteers in human misery are driven out of their hiding places and are put in prison where they belong."

Nixon's declaration that he would cut off both economic and military assistance to countries not cooperating in the campaign against drug traffic was the latest in a long series of steps he has announced in this area since taking office. It also appeared to be at least partially a response to Sen. George S. McGovern.

McGovern, noting that Nixon was appearing before the narcotics control meeting, accused the President of turning his head to heavy drug trafficking from Southeast Asia.

"One-quarter to one-third of the heroin entering the United States comes from Southeast Asia," the Democratic presidential nominee said Sunday.

"...The reason that Richard Nixon has been unable to prevent this is that our allies in Laos, Thailand and South Vietnam are involved in the narcotics trade. The administration does not crack down on them because it needs air bases in Thailand, Lao mercenaries and Vietnamese soldiers to fight its war."

In his speech, Nixon said: "The men and women who operate the global heroin trade are a menace not to Americans alone, but to all mankind.

"These people are literally the slave traders of our time—they are traffickers in living death. They must be hunted to the end of the earth. They must be left no base in any nation for their operations.

"They must be permitted not a single hiding place or refuge from justice anywhere in the world."

Federal Case Sought By Some Over Story On Food Stamps

Marin County officials today sought to make a federal case of an Independent-Journal reporter's disclosure of how easy it is to get food stamps illegally.

Reaction to the report Friday by reporter Marlene Freedman ranged from praise to hints that she and others could be prosecuted for conspiracy under federal law.

Miss Freedman, masquerading as an unwed, unemployed mother deserted by her breadwinning boyfriend, got $64 worth of federal food stamps after about 20 minutes performing in the offices of the county's public social services department.

The performance was an experiment to test reported laxity in administering the food stamp program.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, reacting today to the story, said anyone who falsifies records should be prosecuted, whether a reporter or not. He said he will bring the matter up at tomorrow's board meeting to "review what occurred and existing procedures" to check eligibility.

Hiring more investigators might be "spending $100,000 to lop off $20,000 misspent," he said.

Donald Sanford, assistant director of the county department, said that only a small number of food stamps recipients are checked to see if their applications are truthful.

Sanford, who has declined to discuss the matter on the county counsel's advice, said he has referred it as well to state and federal officials, including the office of the inspector general in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's regional office in San Francisco. Federal and state officials could not be reached for comment.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. took a softer stance, saying there was no easy answer to cheating in the program since detailed information never has been presented to the board.

Arrigoni said the county should be given more power to set eligibility standards for recipients and that income tax returns be checked to establish eligibility.

Supervisors Louis H. Baar and Michael Wornum could not be reached.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said his office was researching the case, and added that it could be turned over to the U.S. attorney's office for possible prosecution under federal law.

Deputy County Counsel Thomas G. Hendrix said that Miss Freedman apparently had perjured herself when she signed a declaration in the county department that the personal information she gave was true. He said it was routine for Sanford's department to refer cases of possible fraud to the Bales' office and to the state and federal officials.

Hendrix's boss, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, said Miss Freedman should be prosecuted as any other person who perjures himself.

The maximum penalty under state law in the case would be a $500 fine and six months in the county jail. Under federal law, the maximum penalty would be a $5,000 fine and one year in prison.

If prosecuted as a conspiracy, the penalty could be far more severe.

PETALUMA DRUBS DRAKE

Tim Wallmark threw a 26-yard touchdown pass to Tom Mercado with one minute, 16 seconds remaining Saturday to give Petaluma High School a 12-7 football victory over Drake High at College of Marin in Kentfield.

In other games involving teams from Marin and Southern Sonoma counties, San Rafael demolished Lincoln of San Francisco, 38-0; Novato whitewashed Riordan of San Francisco, 19-0; Tamalpais lost to Bishop O'Dowd of Oakland, 8-2; and Tomales fell to Cloverdale, 19-6.

College of Marin lost to Merced College, 46-23.

Officials Dispute Account Allegations

San Rafael Asst. City Mgr. William J. Bielser said today that a revolving cash fund record which claims $60 was spent in an April 4 luncheon he shared with Councilman Lawrence F. Mulryan and the "Bureau of Outdoor Recreation" is incorrect.

Bielser said the $60, reported in an Independent-Journal story Friday, was a council authorized advance and that he returned $39.25 of the sum, as asserted in a separate "turn-in" transaction through the city treasurer's office on April 28.

Bielser said that he shared the luncheon with Mulryan, Jerry Russom, president of the Mont Marin Homeowners Association, and a Department of Interior official. The meeting concerned the Mont Marin assessment district, Bielser said.

Councilman John A. Miskimen said that though revolving account records claim he and Mrs. Miskimen received two $20 tickets to a San Francisco Bay Area Council dinner meeting on May 26, he and his wife never attended the meeting. Miskimen said he refunded the money to the city.

The officials' comments were in regard to the I-J report on luncheons held by city officials and charged to the city.

Finance Director John B. Averett said mention of the refunds was not made on original expense records because "it would serve no useful purpose."

"We don't go back and annotate the records. That's not a proper accounting procedure," Averett said.

Open Space Balloting Tomorrow

San Rafael residents will vote tomorrow on a $2.25 million bond issue aimed at preserving some of the city's fast disappearing open space.

A two-thirds majority of the votes cast is needed to pass the bond issue. The measure at the outset would cost taxpayers about 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, with the levy gradually decreasing over a 25 year period.

No priority list of parcels to acquire has yet been established by the city council.

Some 20,909 residents are registered and elegible to vote in the election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Expense Of Lawmakers: $2 Million So Far In '72

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Salaries and personal expenses of state legislators have cost California taxpayers $2 million so far this year, records of Controller Houston I. Flournoy showed today.

Of that, roughly $1.5 million was for salaries and the remaining approximately half million dollars went for personal expenses of legislators.

The lawmakers are now on vacation and will return Nov. 8, but during the first eight months of 1972, the typical assemblyman and senators received about $18,500.

Legislator's base pay to date is $12,800. Anything over that is expense money to date.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, was listed in the salary and expense records of Flournoy as the Legislature's biggest spender at $21,324. Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield, R-South Gate, was recorded as the smallest of the full-term lawmakers at $17,115.

Senator Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, occupied middle ground between Sen. James D. Mills, D-San Diego, with $20,116 in salary and expenses and least expensive Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, at $17,200.

California lawmakers are paid $19,200 a year in salaries, the highest in the nation. Additionally, they receive $30 a day, tax free, for expenses while the Legislature is in session or while they are on official business.

They also are entitled to late model automobiles leased by the state, rent-free officespace, an office staff and unlimited use of oil company credit cards.

The records show that from January through August, the 80-member Assembly spent $1.31 million for salary and expenses while the 40-member Senate spent $723,368.

The virtually year-round 1971 session cost $3.4 million for lawmaker salaries and expenses.

Officially authorized travel, approved by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, and the Senate Rules Committee, accounted for a major share of the total.

For example, Bagley, chairman of the Assembly Welfare Committee and a close friend of Health, Education and Welfare Undersecretary John Veneman, made three trips to Washington, one to Salem, Ore., and another to Denver.

Bagley's travels involved discussions with federal and state officials on welfare, taxes and school finance, the controller's records showed.

Unlike the Assembly, the reasons for Senate travel authorizations are not detailed for the state controller. They are approved by the Senate Rules Committee which does not specify a reason for the trip.

Members of a committee looking into the feasibility of constructing a new state Capitol last month traveled to Albany, N.Y., to examine a new state building complex there.

In January, Assemblyman Paul Priolo, R-Pacific Palisades, chairman of the Land Use Committee, and Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, chairman of the Assembly Judiciary Committee, went to Hawaii to discuss land use law and planning with Hawaii officials.

In February, Assemblymen Eugene Chappie, R-Cool, Newton Russell, R-Tujunga, Ernest Mobley, R-Sanger, and Kent Stacey, R-Bakersfield, visited Ft. Bliss, Tex., and the New Orleans Naval Station on a trip "relating to enlistment practices in the National Guard."

Ryan traveled to Washington in April "to meet with various congressional leaders regarding busing and other matters affecting this legislature."

Senator's Son Hurt By Elephant's Foot

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — The 12-year-old son of State Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, was injured during the weekend when an elephant crushed his foot against a wall at Marine World-Africa USA.

Milton Marks III was given emergency treatment at the park Saturday and was then taken to his San Francisco home. He was confined to bed Sunday.

Chile Marking Its Anniversary

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)— Religious leaders pleaded for an end to political hatred in Chile Monday on the 162nd anniversary of the nation's independence.

President Salvador Allende, his cabinet and members of the diplomatic corps attended the service at the metropolitan cathedral.

The ceremony was held five days after the Marxist president accused "Fascist groups" of drawing up an elaborate "September Plan" to overthrow his government this month.

Paper Claims Hundreds Killed By Israel In Raids Of Lebanon

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Beirut afternoon newspaper Lissan Al-Hal said today the weekend Israeli raids into southern Lebanon killed "hundreds" of persons and caused damage to towns and villages estimated in the millions of dollars. However the newspaper Al Nahar put the death toll closer to 80.

Israel today marked Judaism's most solemn holy day, Yom Kippur, with a report of even more fighting on the northern frontier following the weekend raid into southern Lebanon and said there were artillery duels with Syrian guns in the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights.

Lissan AL-Hal, commenting on the aftermath of the 36-hour Israeli incursion into Lebanon, said the government had not issued a final casualty toll because reports of dead and injured were still arriving in the capital.

One official quoted by the newspaper said more than 70 villages and towns in the south have remained without water supplies since Saturday because the Israelis blew up the water treatment station at Taibeh.

The Taibeh treatment plant, which cost $334,000, was inaugurated only a few weeks ago. Water tanker trucks have been carrying water to the affected areas.

The newspaper published the names of scores of civilian casualties.

Shortly after Israeli armored columns withdrew from Lebanon Sunday in time for the sundown start of the holy day of atonement, military sources said, gunners in nearby Syria opened fire with mortars on the Israeli-held Golan Heights.

Israeli artillerymen answered with a barrage at the mortar positions in Syria, the source said, and there were no reports of damage or casualties in the 9 p.m. exchange.

The weekend attacks into Lebanon were reported directed against areas believed to be strongholds of Palestinian guerrillas, and for the first time the Lebanese army fought back.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Aid Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee tday voted $4.2 billion for the overall foreign assistance program for the current year, although some doubt remained that the Senate would approve a sizable portion of it.

The total is $1 billion more than appropriated for similar programs last year, but close to $1 billion less than had been asked by the administration for the current fiscal year, which began July 1.

The money bill would provide nearly $1.2 billion for economic assistance programs, close to $2 billion for military aid, military budgetary support and military credit sales abroad, and more than $1 billion for such other programs as the Peace Corps, Cuban refugee relief, Bangladesh and Soviet refugee assistance, Inter-American Bank, and the International Development Association.

Three Divers Die

MARIANNA, Fla. (UPI) — The bodies of three members of a Georgia diving club were recovered yesterday from an underground cavern where they had drowned while exploring the murky depths of an underground stream.

A spokesman for the Jackson County sheriff's office said three other divers, two women and a man, went down into Blue Springs Mill Pond Saturday and returned safely. They notified authorities when the first group failed to surface.

The sheriff's office speculated that one of the divers may have become lost and the other two went looking for him and drowned.

Lawmaker Killed

NEPTUNE, N.J. (UPI) — State Assemblyman Silvio J. Failla apparently was shot and killed Saturday night during a struggle with a holdupman, police said yesterday.

Failla, 62, was found on a street in this resort community semi-conscious but unable to talk. He had been shot seven times. Police said an expensive watch and a wallet containing "a fairly large sum of money" were missing.

Failla was pronounced ead on arrival at the New Jersey Shore Medical Center. An autopsy revealed he had been shot twice in the head and five times in the left side, apparently with a handgun.

Police said he was returning to his summer home in Spring Lake from a day of golfing in northern New Jersey and apparently had stopped for a drink here before he was shot walking the one block to his car.

Stormy Arrival

TAIPEI (UPI) — Japanese special envoy Etsusaburo Shiina, who survived a stormy greeting by student protestors on his arrival yesterday, met Foreign Minister Shen Changhua today to explain Japan's new pro-Peking policy to Nationalist China.

Shiina looked tense but appeared not overly disturbed by the mob of about 500 students who halted his motorcade from the airport to downtown Taipei, kicking his car and beating on it with sticks.

The Nationalist government has angrily protested Japan's decision to break relations with it and establish ties with Peking.

Rep. Ryan Dies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rep. William Fitts Ryan, a pioneer critic of the Vietnam War and the first reform Democrat ever elected to Congress from New York, died last night of throat cancer. He was 50.

Ryan was the first congressman to vote against funds for the Vietnam War. Throughout his career, he was considered one of the most liberal members of the House.

Ryan was exhausted by the recent Democratic primary campaign, in which he defeated Congresswoman Bella Abzug in a race made necessary by reapportionment. Doctors said surgery he underwent in July for a perforated ulcer further weakened him, making him vulnerable to a recurrence of the throat cancer for which he underwent surgery in 1970.

Bobby Returns

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bobby Fischer, first American to win the world chess championship, flew home last night from Iceland looking rested and happy.

Rischer, wearing a plaid summerweight suit, walked briskly from the Icelandic jet to a limousine sent by Mayor John V. Lindsay.

To newsmen who shouted questions at him during the brisk 300-yard walk, Fischer said, "It's great to be back in America." Asked what his plans are, he replied, "I'm going to sleep." Asked where, he said, "In a bed."

Carrying a dog-eared wreath which was awarded him at the championship chess match, Fischer said he doesn't know whether he will attend the Chess Olympiad which starts Monday in Skopje, Yugoslavia.

Deadly Marksmen

BELFAST (UPI) — British army officers said today the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) is using a new breed of disciplined and deadly marksmen against troops in Northern Ireland.

"Make no mistake," an army spokesman said, "these men are just plain murderers. But as snipers they are top men, in a class by themselves. They have training, but good."

He spoke after nearly a week of attacks in which snipers in Belfast and Londonderry brought down a British soldier with nearly every shot from their high-velocity rifles.

He said the snipers were known to have U.S. Armalite rifles and at least two other kinds used by British troops. One, the "303," has an accuracy range of up to 1,000 yards, he said.

Valuable Art Found

NEW YORK (UPI) — Working on an anonymous tip, city detectives, railroad police and FBI agents opened a baggage locker in Grand Central Station Sunday and recovered $150,000 to $200,000 in stolen art works.

The 33 prints, four books and a woodcut were found in the locker. Although an inventory had not been completed, police said they included works by Toulouse-Lautrec, Picasso and the Norwegian impressionist Edvard Munch.

According to members of the city police art squad, the works had been stolen from "major institutions" in the city, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Museum of Modern Art and the New York Public Library, and museums in other parts of the country.

Police said the art works probably would have been smuggled to Europe or Latin America and sold to private collectors.

Former Rivals Gain Contracts

DOWNEY, Calif. (UPI)— North American Rockwell Corp., which won the $2.6 billion NASA contract to build the space shuttle, distributed more than $12 million in subcontract work to two former rivals— Grumman and McDonnell Douglas.

Northern American Rockwell competed with both firms for the prime contract.

North American's space division president, Joseph McNamara, announced the awards Sunday, saying the technological capability developed by the other firms "represents a perishable pool which could soon diminish if not effectively utilized."

The Grumman Aerospace Corp. received subcontracts estimated to be worth more than $8 million, and McDonnell Douglas Corp. for more than $4 million.

LATE SUMMER HEAT SPELL

Temperatures soared in Western Pennsylvania yesterday, and Penny Katsafanas of Pittsburgh was one of many people who sought relief in park and recreation areas. She played frisbee in 80-degree heat at Schenley Park in the Steel City. (UPI Telephoto)

Saigon Marines Take Another Key Sector; Reds In New Attack

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese marines today secured another key sector near the Citadel at reoccupied Quang Tri City, prepared to push further north and said Communist resistance was at its lowest point in nearly three months.

But other Communist troops launched a wave of attacks against strategic government outposts along the central coast and correspondents were warned it was not advisable to try to reach the area.

U.bs. warplanes stayed well away from the Hanoi area Sunday because of the release ceremony for three American war prisoners but flew 330 bombing strikes elsewhere across North Vietnam, the U.S. command said. One American jet was shot down by a surfaceto-air (SAM) missile and the two crewmen were listed as missing.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command also disclosed the loss Sept. 12 of an Air Force F4 Phantom jet to a North Vietnamese MIG and said both crewmembers are missing. An American crew downed a MIG over the North Saturday.

South Vietnamese military spokesmen said today government paratroopers had pushed across the Thach Han River north of Quang Tri City, 435 miles north of Saigon, in their northernmost drive since the Communists seized control of the province May 1. Government marines recaptured the city's fortress Citadel Friday.

POWs Released To Peace Group

TOKYO (UPI)—North Vietnam Sunday released three American prisoners of war to their waiting relatives and a U.S. peace group in Hanoi, the Communist Vietnam News Agency (VNA) said.

The VNA dispatch, monitored in Tokyo, said "a moving moment followed" when two of the three men—all pilots—were reunited with members of their families in the downtown ceremony.

The report said the prisoners "joyfully greeted" peace committee members David Dellinger, Mrs. Cora Weiss, Princeton University Prof. Richard Falk and The Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr. of Yale University.

The three men, all pilots, were Navy Lt. (j.g.) Markham L. Gartley of Dunedin, Fla., captured Aug. 17, 1969; Navy Lt. Norris Alphonzo Charles of San Diego, Calif., captured Dec. 30, 1971, and Air Force Maj. Edward Knight Elias, of Valdosta, Ga., captured April 20.

Charles' wife and Gartley's mother accompanied the peace group, called "The Committee of Liaison with the Families of American Servicemen Detained in North Vietnam," to Hanoi to meet the prisoners.

VNA said that after the ceremony the pilots, "their families and the peace group drove to the hotel reserved for them." A Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) radio report from Hanoi said the pilots and the visiting American group were expected to take "some tours of damaged areas" before returning to the United States.

It was not known what route the group would take out of Hanoi, but it was considered likely they would fly to Moscow on the Soviet Aeroflot airline next Saturday through Vientiane, Laos.

What PG&E is doing to keep you from running out of gas.

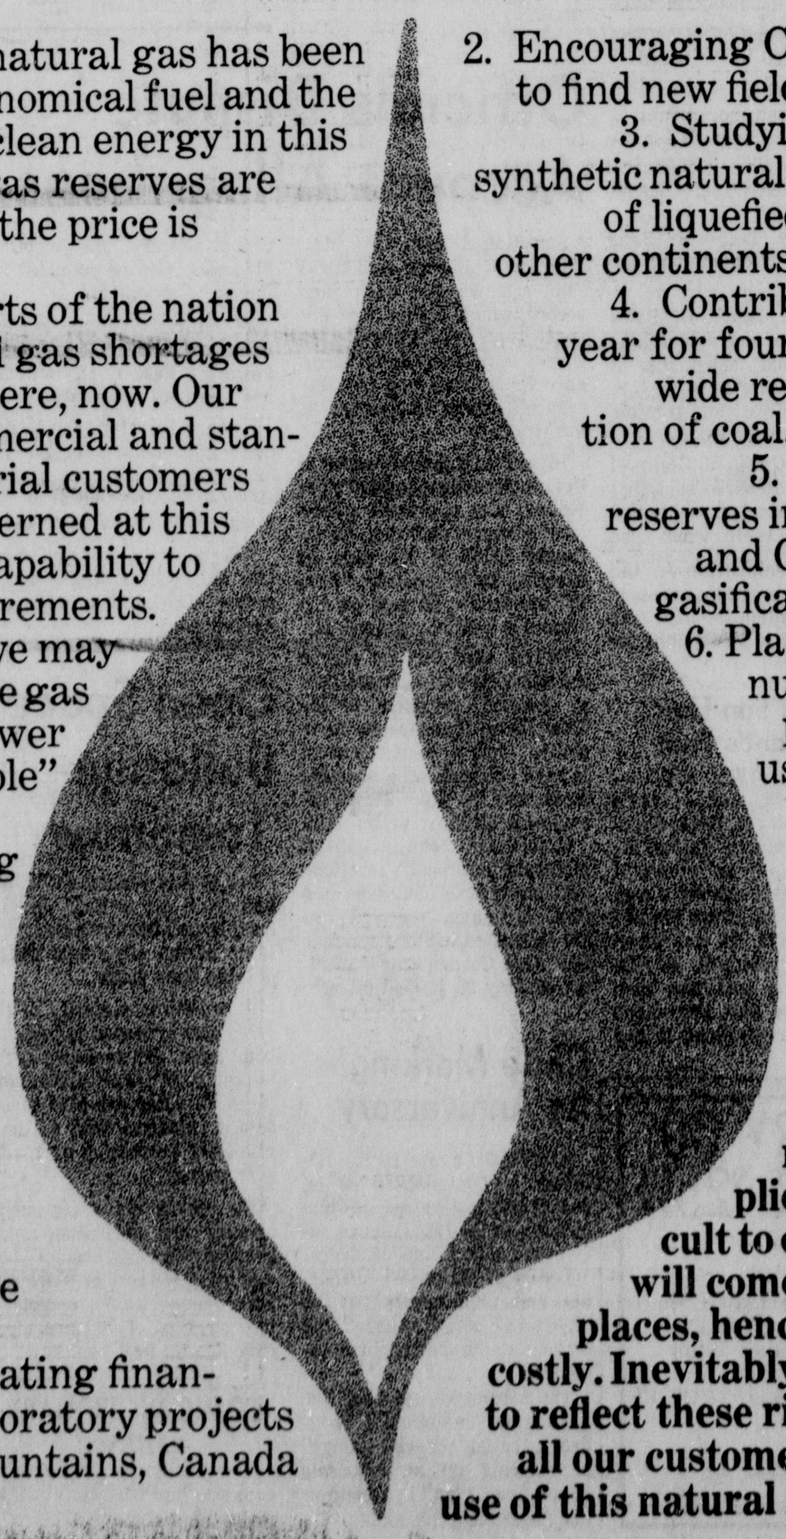
For years, natural gas has been an abundant, economical fuel and the major source of clean energy in this area. However, gas reserves are diminishing and the price is going up.

In some parts of the nation there are natural gas shortages already. Not so here, now. Our residential, commercial and standard rate industrial customers need not be concerned at this time about our capability to serve their requirements.

However, we may have to curtail the gas service of our lower rate "interruptible" industrial customers during cold spells this coming winter season in order to meet the public's heating requirements.

Faced with the growing gas supply problem, here's what we're doing:

1. Participating financially in gas exploratory projects in the Rocky Mountains, Canada and Alaska.
2. Encouraging California suppliers to find new fields within the state.
3. Studying the potential of synthetic natural gas and the import of liquefied natural gas from other continents.
4. Contributing $335,000 per year for four years to industry-wide research on gasification of coal.
5. Investigating coal reserves in the United States and Canada suitable for gasification.
6. Planning and building nuclear-fueled power plants which do not use gas or oil as fuel.



It all boils down to this: The era of abundant, low-cost natural gas in this nation has ended. The cost of gas has been rising. New gas supplies will be more difficult to obtain and probably will come from more distant places, hence will be even more costly. Inevitably, our rates will have to reflect these rising costs. We urge all our customers to make prudent use of this natural resource. PG and E

McGovern Blasts Nixon For 'Sitting On Poll'

LOGAN, W. Va. (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern drove two hours through winding mountain roads today to stand in the courthouse square here and denounce President Nixon for "sitting there in the White House smugly on top of his Gallup Poll."

Addressing a cheering crowd of about 1,000 townspeople, McGovern charged Nixon had "broken more promises than any other president in the history of the United States." He predicted Nixon would never come to Logan County unless he "drops in from a helicopter" and characterized the President as sitting out the campaign without even telling the voters what his name is.

"They call it the Committee to Re-elect the President," he said. "He doesn't even tell us what his name is. If my name were Nixon I'd keep it a secret too."

McGovern charged Nixon in 1968 promised five million new jobs, but instead through his economic policies had taken away the jobs of two million. He said it was "an insult" to unemployed West Virginians who take pride in hard honest work "to talk about them in cold and scoffing terms."

Nearly 4,000 local leaders attended the union convention that began today, and will run for the rest of the week.

Union President I. W. Abel, one of those who led the fight against giving AFL-CIO support to McGovern in his campaign for the presidency, said the issue would be thrashed out in full at the convention, but predicted the union would stand firm in favor of "neutrality."

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson said America must listen to its young and be willing to accept change if it is to remain great, It was his first public speech since his heart attack last Marsh.

"This nation came into being because people wanted change," Johnson told 1,800 persons at ceremonies marking the 75th anniversary of Scott and White Hospital in Temple. He is a former trustee of the hospital.

"The most fightening thing that could happen to us today would be for us to close our eyes to new idea and close our ears to those —particularly the young —in whom we have invested so much hope and effort through the years of our existence, and who are trying to tell us how they would go about perfecting the visions of America the beautiful, America the just, America the land of the free and the home of the brave," Johnson said.

Mrs. Shriver Talks At Jewish Rally

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eunice Shriver appealed for "love, wisdom and compassion" in the world Sunday at a Jewish rally. She spoke to about 2,000 persons gathered behind the White House to protest the emigration tax levied on Jews in the Soviet Union.

"We must all speak out against the persecution of Jews," she said, "and that persecution must stop." She substituted for her hsuband, Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver.

Over 30 Years Experience In Nutrition
HERE'S HEALTH!
by JUNE EMBURY

Because of the nutritional importance of organ meats, we're following up last week's discussion by Dr. Carleton Fredericks and our brief reference to MALABAR. It's made from 100% pure beef organ meats; has no fillers; no cassein, milk or soy powder and provides 90% protein supplementation. Fat and fibres are removed for "intensified energy" and the organs are desiccated for easy digestion. Physicians are often concerned about "purines" in organ meats, which can spell trouble for some individuals. Purines are eliminated in MALABAR's preparation.

You may choose it in convenient tablet form or as a powder, to be blended into milk or juices. Either way, customers tell us they feel an energy pick-up after the first day's trial and that they consider it to be an indispensable part of their diet. Next week: Word of an exciting new product for maximum pet nutrition!

Benefit Nets $200 Toward Trip For Dance

A benefit dance and show in San Francisco Saturday night raised approximately $200 toward sending Scott Fetterly and Karen Keller of Novato to Australia to represent the United States in an international dance competition, according to Mrs. Ronald G. Keller, Karen's mother.

Mrs. Keller said that she thinks that they now will have enough for the young dance couple to make the trip. Holiday Magic donated the plane tickets to the couple, she said.

Other donations from Independent-Journal employees and management, individuals and a rummage sale to be held in Modesto should bring in the money she said. Mrs. Keller said that with the plane tickets, the couple needs about $500 to $600 for hotel and expenses.

Contributions may still be sent to the Overseas Travel Fund, 1130 Ferris Drive, Novato.

Finance Status To Be Discussed

The Novato Unified School District board will consider formation of a community task force to study the district's financial status at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Novato High School lecture hall.

Trustees also are expected to react to a suit filed last week by the American Civil Liberties Union asking that homosexual speakers be allowed to speak at San Marin High School.

Trustees also will review a list of building needs including a location for North Marin High School, now housed in leased quarters.

Development Limit On Novato Agenda

The Novato City Council will consider establishing flood control districts to limit development along Novato Creek at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Novato Community House.

Proposed is that building be banned in the creek channel and restricted in nearby lands where flooding could occur.

2 Developments On Corte Madera Council's List

Corte Madera Town Council will occupy itself with two continuing controversial developments on the east side of town at its meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall: the multi-unit Madera del Presidio project and the Quarry site.

Yet another chapter in the lengthy saga of Madera del Presidio is slated to be written when councilmen consider the question of school site designation. A letter from Mill Valley School District Board will inform them of a "hands-off" attitude by that district.

On the Quarry site — now zoned R-4 — councilmen will hear a report from planning consultants Sedway and Cooke which was paid for by American Savings and Loan Assn., who want to develop the 23.6 acres.

Ferry Proposal Before Council

The Sausalito City Council will hold an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today to discuss proposals from the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District to build a new ferry terminal in Sausalito.

The bridge district has already presented plans to build a new terminal at either it existing downtown site or in the Marinship area.

Representatives from the Sausalito Citizens Council are expected to attend today's meeting to oppose any proposal that would cause additional congestion in the downtown area with commuter bus traffic.

More Agency Members On List

The Corte Madera Redevelopment Agency — composed of town councilmen —will consider a request to add two appointed members to its board when it meets tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m.

The request comes from the Mariner Cove Improvement Assn., whose board of directors last week decided the agency had too much power over school district finances.

Also on the agenda is a contract with Sedway and Cooke planning consultants, and selection of a municipal finance consultant.

WORD-A-DAY

Boas Declares Opposition To Air Base Joint Use

Democratic congressional candidate Roger Boas today declared his opposition to civilian use of Hamilton Air Force Base.

Once commercial aviation got a foothold at Hamilton, he said in a letter to Marin Alert, "the people would have limited, if any, control over its future growth. The potential, additional noise factor alone is cause for deep concern and opposition," he said.

The San Francisco supervisor also criticized the Republican incumbent, William S. Mailliard of San Francisco, for displaying "so little interestin the matter." Boas promised that, if elected in November, he would "take an active role in this matter."

Mailliard has not taken a position in the controversy.

He added that an independent environmental study should be made of the proposal. If it concludes that joint use would not harm the environment, he said, then the issue should be reopened.

It took over a gallon of oil to get Jack McGuire's heart running again.

Last July, in St. Francis Hospital in Evanston, Illinois, three surgeons and six nurses hovered over Jack McGuire. For five hours, all their skill was concentrated on one small section of his opened heart.

That day, no one connected with Jack McGuire was thinking about oil. Yet without it, Jack wouldn't be alive today.

The surgeons' gloves and gowns, the plastic tubing, the x-ray films, and even the thread that sewed up Jack's chest. They all came from the same raw material. Oil.

Yet oil's most important contribution was energy.

To keep the operating room operating those five hours took 28.2 kilowatt hours. And it takes 1.7 gallons of oil to produce that much electricity.

Three gallons a day for every man, woman and child.

Oil and natural gas provide 40% of America's electricity, 75% of all this country's energy.

On the average, that means three gallons of oil and 300 cubic feet of natural gas everyday for everyone in America. A daily total of 600 million gallons of oil and 21.8 trillion cubic feet of natural gas just to keep the country running.

Year by year we use more.

And year by year we find less.

That's America's Energy Gap: the difference between what you demand and what we find.

Working to bridge the Energy Gap.

Today, domestic reserves of crude oil (excluding Alaska) are down to a nine-year supply, the lowest it's been since World War II.

That's why we're constantly searching for more oil and natural gas. In the frozen wilderness of Alaska. Beneath the seas. In all kinds of rough, remote terrain.

We're the Oil Companies of America. Working to bridge the growing Energy Gap. And when you're in Jack McGuire's shoes, it isn't hard to understand why a country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

America's Energy Gap vitally concerns you. Get the facts today. Write: Department H, American Petroleum Institute, 1801 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

A country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

Tax Rate Reason To Buy Open Space

In conversation with us the other day, a knowledgeable San Rafael resident quite inadvertently presented an argument in favor of tomorrow's open space bond issue which had not occurred to us.

We were talking about tax rates, and this knowledgeable person commented that he benefited from a low San Rafael city tax rate because the city's valuation is approximately 55 per cent commercial and industrial to 45 per cent residential. By contrast, he observed, cities such as Ross and Belvedere must levy high tax rates to provide less services, because they are mostly residential.

This person knew what he was talking about, all right, for he is Bert W. Broemmel, the county assessor.

IT STRUCK US immediately that what he said not only is true but is a good argument for voting "yes" in tomorrow's election on authorizing a city bond issue of $2,250,000 to acquire open space lands.

Little of the open area remaining in San Rafael lends itself to industrial or commercial development. Except for some of the East San Rafael lands along the shoreline approaching San Quentin, it consists principally of hilly areas that because of topographyand location appear destined for residential development.

Plans already announced for development of eight parcels on the city's open-space list all call for residential use.

If these lands are filled with apartments, townhouses, and single-family homes, that 45 per cent of San Rafael's valuation in residential property will rise to a much greater percentage. And San Rafael residents no longer can expect to enjoy the city services they now get without a tax rate much higher than this year's 94 cents per $100 assessed valution.

TO US, that makes another pretty good argument for voting "yes" tomorrow — if any additional argument were needed.

Incidentally, polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., which allows plenty of time for everyone to vote. We hope for a big turnout —and a big "yes" vote, since two-thirds approval is necessary for a bond issue.

Rooted In Marin

Taken as a whole, Marinites are exceptionally well travelled. Yet, some of those who have travelled most and lived for years abroad are most deeply rooted here. Few places on earth have so much to offer in terms of natural beauty and climate. Our usually abundant rainfall makes Marin a botanical paradise. We have become rooted here by the roots of the plants and trees we have planted and tenderly tended over the years. Marin's soil has become our soil by proxy. We've no doubt we will go abroad again, but we are equally certain we shall return.

Hair-Raiser For Bus Commuters This Week

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A bold experiment to free commuter buses from congestion on the Waldo Grade will start this week.

Northbound evening buses will shunt through a gap in the median barrier to a southbound lane at the base of the grade — a vision bound to raise the hair of southbound drivers used to the separation of freeway traffic.

Assuming tests are successful this week with empty buses, passenger-carrying buses will start making the express run next Monday, whipping commuters around almost four miles of frozen congestion.

It is a good concept — the first of its kind in the nation — and we hope it does not earn black marks because details go awry. Some Golden Gate Bridge District officials are concerned especially about the difficulty of merging buses into regular traffic at the Richardson Bay Bridge. The merger distance is short, and perhaps would work better if the buses had their own northbound lane so other traffic instead could merge into the bus lane.

IT HARDLY seems possible, but we were assured that the California Highway Patrol never was consulted during planning for the experiment.

District officials coordinated planning with the state Division of Highways, but the Highway Patrol reportedly was not even informed of the experiment until two weeks ago. The Highway Patrol, although its expertise in handling traffic was ignored, now will be stuck with helping someone else's creation work.

Bridge officials are struggling to speed the placement of the army of plastic tubes and cones used to mark off the reserved southbound lane. District crews have to insert — and later remove — 483 tubes and 59 cones every weekday. So far, they have gotten it down to an hour and three-quarters for each trip out with the tubes and cones.

If the system succeeds, it probably will be extended late this year to morning commuter buses.

WE REPORTED last week that the Republican National Committee had dug up a Democrat in Sen. George S. McGovern's hometown of Mitchell, S.D., who is considering voting for Nixon.

A Mitchell source, however, reports the maverick Democrat, Jake Martin, 72, has been angry at McGovern ever since Jake's brother-in-law failed to win appointment as the town's postmaster. One man's peevishness hardly makes a national trend.

SPECULATION is afoot that if Beth Rowen is appointed county supervisor this would affect the candidacy of Barbara Boxer, but opinion is split on how. Some say it would hurt Mrs. Boxer because voters would be less inclined to put a second woman on the board. The contrary view is that Boxer would be boosted as a stronger liberal counterbalance to Rowen.

Take your pick. With Rowen calling the Boxer campaign the "Boxer Rebellion," you can smell the fireworks if both get on the board.

Conservation Groups Lacked Time On Issue

Your editorial tonight (Sept. 14) asked why conservation groups were silent on the "open space" bond election Tuesday. As a member of some of these groups as well as the committee working for passage of the bond I would like to give an answer —time.

This election is strictly municipal, and did not come to the attention of groups organized on a wider area basis in time. Many do not hold meetings during summer months because of poor attendance. Individual officers of such groups would offer personal support but could not endorse in the name of the organization without membership authorization.

Even our committee to support the issue was first formed about the beginning of August and got organized about the middle of the month. If some of the more concerned citizens of San Rafael were able to get together on this time schedule I think it entirely understandable that other groups with wider geographical basis and a membership to be consulted before endorsement have been silent.

Open Space Part Of Our Heritage

Contrary to popular opinion, historic preservation involves more than saving fine, old buildings. It also supports and overlaps with many other community programs, such as:

the creation of attractive and unique business districts to bring new consumers into towns;

the development of new educational projects;

the interaction of community groups to find office space which fits their needs;

and the preservation of viable open space.

Open space is as much a part of our heritage as any building, and it is disappearing in much the same fashion as our fine old landmarks. Parcel by parcel, building by building, our natural and man-made heritage are going down the drain as we indiscriminately scrape off the land to cover it with private development.

This kind of progress does not even make good economic sense. Other communities, such as Palo Alto, have discovered preservation of the hills as open space often costs the taxpayers less than all the services. . .schools, sewers, traffic management, etc. . .that go with development; and dozens of American towns have created thriving business districts out of old buildings regarded as relics of a bygone era.

Certainly, not every open space or old building can, or even should, be saved, but the visual quality and feel of a town have much to do with its social and economic health. Preservation is not a way of standing still, but one of the ways we can create the balanced and healthy community we all want.

Lessons Of The New Math Might Apply To Politicians

(Reprinted from Wall Street Journal)

Stanford University's School Mathematics Study Group (SMSG) will soon disband after a successful, although often controversial, 14-year effort to make math a better understood language.

The final lesson offered by the SMSG professors is that it is possible to end a program after it has served its purpose — something many government officials seemingly haven't discovered. But the professors also learned a lesson or two themselves.

SMSG was one of the products of America's post-Sputnik drive to broaden and improve elementary and secondary education, particularly in math and the sciences. The drive, spearheaded by a number of forward-looking university professors, received federal backing through the National Science Foundation.

THE SMSG played a large role in promulgating the "New Math" which now is part of school curriculums throughout the country. A new generation of students can thank the group for aiding their understanding of a subject usually regarded as "difficult."

The trick was turned partly by injecting more of the "why" of mathematics into early training in place of rote and drill. A grounding in theory offered a better understanding of the numerical relationships mathematics describes.

But some of the early efforts in the New Math leaned too far towards theory, some of the pioneers now concede. As curriculums made greater use of materials that discussed "set theory" and other concepts, educators discovered taht in some schools students were not learning the basic computational skills that they would need later in life for, say, filling out their income tax forms.

TO THE CREDIT of the educators, they struck a balance between the new "why" and the old "how" of mathematics. As a result, most school youngsters today probably are better grounded in mathematics than were the school youngsters of 20 years ago. They have some understanding of such abstractions as points in space and they also can make change from a dollar bill if the need arises.

There may be a broader lesson to be learned in the New Math experience by those same political officials we were talking about earlier. We seem to hear a lot of ideas these days that are expressed in abstract terms — about income redistribution, tax reform and the like. This is an era of social ferment, of course, and theories and abstractions are the parents of substantive change.

But somewhere along the line, we all will have to learn the lesson the mathematicians learned. Questions of "why" improve interest and understanding of a subject, but it has not been fully grasped until there is also a concept of "how." We would like to see a bit more discussion of "how" in the programs politicans put forward this political year.

TODAY'S WORLD

"Tom wants me to fix his dinner, Helen. Let me call you back in about a minute."

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, Sept. 18, the 262nd day of 1972 with 104 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

The evening star is Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Virgo.

British lexicographer Samuel Johnson was born Sept. 18, 1709.

Soviet Union's Cheap Manpower Makes Weapons Buying Easier

Russia can more easily put money into weapons than the United States. The reason: Because of higher pay, it costs the United States twice as much to keep approximately the same number of men under arms. Military manpower costs amount to 57 per cent of the U.S. defense budget; in the Soviet Union, only 29 per cent.

RUSSIANS WANT TO CUT DEFENSE SPENDING. Dissident opinion in Russia, held down because of censorship, wants to see the Kremlin trim the military.

Zamizdat, the widely circulated underground Russian press, recently attacked the Soviet "military-industrial complex," saying:

"In no other country is the proportion of national income which goes to military needs as high as it is in the U.S.S.R. — 40 per cent."

In the United States the comparable figure is 12 per cent.

ECONOMIC LIGHTS CONTINUE GREEN. Figures for the gross national product are better than preliminary reports indicated. Real growth in the GNP is a very strong 9.4 per cent for the second quarter, the highest quarterly growth rate in seven years.

Most leading economic indicators have been moving up for well over a year. This indicates continued economic growth in the coming months.

INFLATION HERE AND ABROAD. Control of inflation is better in the United States than elsewhere. Inflation is waning in the United States; it is rising in most other industrial countries.

The rate of increase in the United States is down from 5.9 per cent in 1970 to around 3 per cent today. The rate of inflation is 5.5 per cent in Belgium, 8 per cent in the Netherlands. In Britain, Japan and Canada, inflational pressures are a growing concern.

UNITED STATES MUST EXPORT MORE. Export sales are going up slightly, but not enough to come near to redressing the adverse balance of trade. Experts say it will take two years before currency adjustments will correct the overall U.S. payments imbalance.

MORE TRADE WITH COMMUNISTS SOUGHT. Look for Congress next year to wipe out almost entirely longstanding restrictions on trade with China, Russia and other Communist countries. Only strictly military hardware will be banned. The sale of 10 Boeing 707 airplanes to China is just a token of more to come.

CHINA'S OPEN DOOR TO JAPAN. Peace between the two is shaping rapidly. Here are the terms the Chinese will present to Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka when he arrives in Peking:

1 — The American-Japanese security treaty is seen as no hindrance to the establishment of diplomatic relations between Tokyo and Peking.

2 — China will waive all reparations claims against Japan as a result of the war.

3 — Tokyo must find a way to invalidate its treaty commitments to defend Taiwan.

4 — Peking will expect apologies from the Japanese government for the wrongs inflicted upon the Chinese people in the past.

The Japanese are willing.

AFTERTHOUGHTS ON THE HORROR AT MUNICH. As the tragedy at the Olympic Games depressed the whole world, there was a lot of comment based on self-guilt.

What has mankind done to bring this on itself? Wasn't this terrorism the sign of a sick world?

It wasn't. It was a sign of sick men attacking a healthy world. There is no more healthy society than in Israel and Prime Minister Golda Meir had not one word of blame to lodge against the Germans.

Registration Of 'Disenchanted' Worries California Republicans

MONTEREY, Calif. — To bring yourself up to date on the Democratic voter registration effort in Northern California, you need to touch base at traffic court — and at the welfare line, the unemployment office, the public hospital and the public housing projects. If you want to know why people in such untraditional places are signing up to vote, listen to your favorite rock music station, where the idea of registering is being propagandized by such stars as Country Joe, the Temptations and Santana —and also by an occasional politician, such as Sen. Edward Kennedy.

This unprecedented effort to follow the old axion about going hunting where the ducks are is paying off for California's Democrats, who are moving in on a target of six million registered here in their party before the cutoff date of Oct. 7. Charles Manatt, state party chairman, maintained before Labor Day that new Democrats were coming aboard at a rate of 14,000 a day. A high proportion of these are from newly aroused voter groups, such as the young who can vote for President for the first time this fall, the conservationists, and the Mexican-Americans.

STILL, JUST WHAT the influx of all these unknown factors onto the rolls will mean Nov. 7 has politicians of both parties confused and Republicans especially worried. Their performance in previous elections, this year's public opinion polls, and the raw figures of the registration drive itself offer no firm answer because contests at different levels in the current campaign cut back and forth across party, age and ideological lines.

At the top, the native Californian in the White House leads George McGovern by eight percentage points, according to the latest statewide California poll conducted by Mervin D. Field. That is a wider margin than the ones by which Mr. Nixon carried the state against John Kennedy in 1960 and Hubert Humphrey in 1968, and is possible only because about a fourth of all the Democrats queried are ready at this point to cross over to support the President.

But that Nixon lead does not carry over to Republican candidates at lower levels, especially those running for Congress. Right now there are 20 Democrats and 18 Republicans in Congress from California. Reapportionment taking effect next year will add another five, making a total of 43. The California poll indicates that at this stage of the campaign there is virtually no pull atall to the presidential coattails, and the Democratic crossover that provides Mr. Nixon his margin in the survey disappears when voters are asked their preferences for Congress.

In fact, the eight-point bulge over McGovern is one that gives the Republicans concern and the Democrats what would seem unfounded optimism, based on those figures alone. Both sides concede that the McGovern campaign has only one way to go, which is up—and he needs to gain only about five points to take the projected lead. Beyond that, there is the American Party presidential candidacy of Rep. John G. Schmitz of Orange County, which will siphon away some of the President's normal backing in conservative precincts of Southern California.

THE REPUBLICANS realize that polls taken so far cannot account for the final upswing in young voter registration that is taking place with the return of students to campus. National polls indicating that the mass of young voters favors Mr. Nixon over McGovern do not apply in the same proportions to college students, especially those on the volatile California campuses.

In addition, broadly based opinion polls do not measure the intensity of voter interest, which brings a higher percentage of one group than another to the ballot box. McGovern's success against predictions in the primaries was credited heavily in this phenomenon. And to sharpen that intensity in November, a series of ballot propositions will insure the turnout of highly motivated groups whose special interests are at issue.

One of those propositions would relax laws on possession of marijuana. Another would force through a coastline conservation measure which has been turned down by the Legislature. Still another is a farm labor proposition opposed furiously by Cesar Chavez and his United Farm Workers, which is overwhelmingly Mexican-American.

All that is why Mr. Nixon and his colleagues—such as Robert Finch, who is flying back and forth from Washington to look out for his interests—can take little solace at the early eight-point span shown by the public opinion polls. They get the willies in a particularly virulent form when they see the registration potential still being tapped along Berkeley's Telegraph Avenue, in the welfare lines in San Francisco's ghettos, and in the vineyards of the great Central Valley.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Sept. 18, 1962

An Interstate Commerce Commission examiner recommended that Northwestern Pacific Railroad be denied permission to abandon its collapsed Puerto Suello tunnel and the portion of its main line through San Rafael.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors asked President John F. Kennedy to request an immediate $5 million appropriation from Congress for start of acquisition of Point Reyes National Seashore lands.

20 YEARS AGO

Sept. 18, 1952

Opening day enrollment in Marin County public schools totaled 15,438, reported Wallace W. Hall, county superintendent of schools.

The Los Angeles Daily News said it had learned that for months, Southern California aircraft plants had been stockpiling guided missiles for a "push-button war."

Excursions Into Psychohistory Lead Up Some Strange Trails

James David Barber is a "psychohistorian."

And what, you may well ask, is "psychohistory"? What in the name of Clio, the muse of history, does a psychohistorian do?

In Professor Barber's case, he teaches political science at Yale and writes books with titles like "The Presidential Character: Predicting Performance in the White House."

PROFESSOR BARBER is firmly convinced that a politician's "character, world view, and style fit together in a dynamic package understandable in psychological terms." The Barber scale is based on two sets of variables. A President is either "active" or "passive," positive" or "negative" — or, of course, a combination of both.

Thus Lyndon Johnson was an "active" President ("a human cyclone," Professor Barber writes with awe). Calvin Coolidge, who slept 11 hours a night and then might take a nap in the afternoon for good measure, was — surprise! — a "passive" President by the Barber indicator. But — here it gets tricky — President Johnson tests out as "negative" as Coolidge with Barber. Meaning: Though he whirled like a Texas tornado, he got small pleasure from it.

All of which leads a psychohistorian to a definition of a "passive-negative" President: "someone who does little in politics and enjoys it less." But lest the reader assume this to be Barber's dumping grounds for the very worst, George Washington, he will have you know, was a "passive-negative."

PROFESSOR BARBER has a number of shrewd things to say. For instance: "A great deal of politics is about paying attention. The name of the game for many politicians is not so much 'Do this, do that' as it is 'Look here!'" He may even be correct to argue: "A President's fundamental self-esteem is his prime personal resource; to defend and advance that, he will sacrifice much else."

As a parlor game, psychohistory has its charms. But taken too seriously its categories can be bizarrely misleading. After all, what do George Washington and Calvin Coolidge — two "passive-negatives" — have in common? Furthermore, to assume that one can predict performance on the basis of these world-play diagnoses seems downright dangerous.

Psychohistory is hardly new. A World War II example has just surfaced, perhaps as a cautionary companion volume to Barber's thesis. "The Mind of Hitler" was originally a secret report, written in 1943 by a psychiatrist named Walter C. Langer as an assignment for the Office of Strategic Services.

DR. LANGER, like Professor Barber — like all psychohistorians — was looking for the Open-Sesame key: "the things that make Hitler tick." Politicians may not be predictable, but psychiatrists, alas, often are. Dr. Langer discovers, predictably, a harsh father, a protective mother, and the obligatory sexual aberration. Complexes — from Oedipal to messiah — richly abound.

How would Hitler score on the Barber scale? He was often "passive" and "negative." Terrible working habits. Rarely on time. Spent his nights watching double-feature movies and newsreels.

He was a compulsive eater: first breakfast at 7, second at 9. His "adjustment to people" was "very poor". Frequently he was depressed, indecisive, and given to temper tantrums. (Dr. Langer believes he really rolled on the floor, really chewed carpets.) In addition, he was messy.

Would you buy a used Volkswagen from this man? And yet ironically, tragically, he had what Professor Barber regards as the sine qua non of a successful politician: the "Power to persuade."

PSYCHOHISTORIANS are nothing if not pragmatic.

Dr. Langer calls Hitler "a neurotic psychopath bordering on schizophrenia." His summary is a staggering understatement of clinical caution. Hitler, he writes, "lacks adequate inhibitions."

In the presence of the enormities of 20th-century history, what do the sophisticated labels of psychohistorians tell us that we don't shudderingly — know already? By their technical pretentions, do they give us false hopes for simple solutions to problems of good and evil?

These are questions with no simple answers themselves. But certainly diagnosers need their own diagnosis.

A final question: Should everyone become a psychovoter in November, debating whether to vote for Nixon because a McGovern relative is rumored to have had a drinking problem? Or vote for McGovern because Nixon is said to have had a "traumatic" experience as a child, bumping his head on the wheel of a wagon? Risky business, especially if one considers that a psychohistorian would probably classify Abraham Lincoln as a "depressive personality" today.

"Personality" is such a paralyzing term, with its implications of a pattern hardened forever in early childhood. "Character" still seems a more human, a more generous word — the word of philosophies, religions, and the best works of art. Character, according to one definition, is the sum total of a man's moral choices. A voter — even a psychohistorian — can vote for that.

Martinelli Farms Plans Due Review

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9 a.m. at the civic center, again will review development plans for the Martinelli Farms project in West Marin.

The project, protested by conservationists and some West Marin residents, calls for 68 homes on a 260-acre parcel a mile north of Point Reyes Station.

Earlier this year, developer Lawrence J. Walters won approval from the county planning commission for 51 "ranchettes" on the site but later was turned down by the board of supervisors.

The board asked Walters to prepare new plans, moving some of the ranchettes away from areas designated as open space in the proposed countywide general plan.

His revised plans — to be considered by the board at 3 p.m. — subsequently were rejected by the planning commission.

The board also is scheduled to review criteria for granting "open space contracts" to property owners seeking tax benefits.

The open space contracts — similar in theory to agricultural preserve contracts — would give tax breaks to property owners willing to leave their land undeveloped for a certain period of time.

Tours To Open Space Areas Set

A public tour of open space areas will be held Sept. 23 to draw attention to the Nov. 7 vote on a regional park district in Marin.

The Marin Conservation League will conduct the all-day tour of the North Ridge, San Pedro Mountains and Mount Burdell areas, beginning at 9:30 a.m. It will be broken into three two-hour sections.

The tour will start from the parking area at Larkspur-Corte Madera School, with shuttle buses taking people to the mouth of Baltimore Canyon.

The San Pedro walk will begin at noon, with route maps to be distributed in the parking lot at San Rafael High School.

Finally, shuttle buses leaving San Marin High School at 2:30 p.m. will take persons to Mount Burdell.

Further information can be had by calling Penny Corbin at the league office in San Rafael.

Change In Sign Law Due Study

The Novato Planning Commission will consider revisions to the city signordinance at an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today at the community house.

Merchants, who claim the ordinance is too restrictive, and members of the city planning staff have proposed revisions for consideration by the commission.

Commissioners also will review precise development plans for initial development of 10 tennis courts, swimming pool, pro shop and parking area at the Olive Ridge Tennis Club, Olive Avenue and Deer Island Lane.

Chinese Turn To Petroleum

PEKING (UPI)—Four years ago a few hundred petrochemical workers moved into two farming valleys at the base of scenic Cat Mountain, 50 kilometers south of Peking, to build a model oil refinery.

Today, from a maze of fuel pipes along the ridges, dozens of giant distilling and catalytic tanks and spotless pumping rooms, 2.5 million tons of petroleum products are being produced annually. They range from heavy fuel oil to nonleaded gasoline for the cars of the country.

A few thousand yards away, goldfish swim in a pool of recycled water from the refinery which now has 13,000 workers and still is busy with new construction. The same purified water irrigates a small rice plot and feeds a pond for Peking ducks.

It is not the largest oil refinery in China but it is a showplace and Peng Shu-chen, one of the Army men who run the Peking Petrochemical Plant, points to "guest apartments" under construction for visitors.

The oil refinery has been completed. Two sections of the chemical plant are done. Work is proceeding on another chemical plant, power stations, three de-pollution plants and living quarters for the workers, some of whom are the peasants who once farmed the valleys.

Schools and stores are being built in the complex which spreads over more than 900 acres, an "instant town" in the countryside.

Peng says other refineries in the country are being modernized with emphasis on recycling the water and other waste and ending the customary practice of dumping pollutants into the streams.

"We do not want to harm the people's health," he says proudly in taking visitors through the water recycling area of the plant. Water is separated from the refined oil, pumped into the large tanks of the recycling area and then, through three steps, is stripped of sulphur, oil and phenol. A series of flotation tanks is used, each removing globs of oil; chemicals are added and the water is filtered step by step.

Peng says 600 tons of water are purified each hour.

Experiments also are underway in a small laboratory on using the cleansed water for human consumption.

One of the advantages of the purified water, Peng says, is that it can be used on crops without the need to add fertilizer. The water itself provides nutrients for the soil.

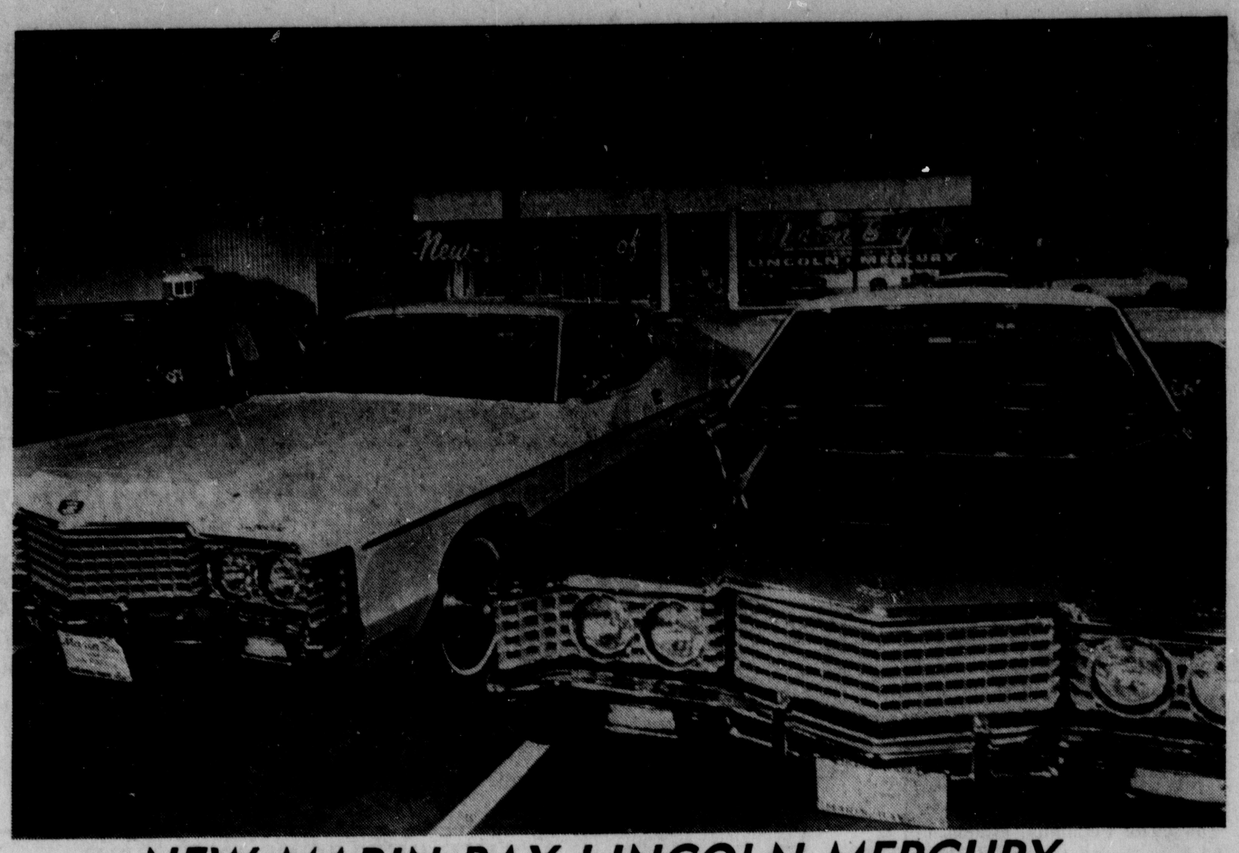
Polluted air from the factory also is recycled and used in the production of synthetic rubber.

Top engineers at the facility make about $75 per month. The average worker makes about $25. All eight levels of pay at the plant were increased during the summer, along with other industries in the country.

"We still have many shortcomings in the production of petroleum," Peng says. "Our technology in some aspects is not up-to-date. We have much to do."

China's primary energy source is coal, with the country ranking third behind the United States and the Soviet Union in coal reserves.

Western sources estimate the country was producing 18 million tons of petroleum in 1970 with the discovery in the '60s of large new oil fields in Ta-ch'ing and elsewhere. This is about the same production as Mexico and the equivalent of two weeks supply in the United States.



NEW MARIN BAY LINCOLN-MERCURY

Grand opening of Herk L. Viglienzone's new Marin Bay Lincoln-Mercury building at 475 Francisco Boulevard on San Rafael's Auto Row is set for Thursday. The new structure and grounds provide ample space for showrooms, parts, service, repair, and two new departments — motor homes department and American car rental department. Motor Homes, headed by Henry C. Tyler, carries Open Road, Sport Coach, and Revcon, the continental of the motor homes. It also has the Fifth Wheel, which hooks on to the backs of pickups. General sales manager is Kenneth Curley. Marin Bay moved last month from Third and Lincoln streets in downtown San Rafael. The new quarters has 22,500 square feet of floor space, more than double the old location, and includes 22 working stalls for car servicing. Viglienzone has owned the business for more than 14 years.

Events Could Forestall Market's Upward Move

By ROBER E. SPEAR

Q. I have read many opinions that the market will reach 1000 this year or next. In your calculated opinion what do you see ahead for the stock market?—V.R.

A. The market — as measured by the Dow Industrial Average — has struggled for some time to push through the upper 900s into the much touted 1000 area. While conditions appear ripe at this time for the final leap, any number of unexpected events could forestall the move. However, favoring a breakthrough is the long-term base in the Dow average between the 910-980 region. Technical analysts see this as providing a firm platform for an upmove. Fundamentalists cite the healthy business climate. The recent acceleration of the growth rate in factory inventories signifies a more bullish outlook by businessmen. Further, machine tool companies have reported sharp increases in orders — long considered a leading indicator of an upsurging economy. Although allowances must be made for possible nearby corrections, the outlook for the market is favorable.

With this in view, the shorter-term investor may well consider the advantages of cyclical rather than growth stocks at this time. The latter have been bid up over a period of years and are sporting P/E multiples that discount growth several years out. On the other hand, cyclicals have been largely ignored and carry multiples in the 10-to-20 area.

Market Stumbles In Early Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, in a rut since Labor Day, continued to stumble during the first two hours today in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Declines outnumbered advances, 639 to 417, among the 1,447 issues crossing the tape. The two-hour turnover amounted to more than 3,340,000 shares.

Analysts said many investors were taking the day off in observance of Yom Kippur. Thus trading was lighter than the already slow pace so far this month.

There was little news to influence the market. Investors remained skeptical about the economy and concerned about inflation and rising interest rates.

Prices were slightly lower in light trading on the American Stock Exchange. Imperial Oil was the most active issue, off 3-8 at 39 on 20,100 shares.

Gold mining issues were lower on the Big Board. Dome Mines lost 2 3-4, Campbell Red Lake 2 3-8, Homestake Mining 1 1-2 and American-South African 1 1-4.

Some authorities said gold prices were dropping in Europe because of selling by speculators who drove their prices up recently.

49ers' Excellent Showing In Opener

The 49ers looked like the best team in pro football yesterday, but the way the San Diego Chargers played, there is the distinct possibility that they could have made the Buffalo Bills look like division winners.

And Buffalo, home base of an American Football Conference team that managed to win just one of 14 games last year, is where the Niners will be next Sunday. It should be a toughie (yawn).

AS THE CURTAIN unfolded yesterday at Candlestick Park, the 59,438 fans in attendance expected to see a display of offensive fireworks from both sides of the field. John Brodie and Gene Washington lit the fuse for San Francisco but the Chargers are still looking for some matches.

"They played mistake free football," 49er head coach Dick Nolan said of his men after the 34-3 win. "Both our offense and defense got tougher as the game went along."

The biggest surprise to everyone was the amount of single coverage the Chargers gave to Washington. While San Diego's defense was putting double coverage on tight end Ted Kwalick Washington was getting just single watching. The plan was halfway successful. Kwalick came out with zero receptions. But Washington had eight catches, 140 yards and three touchdowns.

THE THING THAT impressed me was that the 49ers didn't turn to that boring game of three-runs-and-a-punt once they had built up that huge lead which was 24-3 at half and 31-3 at the three-quarter mark. I had always believed that in the past the 49ers turned too conservative after gaining a fat lead and put too much pressure on their own defense because of it. Brodie, a man who had a very successful day of completing 11 passes in 19 throws for 156 yards and three touchdowns, disagrees.

"I don't think we did anything different," Brodie said. "If you think we have been too conservative in those situations in the past, I just don't agree with you. Our last touchdown was scored on the ground."

In the last half, Brodie called 10 running plays and four pass plays until giving up the ball to backup man Steve Spurrier who called 12 running plays and six passes. That balance of 10 passes and 22 runs isn't too conservative and it at least gives you something to look at more than just reading your program or ogling the pretty girls in the stands.

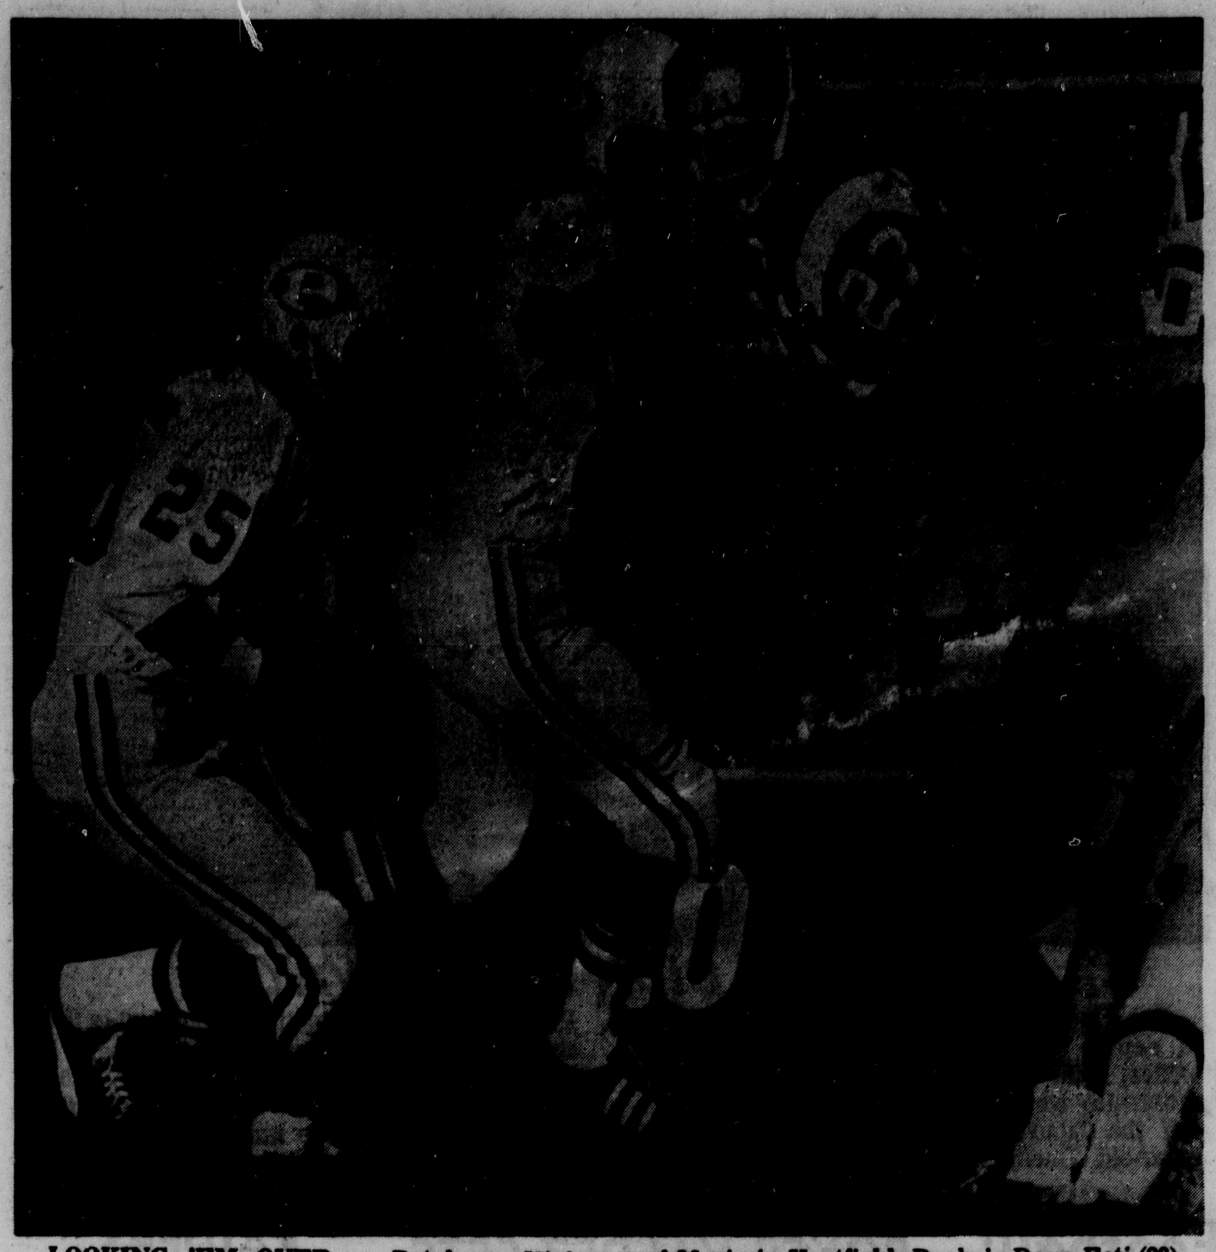
ELMER COLLETT of Mill Valley, a member of the special teams, played left guard the entire fourth quarter and did a great job for Randy Beisler who got a rest, as did other members of the starting unit.

"It was all right," said Collett after the game, "but I think the real fun is playing on the special teams." Elmer, you see, likes to get a chance to tackle people on kickoffs and punts. About the game, he said, "Yes, I expected San Diego to be tougher, but you have one of those games sometimes. Our defense played well against them."

Defensive end Cedrick Hardman put it in other words: "Lay it on the D. Call it a good game plan."

DURING HALFTIME, 49er players of the past were introduced to the crowd as part of alumni day activities and they were driven into the stadium in autos, some old and some new.

For Al Endriss, athletic director at Redwood High who played defensive end for the 49ers in 1952, transportation was provided by a bright red 1906 Thomas Flyabout, a car that sold for $6,000 when new. Marin Catholic football coach Bruno Banducci was driven in a red 1973 Plymouth. The wrong car for a guy who sold Cadillacs and Pontiacs when he wasn't playing guard for the 49ers during the 1946-54 era.



LOOKING 'EM OVER — Petaluma High School running back Tom Mercado (25) looked around for a hole in Drake High's defensive line in a game Saturday at College of Marin in Kentfield. Drake's Dave Foti (23) fought past Petaluma's Dan Solis (33) to pursue. Petaluma won, 12-7.

Petaluma Stops Drake '11'

By LEW CODDINGTON

In utter defiance of Dr. Spock's timetable, Petaluma High School's young football team went from childhood to maturity in 30 scant minutes Saturday afternoon, surviving a frantic second half to defeat Drake High, 12-7, at College of Marin in Kentfield.

"We grew up in the third quarter," said Petaluma's first-year coach, Tony Kehl, whose Trojans stopped Drake three times on the lip of the goal in the period, and once more early in the fourth stanza.

Actually, Kehl could have expanded that comment to include the entire fourth quarter, for Petaluma (1-0) did not win the game until Tim Wallmark completed a 26-yard touchdown pass to Tom Mercado with just 1:16 remaining.

The toss came three minutes after Drake's Ken Zepponi returned a pass interception 75 yards and Martin Andreas added the conversion for a 7-6 Pirate lead.

After a frustrating first half in which they were badly outgained, 178 yards to minus one, the aroused Pirates (0-1) threatened menacingly.

First, quarterback Tom MacAusland shook off a strong rush and drilled an apparent scoring pass to Zepponi, but the Pirates were called for offensive pass interference, cancelling the touchdown.

Shortly afterward, Phil Wilkinson reocvered a blocked punt in the end zone, but the score was nullified by an offsidespenalty. Instants later, following a short punt, Drake had first and goal on the eight but was stopped on downs.

On the first series of the fourth quarter, Drake tight end Corky Ingraham tried for a sprawling catch in the end zone, but as he juggled the ball on his fingertips, Petaluma de-

49ers' Camp Joy: Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— There are nothing but smiles today in the San Francisco Forty Niners' camp.

But down in San Diego, the Chargers are shedding enough tears to fill a king size bucket.

From the contrasting settings it's obvious the Forty Niners beat the Chargers in the season-opener for both clubs Sunday. Officially, the score was 34-3 but that doesn't even come close to telling the story.

For the Forty Niners, seeking their third consecutive National Football Conference West title, there was a lot to be happy about. Even Coach Dick Nolan, who rarely smiles, managed a creasing of his cheeks, mostly because his team played a "pretty much mistake free game."

It was the kind of game where scoring came easy for the Forty Niners as John Brodie combined three times with star wide receiver Gene Washington for touchdowns throwing 14, 23 and 45 yards. All three came after the San Francisco defense forced San Diego mistakes.

"Gene Washington ate us up alive," said Chargers' Coach Harland Svare. "We never did get anything moving on offense. It's not new to see a team go that bad but it's a long time since I've seen it. We couldn't cope with anything."

Jimmy Thomas bolted four yards for San Francisco's other TD and Bruce Gossett added field goals of 43 and 20 yards. San Diego's lone score came on a 29-yard field goal by Dennis Partee.

Brodie hit on 11-of-19 passes for 156 yards before turning the ball over to Steve Spurrier, who completed two of six for an additional 22 yards.

The three TDs for Washington fell one short of the club record and the total was one less than Gene scored all of 1971. In all, Washington had eight receptions for 140 yards.

Brodie said the victory was a real team effort.

"When you beat someone 34-3 a lot of people have to have outstanding games," said Brodie. "Our offensive line had to be super because everyone knows how good San Diego's defense is."

While it probably won't take much for Nolan this week to get his team ready for the Buffalo Bills next Sunday, there more than likely will be a lot of film viewing and plotting for Svare to get his club up for the Denver Broncos, who whipped Houston 30-17 Sunday.

STEELERS ROLL

Madden Angry; Raiders Edged

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Oakland Coach John Madden slumped on a stool, disconsolate because of his team's defeat. But he suddenly bristled at a reporter's question.

"Why didn't you use (Daryle) Lamonica earlier in the game?" he was asked.

Madden sat up.

"Anytime you use three quarterbacks and then lose—the press always second guesses you," Madden said. "Pittsburgh is a much improved team. But a blocked punt, interceptions and then fumbles gave them too many things in the first half. But our boys bounced back in the second half."

The Pittsburgh Steelers defeated the Raiders, 34-28, Sunday with the help of the defense which scored one touchdown and set up three other tallies. Terry Bradshaw ran for two scores and his 57-yard touchdown aerial to Ron Shanklin in the third period proved to be the margin of victory.

Lamonica, who did not play until the third period ran out, figured in three touchdowns in the final period. Mike Siana was twice a scoring target, one on a 24-yarder and then on a 70-yard bomb. Lamonica's passing set up a 78-yard scoring drive capped by Don Highsmith's one-yard burst.

Lamonica tried to mask his disappointment when he was asked if he would have preferred to have been in the game sooner.

"Sure, I was disappointed, but I'm not trying to second guess the coach," he said. "I'm ready when he calls and then I give it 100 per cent. Our offensive line did a good job and the

A's Hunter Wins 20 Vs. Lowly Rangers

OAKLAND (UPI) — Jim (Catfish) Hunter admits the first time around was the hardest, but it's just as nice to be a 20-game winner for a second time.

Hunter, a sturdy righthander who never pitched one inning in the minors, bagged his 20th victory of 1972 Sunday on a two-hit, 4-1, triumph over the lowly Texas Rangers.

The fact the victory enabled the Oakland A's to widen their lead over the Chicago White Sox to five games in the American League West made it that much sweeter.

"Winning 20 games for the first time is every pitcher's goal," Hunter said. "I know how great I felt when I made it for the first time last year. It's nice to win 20 again but I certainly don't feel that now I'm going to win 20 every year. It's too dificult a goal to set but I'll be trying."

Hunter gave up a first-inning single to Dave Nelson, and it cost him a run, and a double to Ted Ford with two out in the seventh. In between, he retired 20 batters in order, striking out a total of six and walking only one.

Gene Tenace drove in two runs with a pair of doubles to help Hunter to his milestone victory: It was his finest hitting performance of the year but Tenace wanted to talk instead about Hunter.

The A's are off today but start a two-game series with the White Sox on Tuesday night. The pitching matchups are Tom Bradley vs. John Odom on Tuesday and Wilbur Wood vs. Ken Holtzman on Wednesday.

The A.L. West race now has reached the point where the White Sox need a sweep of the short series to stay alive. A split would just about kill their chances barring, of course, an Oakland collapse.

In the numbers game, the A's "magic number" now stands at nine.

FIRST OUTING

San Rafael In Grid Victory

If anybody had any doubts that this year's San Rafael High School football team is as good as last year's, the doubts were dispelled Saturday night, when the Bulldogs annihilated visiting Lincoln of Uan Francisco, 38-0.

"It was a good team effort and it taught us a lot," said San Rafael coach Bob Muster. Mostly, it taught the same lessons that the 1971 team learned enroute to a co-championship in the Marin County Athletic League.

The Bulldogs, the MCAL's top rushing team a year ago, rolled up 299 yards on the ground, using 10 different running backs. Most spectacular was Chris Valentino, who bolted 74 yards down the sidelines for the first touchdown of a 20-point first quarter. Most productive was Craig Saunders, who scored the next two touchdowns on runs of 10 and 11 yards.

Valentino racked up 84 yards, quarterback Lance Loughlin 54, and Saunders 38 to lead the stable of runners.

Lincoln, which was obliterated last year by a similar score of 33-0, made a brief effort to get back into the game late in the first quarter. The Mustangs drove downfield behind the passing of quarterback Bruce McCall, but were hit by penalties, and the drive died at the Bulldog 30.

San Rafael reserve quarterback Dave Steele scored on a 13-yard run in the second quarter, and after a scoreless third period, Brad Carry and Fred Schroeder scored on runs of five and six yards, respectively, in the final quarter

THIS ONE DIDN'T GET AWAY

Bob Guelfi of 730 Del Mar Avenue, Novato, a deputy with the Marin County Sheriff's office, holds up a 49-pound salmon he caught yesterday while fishing in San Francisco Bay off the Tiburon Naval Net Depot. The 24-year-old Guelfi was fishing with neighbor Paul Stefani on the Guelfi boat and using live shiners (small fish) as bait. He caught it using a steel rod that dates back to the 1930s, and it took him about 10 minutes to win the battle. It is one of the largest salmon ever caught in that area. MARIN AMATEUR

Cage Coach In Golf Triumph

Bob Gaillard, evidently doesn't restrict his expertise to basketball.

Gaillard, who coaches the varsity basketball team at the University of San Francisco, Saturday won the Marin Amateur Golf Championship by shooting a two-under-par 72 on the San Geronimo National course.

A resident of Novato and member of Marin Country Club, Gaillard played conservatively over the last two holes after reaching the 17th tee with a one-stroke lead over Chuck Freitas of the home course.

Gaillard's closing two pars kept him one shot ahead of Freitas, who carded 71. Kasey Bedolla of San Jose was third with 72, followed by Bob Cranston of Sausalito at 73 and Geof Becker of San Francisco at 74.

Last year's winner, Stewart Schroeder, did not play.

A field of 189 golfers participated, and a gallery estimated at 500 watched.

For his efforts, Gaillard won a three-day, two-night vacation for two in Las Vegas, $50 in cash and a trophy.

Doug McHugh of San Francisco won three days and two nights in Disneyland for his victory in the putting contest with 14 putts in nine holes.

Flight winners:

First, B. Hickman, 78-12-66; Second, Williiam Rains, 70-8-62; Third, B. Zabosky, 91-22-69; Fourth, D. Gramor, 87-27-60; Fifth, J. Barncat, 98-45-53; Sixth, P. Scheller, 114-54-60.

Tomales Bows To Cloverdale In Grid Opener

Tomales High School opened its 1972 football season Saturday with a 19-6 loss to visiting non-league foe Cloverdale.

The Braves' lone score came on a 74-yard run back of the second half kickoff by Spirito Ballatore. Cloverdale's Eric Johnson accounted for 13 points with a 77-yard touchdown reception, a four-yard run and an extra point.

"We played a good second half, holding them to no points. The first palf the kids were flat," commented Tomales Coach Davis Danielsen.

Novato Starts With Grid Win

By TOM THOMPSON

Novato High School wasted little time in serving notice that they are ready to defend its Marin County Athletic League Football co-championship. Saturday the Hornets stunned powerful Riordan of San Francisco, 19-0, in a pre-season opener at Novato.

Some 1,000 fans watched as quarterback Tom Conklin made his debut impressive, passing for two of the Hornet's touchdowns and completing 12 of 17 for the afternoon.

The Black and Gold opened the scoring with 3:47 left in the first half. Three consecutive Conklin completions were all the Hornets needed before the short drive was culminated with a 22-yard Joe Robinson touchdown pass reception.

The Hornets scored again in the third quarter when, led by the rushing of Joe Powell and Jeff Lipe, they picked up yardage through the tough Riordan line. The last run was a Lipe four yard dive through the middle.

The issue was settled with just less than eight minutes left in the game when Conklin threw for his second touchdown, this time to Powell. After being set up by a Crusader fumble. the Hornet whoops ran three plays before Powell accepted a 29-yard touchdown pass.

The Novato Junior Varsity downed Riordan, 38-14, Saturday in Novato.

Football: Tam Falls In Opener

Even the football players realize that baseball season is going on, especially at Tamalpais High School, which lost a football game by a baseball score Saturday afternoon to Bishop O'Dowd in Oakland, 8-2.

"It was one of those games," said Tam coach Mike Davlin. "A very frustrating afternoon. We scored all the points," he cracked.

The winning O'Dowd touchdown came in the third quarter, after Tam fumbled on its own seven yard line. Dominic D'Ambrosio ran three yards for the score.

Tam yielded a safety in the first quarter when a snap from center sailed over the punter's head out of the end zone. The Indians got it back in the second quarter when Bill Duvall blocked an O'Dowd punt, which rolled out of the end zone inches ahead of his grasping hands. "I thought he had it for a touchdown," said Davlin.

Tam almost pulled the game out at the end, as Alvin Price rambled 55 yards on a draw play to O'Dowd's 20. On the next play, quarterback Tim Nowell was sacked and suffered a broken collarbone. He'll be out five weeks.

The defensive unit drew Davlin's praise, especially after stopping O'Dowd from the five yard line in the first quarter.

BOXER VALDEZ SETS CAREER WITH YOUTH

HOUSTON (UPI) — Olympic bronze medalist Jesse Valdez of Hamilton Air Force Base says his heart isn't in the fight game anymore and that he would like to spend his time working with underprivileged children.

"I've been married a year and four months and my wife has been awfully patient," Valdez said this weekend on his return from Munich. "She knew I wanted to fight in the Olympics and what I was working for, but my obligations are elsewhere.

"Boxing isn't in my heart anymore, but boxing is in my blood," he said.

Valdez, 25, is an Air Force sergeant who will be discharged in November. He said he has not made up his mind about a career but would like to work with youngsters.

Tars Walloped By Merced In Football

"We just couldn't contain their speed," said glum College of Marin football coach Dick Read. "They just outran us. We played well, but we had our hands full."

Read's Tars lost their 1972 season opener to Merced College Saturday night in Merced, 46-23, as the hosts struck for three touchdowns in the third quarter to increase a 19-14 halftime lead to 39-17.

Duke Bessee and Neale Given made spectacular catches for two of the Tars' three touchdowns, Bessee on a 48-yard pass from Kevin Donohoe in the second quarter, and Given on an 18-yarder from Harold Fain in the final period.

Leon Howard netted Marin's first score on a three-yard run, and John Loane kicked a 41-yard field goal and two conversions.

Dolphins Thwart Chiefs' Bid For Revenge, 20-10

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

All the motivation was there—revenge, pride, a new season—for Kansas City but when it was all over it was the Chiefs flat on their faces again and the Miami Dolphins celebrating Christmas in September.

The setting was perfect for the Chiefs. Here was a chance to avenge their Christmas Day American Football Conference title loss to Miami in the longest pro game in history before a home crowd of close to 80,000 in their new home— Arrowhead Stadium.

But it was Miami which proved that last Christmas was no fluke as the Dolphins manhandled the Chiefs 20-10 Sunday on the opening day of the National Football League season.

Bob Griese threw a 14-yard TD pass to Marlin Briscoe in the first period and the Dolphins then broke open the game in the last minute of the first half as Garo Yepremian, the hero of the Dolphins' Christmas upset, kicked a 47-yard field goal and Larry Csonka plunged over from the one after safety Jake Scott's interception had given Miami the ball.

In other opening day action, Pittsburgh stunned Oakland 34-28, San Francisco ripped San Diego 34-3, Dallas downed Philadelphia 28-6, Los Angeles routed New Orleans 34-14, the New York Jets crushed Buffalo 41-24, Detroit trounced the New York Giants 30-16, Green Bay romped over Cleveland 26-10, Denver trimmed Houston 30-17, Cincinnati beat New England 31-7, Atlanta outlasted Chicago 37-21 and St. Louis upset Baltimore 10-3. Washington is at Minnesota tonight.

Dallas opened defense of its Super Bowl crown as Craig Morton threw a pair of third quarter TD passes to spark a victory over the Eagles.

Bob Thomas ran for two scores and Roman Gabriel passed for another to lead the Rams over New Orleans. Archie Manning had a pair of TD passes for the Saints. Emerson Boozer scored three TDs and John Riggins rushed for a career-high 125 yards as the Jets rolled over Buffalo.

Greg Landry's three TD passes boosted Detroit over the Giants and rookie Chester Marcol's four field goals and two TD passes by Scott Hunter enabled Green Bay to rout the Browns. Steve Ramsey threw for one TD and ran for another and Jim Turner kicked three field goals as Denver gave new coach John Ralston a victory in his debut by beating the Oilers. Lemar Parrish's 51-yard punt return for a score highlighted a 21-point second half that lifted Cincinnati over the Patriots.

Bob Berry passed for two TDs and ran for another as Atlanta beat Chicago and Donnie Anderson bulled four yards in the third period for the deciding score in the Cardinals' upset of Baltimore.

Cincinnati Next Stop For Giants

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants brought their road show to Riverfront Stadium tonight for the start of a three-game series with the front-running Cincinnati Reds needing a winning streak to keep alive their chances of grabbing fourth place in the National League West.

The Giants had an opportunity to close the gap on fourth place to a game Sunday but dropped a 7-4 decision to Atlanta and now trail the Braves by three games.

With 13 games left to play, including tonight's tussle, San Francisco's chances aren't all that good but Manager Charlie Fox keeps insisting "we'll make it. We're now playing to our potential but we still make too many mistakes."

Pitching mistakes cost the Giants Sunday's game. They were in front, 4-2, going into the seventh when Ron Bryant ran out of gas and reliever Randy Moffitt proved no mystery to the Braves as they scored four times in the eighth for the winning margin.

A bright spot was Dave Kingman's 26th homer, plus two hits by Ken Henderson.

Trevino Wins Golf Tourney

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

ST. LOUIS — Deane Beman sat dejectedly on his bag of clubs at the 13th hole Sunday and watched as cheerful Lee Trevino strolled by on his way to victory in the $150,000 St. Louis Golf Classic.

Beman had led since the beginning of the four-day tournament at Norwood Hills Country Club but saw his one-stroke advantage vanish early in the final round Sunday. The $30,000 in top prize money went with it. Trevino shot a 70 for a total of 269, one stroke better than Beman. Napa's Ron Cerrudo finished at 284.

Boston On Minds Of A.L. Teams

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Detroit Tigers and the Baltimore Orioles both have Boston on their mind.

"It will all depend on our seven games with Boston," said Dick McAuliffe Sunday after he hit two homers to pace Detroit to a 6-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers that moved the Tigers to within .001 of the Red Sox in the tight American League Eastern Division race.

"We've got to win five of our six games with Boston if we're going to make up three games in the loss column," Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said after the Orioles lost a 2-1 decision to the New York Yankees and remained 1 1-2 games back in third place.

The Red Sox lost some ground with a 9-2 loss to the Cleveland Indians and Gaylord Perry but they're still the team with the best chance of deciding their own fate.

In the other three games Sunday, Oakland stopped Texas 4-1, Kansas City edged Minnesota 10-6 in 10 innings and California edged Chicago 3-1.

In the National League contests, Houston outlasted Los Angeles 15-11, Chicago topped New York 6-4, Philadelphia nipped Montreal 3-2, St. Louis stopped Pittsburgh 5-4, San Diego downed Cincinnati 10-7 and Atlanta beat San Francisco 7-4.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Someone in Marin County has no great love for road signs, as these pictures indicate. The three signs, all on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Samuel P. Taylor State Park, were knocked over this weekend by vandals. The Marin County Sheriff's Department, the California Highway Patrol, and the Public Works Department say they have no idea who did it, or why. (Independent-Journal photos)

Planners Will Reconsider Ban

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will reconsider adopting a strict temporary ban on building, rezoning, and subdividing when it meets at 8 p.m. tonight.

The proposed ordinance was held over from last Monday's meeting after the commission decided portions of it should be redrafted for clarity.

The ban would prevent any permanent change to undeveloped land without a use permit.

The measure would be in force for four months and could be extended for as long as two years. It would cover all undeveloped parcels and commercial lots.

The commission also will consider a request for use permits to operate a restaurant and cabaret at 726 San Anselmo Avenue and a delicatessen at 21 Mariposa Avenue.

Fallen Jetliner Pulled From Bay

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A cargo jet that skidded off a runway during takeoff, was pulled from San Francisco Bay Sunday night and moved to a hangar for repair.

The Boeing 707, owned by Trans World Airlines, broke in two when it careened into the mud and water of the bay Wednesday with a load of perishables aboard. The three crewmen escaped injury.

Fuel had to be pumped from the craft and 87,000 pounds of cargo removed before two giant cranes lifted the front section back onto the runway. The main fuselage was put on a barge for transfer to land today.

Property In Old San Rafael Shows Slight Value Increase

Assessed valuation of commercial property in old San Rafael rose only 3 per cent per year from 1968 through last fiscal year, Marin County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel reported today.

This compared with annual increase of 6.8 per cent for commercial property in Marin County as a whole, he said.

Virtually all the commercial property in old San Rafael — the portion of the city soth of Puerto Suello Hill — is within the area proposed for redevelopment by the San Rafael City Council.

Old San Rafael's multiple residential property — a majority of which also is within the proposed redevelopment area — rose in assessed valuation since 1968 at an average rate of 5.9 per cent per year, compared with county-wide average for such property of 8.7 per cent, Broemmel reported. Most of the apartment property is in the East San Rafael portion of the proposed redevelopment area.

Some spots within the area proposed for redevelopment have been experiencing rapid increase in valuation through new construction, however. Broemmel cited a section around Jacoby Street in East San Rafael which increases from $934,000 four years ago to $1,534,000 last year.

The assessor noted that the area proposed for redevelopment is approximately 65 per cent commercial and 35 per cent multiple residential. He said it totals just under half of the city's assessed valuation.

The declining status of San Rafael's downtown-Francisco Boulevard commercial district is reflected in another statistic cited by Broemmel: In 1938 San Rafael, without counting Northgate, had 30 per cent of all commercial valuation in the county. Last year the percentage was 26.5.

Larkspur Councilman To Address Meeting

A session of Larkspur Town Meeting will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. at town hall when Councilman Joan Sestak will speak on city decisions during the summer.

It will be the group's first meeting since June. Secretary Sallyanne Wilson said plans also will be made for the third annual Town Meeting to be held later this fall.

Interior Secretary Hesitates On Ban

BUTTE, Mont. (UPI)—Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton hesitated Sunday to endorse a ban on automobile traffic in the nation's national parks as suggested in a report by the Conservation Foundation on National Parks.

The study, prepared under government contract, urged that cars, campers and commercialism be kept out of national parks. Morton declined comment until he reads the report, but said cars are the only feasible means that some people had to see the scenic areas.

BLOCK BY BLOCK, THE OPEN SPACE DISAPPEARS...

San Rafael's open space has been disappearing for years. Now we have a real chance to save a lot of it. If the Open Space Bond passes on Tuesday, it will raise about $2.25 million for the acquisition of undeveloped land now privately owned and threatened with development.

Most planners now believe the costs of new development . . . schools, streets, utilities, sewage, fire and police protection, recreational facilities, and all the other things people require . . : is probably greater than buying the land and leaving it as open space.

San Rafael's Open Space bond issue will cost homeowners less than 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation per year. If your home is assessed at $40,000, for example, your taxes will increase by less than $10 per year — about the same as a modest dinner for two.

If the bond issue fails, we may never have another chance to save much of the open space in San Rafael. To pass, the bond issue requires a ⅔ "yes" vote. Don't forget to vote on Tuesday, and VOTE 'YES' FOR OPEN SPACE.

WOMAN IN U.N.

She Will Wield A Strong Gavel

By RICKY ROSENTHAL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — On a shelf near her desk, a book stands out among the other titles. "Technique de la Revolution," it is called, and one assumes it deals with the armed kind. Mrs. Jeanne Martin Cisse created a revolution of her own recently, disarmingly if you like.

As the new permanent representative to the U.N. from the Republic of Guinea, a post of ambassadorial rank, she became the first woman to be her country's resident representative on the Security Council. (Guinea began a two-year term in one of the 10 nonpermanent seats on the Security Council of Jan. 1 of this year.)

Many women have served on U.N. delegations to the General Assembly. The Security Council presidency, however, is considered more political and gives scope for maneuvering possibilities, depending upon accumulated skill or talent for the job.

INDICATIONS ARE that Mrs. Cisse will wield a strong gavel when her time comes to preside over the 15-nation Security Council, where the principal of rotation governs.

"She is a tough woman," said one African. An observer who was present when she made her maiden speech on Aug. 10 before the Security Council, which met on the Bangladesh application for UN membership, labeled Mrs. Cisse, "innocent, but that does not mean necessarily unintelligent."

Mrs. Cisse says she feels no qualms or terrors about being chairman of the Council.

"It's a great responsibility, but the 20th century is a great epoch for women," she said with a confident sweep of her hand. "I have been vice-president of the Guinean National Assembly for two years; I realize the United Nations is a more important and difficult job."

Just before arriving in New York she completed a trip to Dar es-Salaam. Tanzania, for a celebration of the 10th anniversary of the Conference of African Women, of which she is secretary-general. The conference embraces all the women's organizations of the Organization of African Unity.

"ALL ARE affiliated with the liberation movements of thier countries," Mrs. Cisse said." . . . the Guinean experience was examined, what we are doing and how we are doing it to push for our involvement in the economic development of the country." Three hundred women attended.

The Guinean experience, she further explained, involves setting up cooperatives, teaching midwifery from village to village, and encouraging women to become educated. "If opportunities are given to women who were denied them before, they can react more readily than men," she said.

Her presence here at the U.N., she believes, reflects her long experience first in regional woman's organizations, then national, and now continent wide.

"I think I will push behind the scenes; I have many ideas," she said.

"Injustice was never acceptable to me," she emphasized in an interview. "I come from Kankan, up country, with some boundary with the Ivory Coast and not far from Mali. My mother is a mid-wife and my father is a doctor. He went to the federal school for West Africans in Dakar."

SHE IS PROUD of her Malinke background. Her ancestors ruled the great 13-th century Mali Empire, which at its apogee could boast one of the most enlightened rulers of its day. Its ancient frontiers, which some say roughly approximatethe French colonial administrative unit of the Republic of Mali, included part of Guinea, Senegal, the Gambia, part of Niger, and a sliver of Upper Volta.

"Since independence we are organizing along nontribal lines," Mrs. Cisse said. Pride in her past and injustice in the not too distant past she recounts with a sweet ferocity:

"In colonial times there was only one federal school for eight or 12 African countries. If there were two children in a fmaily:6a boy and a girl, the boy would go to school . . . I was very lucky.

"I DON'T discriminate today," she continued with a laugh. "I have three boys and three girls. All are in school, the girls in secondary schools, the boys are attending universities."

As a student, Mrs. Cisse went to the federal school in Dakar, and then to the Ecole Normale for teacher training. This was in 1950-57.

"Educational opportunity, even if limited, was the most positive aspect of colonialism," she said. "It was good for building understanding and cooperating . . ." Returning home to Guinea, she began teaching; later she became head of a school.

"It was not easy; the power system was against us," she recalled. "There were heavy sentences for political activity. I wasn't afraid, only now I realize how dangerous it was. If I was late to school I would have to put in more work; they knew I was active." She later founded the teachers union.

In New York without most of her family for the moment (her husband is governor of the Mali region of Guinea), she expressed her personal feelings toward her new post. Flashing a smile, she said, "Oui et Non." and explained, "If I have friends, yes, . . . but my apartment is empty."

Unique Summer Home For A Marin Family

By MOLLY MARIN

Blue Mist, a 32-foot sailboat, became home to the Ron Hill family of San Anselmo this summer. The Vanguard was trucked to Tacoma, Wash., on July 1 where it began a two-month cruise of Northwest and Canadian waters. She sailed north, two-thirds of the way up Vancouver Island's coast.

"We tried to live off the land," said Alice Hill about her family's fishing, clamming, oystering and crab hunting. Their three children enjoyed the family's first long ocean trip.

They plied the Gulf Islands, putting in at Desolation Sound and Princess Louisa Inlet to see the mountains and falls.

The Hills tied up before the parliament and the Empress Hotel at Victoria to go sightseeing.

Friends from Paradise Yacht Harbor in Tiburon, Dr. and Mrs. Richardson of Larkspur and Victor Piltch of Novato went to Seattle on Sept. 1 to help sail Blue Mist home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Eide have returned to their home in Novato following a six weeks trip to Norway visiting their brothers, sisters and other relatives.

Mr. Eide has three sisters and a brother and many nieces and nephews in Bergen, where he was born, and Mrs. Eide has five brothers and sisters and other relatives in Stavanger. Mrs. Eide spent five weeks in Stavanger in the home where she was born, now the home of one of her brothers, and then she spent a week with Mr. Eide's relatives.

Mr. Eide went fishing with* his brothers on Lysefjord and went on trips to Sognefjord and Hardangerfjord, where his niece has a cabin on Hardanger plateau. He spent three weeks with his relatives and then two weeks with Mrs. Eide's relatives.

MR. AND Mrs. George Weatherstone of Novato have returned home from two weeks at Waikiki, Hawaii, where they stayed at the Reef. The trip was a birthday gift to Molly Weatherstone from her husband. Joining them for the first week were Chris Bolton and Terry Watson from Novato.

Japanese Are Wed In Marin

Two residents of Japan came to San Rafael to be married on Friday afternoon.

Kanae Yoshida of Osaka and Jun Mokudai of Tokyo exchanged vows at 4 p.m. Friday at Trinity Lutheran Church in San Rafael and received guests for a buffet dinner and reception afterward at the home of Mrs. Alverna Kavanaugh in San Rafael, a longtime friend of the bridegroom.

Attending the wedding from Japan were the bride's mother, Mrs. Hisae Yoshida; the bridesmaid, Emiko Mokudai of Tokyo, the bridegroom's sister; and the bride's brothers, Satoshi and Takashi Yoshida of Osaka; and the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Shimpei Mokudai of Tokyo.

Other guests attended from Japan, Honolulu and California.

After a wedding trip to Switzerland and Austria, the couple will live in Kanagawa, Japan.

The bride attended business college in Salt Lake City, Utah, and is an airline attendant for Pan American World Airways.

Jun attended the University of Oregon and frequently spent his vacations in San Rafael. He later returned to be graduated from Keio University in Tokyo and is a Pan American flight service supervisor in the Orient, headquartered in Tokyo.

San Rafael Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Soldavini of San Rafael announce the engagement of their daughter Linda Soldavini to Michael Christopher Sousa of San Rafael.

Linda is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Soldavini of San Rafael and the sister of Michael F. Powers of Suisun and George F. Powers of San Rafael. She is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and is attending College of Marin. She is employed at Holiday Magic.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin M. Sousa of San Rafael and the brother of Jeffrey R. Sousa. Vichael is a graduate of San Rafael High School and attended the College of Marin. He is employed at the San Rafael Police Department.

The couple plans a spring wedding.

IN MARIN SPEECH

President's Assistant: Washington Is Watching

By BARBARA HOSMER

Washington is watching very closely to see what retail stores do about lowering the price of beef, Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant for consumer affairs, told a Marin audience yesterday.

"Carcass beef is at its lowest wholesale price in 10 months. Reductions in retail price are beginning to be apparent. We hear that reductions of 10 to 20 cents a pound are in effect, but I'm not sure here locally," she said.

There are always seasonal fluctuations, she added. She said that President Nixon's limiting of import restrictions of meat affects only commercial beef — that "used for hamburgers and hotdogs."

"WE'RE EATING double the amount of meat that we did 20 years ago, but it still takes two years to turn a calf into a steak. There are 13 per cent more cattle in feed lots now and we eel prices will stabilize.

"Of course, pork rushes up and down," she added.

She said that the Cost of Living Council's telegram to retail chains to pass on reductions to the consumers last February has helped, and that the telegram stated that if retailers didn't bring meat prices down, the council "would tie it in more closely with wholesale prices."

Mrs. Knauer participated in the Consumer Education Forum at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael sponsored by the Marin Republican Council. Dressed in red, white and blue, she came not to talk about the high cost of beef, but the track record of the Administration on consumer problems. Saying that Congress has stalled President Nixon's recommendations on consumer legislation, she described actions of the Office of Consumer Affairs which she directs from Washington D.C.

"The President asked me to open up dialogue with business and industry on consumer problems, so we found a good shortcut," Mrs. Knauer said. Ford Motor Co.'s announcement last Monday of its new nationwide auto repair guarantee was an example. It was the first to be initiated on a national basis, she said.

MRS. KNAUER and two other panel speakers agreed that consumer education should be integrated into the public schools curriculum. One, John T. Kehoe, director of the California Department of Consumer Affairs, recommended that consumer education go into every public school grade. He also announced that problems of senior citizens were to receive nw emphasis by his state consumer office.

Joseph Barish of Belvedere, chairman of the Governor's Consumer Advisory Council, suggested that bringing in persons from nearby financial institutions and large stores to discuss purchasing, credit and related matters with high school students "for even a few hours" would be beneficial and cost the education budget noting, which drew applause from the sparse audience.

All speakers, including Assemblyman William T. Bagley and William D. Lee, director of the National Business Council for Consumer Affairs in Washington, D.C., stressed the need for general consumer education.

Joshua Thomas of the Marin County District Attorney's office said that the office was opening a consumer fraud department.

IN AN INTERVIEW Mrs. Knauer ticked off the three hottest topics on which people write letters to her office: automobile, credit and appliance problems.

"When I first went to Washington I was hounded about appliances — the high costs and the breakdowns," she said. "Now it has dropped to number three."

She credited voluntary action by industry, which developed a complaint system of its own, for alleviating appliances as the top complaint to her office.

Now people are annoyed about automobile servicing, complaining about the high cost of repairs, the time it takes and the unnecessary repairs made.

"Anything about a car outrages people if it goes wrong," she said.

Mrs. Knauer cited California's new auto repair licensing law as an experiment drawing the eyes of the other 49 states to see if it has success here.

"It may be the first step in that industry. Now if they don't deliver, they could lose their license," she said of auto repair firms in California.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Admire In-Laws, Don't Try To Match Their Perfection

DEAR HELEN:

I've read a lot about imperfect in-laws, but what do you do when yours are PERFECT? I mean really, I'm not being sarcastic. It's tough following an act like that.

My mother-in-law can entertain with no apparent effort, practically runs three social and political clubs, looks gorgeous, even when she's scrubbing out the bathtub, and manages to read all the latest books besides.

But my sister-in-law outshines her! She works; keeps house so you can eat off the floors (if you can assume the Lotus Position); she makes a master chef blush with shame the way she whips up homemade cream puffs, etc.; she wallpapers the house when she can't find anything better to do, like racing around playing Lady Bountiful to elderly aunts, with a bowl of chicken soup under her arm (homemade naturally).

Don't tell me I shouldn't feel inferior to them . . . hell, I AM inferior. So is everyone else. The amazing part is I like them. But I dread the day when my husband wakes up and sees he married a — KLUTZ

DEAR KLUTZ:

It's just possible your husband would rather have you "klutzy" than any other way. "Tough following an act like that," says you? Think how much tougher it is LIVING with it, if one can't match the perfection. Admire your in-laws but don't compete. Perhaps for the first time in his life, your man is able to relax. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Class reunions! Why don't they update them. I've never heard of one yet that doesn't offer prizes for:

1. Most children and (or) grandchildren;

2. Who has travelled the greatest distance. Then they usually introduce the guy who was the star quarterback; but never the class valedictorian.

In these days when producing vast numbers of offspring isn't the zenith of achievement and the rah-rahs are getting the haw-haws, why don't reunion planners single out people who have done most for their communities; tell a few success stories? Maybe then they'd draw more of the interesting alumni back to these now somewhat ghastly affairs. — TRIED IT, DIDN'T LIKE IT

DEAR TIDLI:

Maybe instead of asking "how many children?" reunionists should offer combat ribbons for most divorces, highest child support payments, greatest number of visits to psychiatrists . . .

Seriously, I doubt we'll ever change the format of class reunions. They're as locked into tradition as "The Star Spangled Banner" rendition — before major fooball games. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My heart goes out to the epileptic who lost many job opportunities and finally had to lie on his application form before he could find rewarding work. And to "Shunned," who was asked to resign from a church choir, due to "fits." By the grace of God, this has not happened to me.

I went to a normal employment agency after finishing college and got a job as secretary, with the agency knowing I am an epileptic (which is now almost completely under control).

Aside from being the mother of three children, I work for a Cultural Council, am chairwoman of a local club, and secretary for the County Epilepsy Society, whose aim is to broaden people's outlook toward epileptics. When I have a petit mal seizure people show concern and warmth, not shock.

There is hope for epileptics. What people understand they no longer fear. May your correspondents soon receive such understanding. — P.C.

ADVICE TO DRIVERS

Saving By Changing Habits

Automobile owners can save $100 or more a year by changing some of their driving habits, according to a newsletter for women motorists.

Motoress Aid gives the following advice to save:

The easiest way to cut your gasoline costs is to aovid wasting fuel. Here's how: After starting the engine, don't race it — that just pours gasoline into the carburetor and you get nothing in return. And, if the engine is cold, racing it before the oil has a chance to circulate freely causes excessive wear on engine parts — shortening their life considerably.

ALSO, CONTRARY to the common opinion that it's a good idea to warm up the engine for 5 to 10 minutes before driving it during cold winter days — this is not a proper habit. An idling engine does very little work, wastes gasoline and can cause harmful corrosive condensation. Taking off slowly after starting the engine and driving at moderate speed for the first mile or two actually warms the engine faster and more properly.

Always accelerate smoothly as if there was an egg between your foot and the gas pedal. This will help you save on gasoline and at the same time will help you reduce wear on your rear tires. It will also increase the life of your transmission by preventing overheating of the transmission fluid — a serious condition. Keeping your transmission cool is saving you money.

WHEN YOU see a red light or stop sign ahead, ease up on the accelerator and let the engine help slow the car as you approach the intersection. This will not only save gasoline, but will also substantially increase the life of your brake linings.

By downshifting to the next lowest gear while going down a steep hill or mountain road, the engine compression will help keep the car under better control without the need for pumping the brakes constantly or holding the brakes hard.

IT'S ALSO IMPORTANT to note that the faster you drive, the more gasoline your car consumes. Usually the average full size American car traveling between 75 and 80 miles per hour will use about twice as much gasoline as it would at 50 miles per hour. Although not as great, the fuel waste at high speeds is significant for smaller cars.

Government Now Prepared For Bike Safety Standards

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The federal government is preparing to issue safety standards for bicycles later this fall.

The Bureau of Product Safety feels that such standards could reduce the rising toll of injuries and deaths attributed to bicycles.

According to the National Safety Council, collisions between bikes and cars kill about 850 people and injure 40,000 more each year. The U.S. Public Health Service puts the total number of bicycle injuries close to 1 million a year.

Most of the victims are youngsters, and most of the injuries involve high-rise vehicles which have become popular in recent years.

A 1970 study by the Safety Council showed that high-rise bikes are involved in more than half the accidents though such bikes account for less than half the bicycles in use. A government survey of 166 bike injuries showed 92 involving high-rise vehicles and 42 involving standard ones.

RIDING A bicycle brings a certain amount of risk to the rider. Nobody expects to eliminate accidents or injuries. The goal is merely to reduce some of the more obvious hazards which may increase the chance and severity of serious injury.

The main areas of concern are the small front wheels, high handlebars and awkward placement of certain equipment. The so-called "sissy bar," which rises behind the seat, is criticized for making it difficult for the rider to dismount rapidly in case of emergency.

The samll front wheels and high handlebars make turning difficult for small children, who frequently have to handle vehicles too large for them. Many parents buy a bike larger than a child can handle on the theory that he will grow into it and thus avoid an extra bike purchase.

Another problem is the placement of gear shift levers on the horizontal bar so close to the seat that they cause serious genital injuries.

The bicycle industry itself has grown increasingly concerned about the accident statistics and the criticism aimed at bike design.

Manufacturers have developed a set of standards known as "BMA/6." Bicycles meeting these standards bear labels indicating so.

BUT THE standards are voluntary and do not go very far. Among their requirements are reflectorized pedals, front and rear reflectors, gear shifts as far forward as possible and both wheels of the same diameter.

The Bureau of Product Safety plans to adopt these standards plus others. The others would ban the "sissy bar," require lower seat posts, non-slip pedals and side reflectors. Also under consideration is elimination of front-wheel hand-brakes for the smallest youngsters.

Government officials have arranged a meeting with manufacturers in October. Federal standards may be issued shortly afterward for comment by any interested persons.

Neither government nor industry standards, however, can substitute for proper training and caution in the use of bicycles. Parents can do much to reduce accidents and injuries by considering safety features when buying bikes and by helping to train and educate youngsters in the use of them.

Some simply adjustments can eliminate some of the hazards on existing bicycles which do not meet present or proposed safety standards.

It's fun and you will enjoy the refreshing mummy wrap. Safe as a massage - the wrap feels cool and rather delicious. You can relax, enjoy a good book or just rest and day dream about the unwrap. Nothing could be less artificial - or more safe - than the wrap.

The Wrap is one of nature's great miracles. But the best part is unwrapping.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Birthday Editor:
If the U.S. is nearly 200 years old, why is it we are only celebrating the 100th anniversary of our National Park System this year? Wasn't anything done to protect the the land until 1872? M.G.P.

Dear P:
Not on a federal scale! Even after the Congress authorized the first nationalpark at Yellowstone on March 1, 1872, that was merely the first step. It took farsighted men like John Muir (born April 21, 1838) to campaign for more protection, which meant keeping men and sheep from clipping the forest bare. So this year we thank those who began a federal park program 100 years ago that today gives us 38 national parks to enjoy. We can thank Ferdinand Vandeveer Hayden (born Sept. 7, 1829) for leading the geological survey party in 1872 which established the boundries of Yellowstone and enabled Congress to protect its wonders against encroachment. At the Grand Tetons today (Sept. 18) the Second World Conference on National Park begins.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Just Knowing How To Play Won't Make You An Expert

Knowing how to bid and play will not make you a bridge expert. When your opponents get into an argument, they may ask you to settle it for them, and you have to know how to do this quickly and firmly. Test yourself on today's hand.

South dealer
Both sides vulnerable

NORTH
♠ J 8 6 5
♡ A Q 7 2
◇ Q 10 4

WEST

SOUTH

◇ A K 9
♣ K 8 2

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	All Pass

Opening lead — ♡ J

LED SMALL

Declarer took the first trick in dummy with the ace of hearts and led a small spade to finesse with the green. This won, but South still had to lose a trump trick to East. South also had to lose two clubs, but could ruff his last club in dummy and therefore made his contract.

Dummy began the hostilities: "Why didn't you lead the jack of spades for the first trump finesse? It couldn't cost anything. You'd capture the king and discover the bad break. You could easily get back to dummy and finesse through the ten. Why aren't you willing to score an extra 30 points without the slightest risk?"

ANSWERS QUESTION

South had an answer to this question. "I played the hand 20 seconds faster by taking only one trump finesse. That would give us more time for bridge if you'd only stop arguing."

That's when they turned to me to settle the argument. Since I had just lost the rubber, I was in no mood to discuss how the opponents could have scored an additional 30 points. "Shut up and deal," I growled.

BEST WAY

And there is the lesson, the result of 40 years of practice and study. Those four words are the best way to end a discussion and get the game started again.

When the game ends, you can tell North he was 100 per cent correct. Leading the jack for the first finesse cannot lose but may gain.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold:
♠ - None
♡ - J 10 9 6
◆ - 8 6 5 3 2
♣ - A 6 5 3.
What do you say?
ANSWER: Pass.

If you respond on this 5-point hand, your partner's next bid may be more spades and you will be even unhappier. The best way to stay out of trouble with a bad hand and a bad fit is to pass at your first opportunity.

Silver Dollars Will Be Sold

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The federal government will turn a nice profit, possibly as much as 400 per cent, on the sale of 2.9 million "cartwheel" dollars the U.S. Treasury didn't know it had.

The coins were minted in Carson City, Nev., from the famed Comstock lode between 1878 and 1891, but were never circulated.

General Services Administration auditors found the coins in their original mint bags in a sub-basement of the U.S. Treasury in Washington, D.C., in 1964.

THE "OLD LADY"

who lived in a shoe had so many children she didn't know what to do until she saw our shoe in San Anselmo. The "Old Lady" remarked, "My, you have five or six or even seven bedrooms, and I can train all my children to be Olympic Champions in the huge heated & filtered swimming pool." And after they're through, they won't catch cold because there are 2 fireplaces in this shoe. This is not an "Old Boot," by any means, and doesn't need a new heel or sole. If this shoe sounds good, then try it on.

Developers Ask Permit To Fill

Developers of the planned $35 million regional shopping center in Corte Madera have applied to the Army Corps of Engineers for a permit to place a million cubic yards f fill on the 75-acre site east of Highway 101.

According to the corps, the fill will be placed in two phases. First a central portion will be filled and compacted to an elevation of 9.8 feet above mean low water level. Then a surcharge will be put on top, spread over the entire acreage, and left for about a year.

The application for the fill permit was made by Ernest W. Hahn Inc., 2311 West El Segundo Blvd., Hawthorne, developers of the shopping center which is being supported by Corte Madera's redevelopment agency.

Any objections or comments on the fill permit applications may be made in triplicate to the corps at 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco, before Oct. 5.

'Exhaustion' Stops Groucho

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Groucho Marx may have suffered a series of mild strokes in anguish over the slaying of Israeli athletes in Munich, it was disclosed today.

The 86-year-old entertainer was severely upset by the Olympic killings and was hospitalized last week for "exhaustion." A spokesman for Marx said doctors suspected he suffered two or three mild strokes but will not know for sure until Tuesday when extensive medical tests are completed.

The spokesman said Marx was feeling much better and had been removed from the intensive care unit at Century City Hospital and put into a regular ward.

ART REVIEW

Decisive Craftsmanship In Marin Faculty Show

By ADA GARFINKEL

Decisive craftsmanship and incisive attitudes are characteristic of most of the work in the current Faculty Show at the College of Marin Fine Arts Gallery.

Introspection is the subject of Barrie McDowell's pair of sculptures, the smaller a foot-long polished chrome object. And newcomer Eric Stoelting's exquisite pencil drawing titled "Mitral Valve Replacement" is a close-up section of open-heart surgery.

This artist also has an ink drawing in a triangular frame of an anthropoid, showing the nine progressive stages described in his title: "Fear-anger Continuum, Stump-tail Macaque."

Another new faculty member, Richard Wold, presents a print of a hyperactive, potentially violent youngster in "Eric the Foo."

Introspection in the Renaissance visual sense is brought out in two oil paintings of his contemporaries by Bart Jones, while "The Hand of Buddha," a painted terra cotta sculpture by Ross Curtis, turns eastward. And Gil Wheat's "untitled" acrylic painting in soft pinks, browns and greys, with its scratchy surfaces and centrally clustered shape, is like an interior landscape with dream writing.

Alton Raible's "Self Portrait" drawing finds him ensconced in a crumpled and floating paper bag, and Martin Stoelzel's meticulous figure paintings carry judgmental connotations in his titles: "Cathedral of the Absurd, Patron's Main Altar," and "White Cargo."

A bizarre situation is projected by Alonso Gonzalez, who attaches a real zipper and message tag to a model's stomach, in his oil painting: "Painless Childbirth."

Other thought-provoking works are several massive steel sculptures by Farhad Moezzi; "Blood Boy" in bronze by Rick Hall; Allan Widenhofer's stoneware "Tree Fountain"; Richard Miller's ink drawing, "Before You Know It," and Tron Byke's circular "Path I."

Conceptual art is presented by Richard Marquis in the form of a graniteware coffee pot with conic sections marked off, and by Tom Meisenheimer in a graphic describing the process of human anatomical dissection. And photographer Ed Douglas improvises an unlikely happening between Smokey theBear and an old blue Ford.

Rounding out the faculty exhibit are two energy-field paintings by Bruce Lauritzen; a miniature stained-glass-bottle wall by David Arnold; covered ceramic jars by Dale Roush and Thano Johnson; hanging ceramic planters by Ann Jack; a handsome pendant necklace by Nancy Bott, and an actively agile football scene in bold colors by Betty Wilson.

The gallery is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. weekdays. The exhibit will continue through Oct. 13.

Tax Bill Chairman Steps Down

Robert A. Roumiguiere of San Rafael, a leading candidate for John F. McInnis's vacant seat on the county board of supervisors, has resigned as Marin chairman of the campaign for the Watson tax revision initiative.

The initiative's primary opponent in the Legislature is Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who will have a major voice in recommending candidates for appointment by the governor to replace McInnis.

Roumiguiere, declaring he still will push for passage of the initiative, Proposition 14 on the November ballot, said he resigned as its local chairman to avoid "a slap in the face" to both Bagley and the governor, who also strongly oppose the initiative.

Roumiguiere insisted that he had not resigned to enhance his chance of being appointed to the board of supervisors.

He said he had resigned from the chairmanship last week, but added he will do anything the local campaign committee asks him to do to help it pass.

The initiative would limit sharply the property tax levies that could be imposed by local government.

Rembrandt Goes For 'A Bargain'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jan Kolar, an engineer who said he doesn't know much about art, paid $7,700 at auction for a Rembrandt pen and wash drawing titled "Study of an Aged Woman."

The drawing was valued at more than $10,000 when it was appraised three years ago, because it is one of only 25 known signed sketches by Rembrandt.

Star of Siam, which handled the auction for the sketch's owner, Los Angeles Baptist College, called Kolar's purchase a bargain.

Asked if he had an art collection, or was a connoisseur, Kolar of Laguna Beach, Calif., replied: "No, but I've heard of Rembrandt."

'Boom Or Boomerang' For Marin?

As many questions about Marin's growth were raised as answered Saturday at a conference arranged by Marin Alternative at Dominican College in San Rafael.

About 200 people attended the third annual conference which had as its theme: "Growth — Boom or Boomerang?"

It was a mixture of Levis and backpacks, chic pantsuits and suits and ties; bicycles, motorists and walkers.

Five workshops discussed, but didn't resolve,some penetrating questions.

Can population growth be limited by law? What health services are affected by growth? How can the demand for open space be resolved along with the need for housing for all income groups? What should the priorities be for transportation needs of local and commute traffic? What are the implications of reclaiming and recycling waste water?

Amid objections of vagueness, several resolutions were adopted for consideration by the steering committee of Marin Alternative.

They included: that the Marin Transit District place top priority on a free, public intracounty transportation system; that all expansion of water and sewage systems be subjected to vote until a master plan is adopted and that a countywide health information and referral service be established.

Dr. Donald Watson of Livermore, chairman of the Clean Air Coordinating Committee, luncheon speaker, outlined his group's successful campaign to limit growth in the Livermore-Amador Valley.

He said voters in the 100-square-mile area recently passed an initiative preventing the issuance of building permits for new subdivisions if they contribute either to overcrowded schools, overburdened sewage facilities or water shortages.

He advised the audience to campaign for the inclusion of air quality as an environmental consideration in any general plan that is adopted.

Dr. Jay Martin Anderson, a member of a two-year research project on the limits of growth at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said all evidence indicates that on a global scale, the death rate will overtake the birth rate sometime in the next century.

Presenting slides of technical graphs, he said that even if pollution were to be controlled immediately and agricultural productivity substantially increased that the long-range effects of pollution were already under way.

"Up until a few years aog," he said, "I thought science and technology could solve all problems."

In response to questions, he said critical limitation of resources could very well lead to international warfare.

James S. Rummonds of Palo Alto, a member of the Presidential Commission on Population Growth and the American Future, urged the audience to bring their ecological arguments to local regulatory agencies.

These agencies, he said, citing city councils, county boards of supervisors, zoning boards and special districts, in essence, control population policies.

He said the commission found that on the average, 50 to 80 per cent of the members of these agencies are landowners, developers, real estate agents or insurors, all with some kind of special interests in their decisions.

However, he added that Marin's agencies don't appear to come anywhere close to that high a percentage.

He urged the group to investigate the interests of members of all local regulatory agencies for just that reason.

TIGHT SECURITY FOR U.N.

People seeking entrance to the United Nations Secretariat in New York today found new tight security measures awaiting them, as guards carefully screened credentials. The precautions were ordered to protect diplomats in the wake of the Olympic Massacre, one of the subjects to be discussed as the U.N. opens its 27th session tomorrow.

Tanzanian Invaders 'Routed'

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI)— Uganda said today it had routed an invading force of 1,500-Ugandan exiles from Tanzania and that its bombers had struck at their base in the neighboring country.

A Dar-Es-Salaam dispatch said one of two planes believed to be Ugandan hit the Tanzanian town of Bukova on Lake Victoria 20 miles south of the Uganda border and that unconfirmed reports said four persons were killed.

A military spokesman in Kampala said Ugandan tanks, infantry and paratroopers, supported by its small air force and navy, had retaken three towns overrun by the invaders Sunday night and driven the attackers off from the administrative center of Mbarara, 160 miles southwest of here.

He said casualty figures by mid-day were 200 enemy troops killed, including three identified as Israelis, with nine Ugandan soldiers killed.

In Dar-Es-Salaam, the capital of Tanzania, an army source said 1,000 troops had been moved to the Ugandan border with instructions not to provoke any incidents or cross into Uganda.

The Ugandan spokesman said air force planes had bombed enemy positions in the northwest Tanzanian town of Bukoba, 20 miles south of the Uganda border on the shores of Lake Victoria. All planes had re turned safely, he said.

Ugandan President Idi Amin, in his first public comment today on the fighting, said Britain was planning to send troops to Uganda to fight alongside the estimated 1,500 invaders who he said crossed the border from Tanzania early Sunday.

The Foreign Office in London denied the charge.

Radio Uganda, which broadcast the president's statement, today said the invaders had been identified as Ugandan exiles who fled the country when Amin deposed Milton Obote as president 20 months ago.

Previously the radio said the attackers were Tanzanians.

The radio said one of the main goals of the invasion was to halt the expulsion of Asians from Uganda. But a government spokesman said the exiled group, the first of which reached Britain today, were going ahead as scheduled.

The Ugandan announcement said: "The enemy troops who are on the retreat have been surrounded by the air and seaborne and Simba (Lion) battalions." The Simba battalion is based at Mbarara.

Uganda's claim of a Tanzanian invasion is the latest round of the dispute which began when Idi Amin, a Uganda major general, overthrew Obote in January, 1971, while Obote was out of the country. Obote returned to neighboring Tanzania and there has been a war of words for 20 months.

Many of Obote's supporters also fled to Tanzania and there have been repeated charges that Tanzania was preparing some sort of military action against Amin. There were numerous minor border clashes, and a new blowup last month when Aman claimed that all of Lake Victoria rightly belonged to Uganda; Tanzania had always claimed part of the lake.

Tanzania has an air force of about 500 men—but no planes. Uganda has an airforce of 600 men and 21 combat aircraft, including seven MIG15s and MIG17s. Tanzania has some Chinese medium and light tanks and Soviet and Chinese field artillery; Uganda has British medium tanks, scout cars and armored personnel carriers. Tanzania's total armed force is reported at 11,100 and Uganda at 12,600.

Tanzania, which includes the island of Zanzibar, lies on the East coast of Africa. To the north across Lake Victoria lies the much smaller, landlocked nation of Uganda. They have a narrow frontier west of the lake although Kenya and the tiny state of Rwanda separate most of the two countries.

The towns reported recaptured were Kyotera and Kalisizo, both of which lie south of Masaka, 80 miles west of here.

Nixon Steps Up War Against Narcotics

Stops Aid To Countries Protecting Traffickers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Terming the battle against drug abuse "one of the most urgent national priorities," President Nixon said today he would suspend all U.S. assistance to nations whose leaders protect narcotics traffickers.

In an address to the International Narcotics Control Conference at the State Department, Nixon ticked off steps his administration had taken to crack down on drug peddlers.

He said more federally funded drug treatment facilities had been created in his administration than in the 50 previous years, with help now available to 100,000 heroin addicts a year. This will be increased to a million per year if Congress approves his requests for funds, he said.

The number of arrests of drug traffickers doubled last year over the previous year, and recent sharp increases in heroin prices furnish evidence of the effectiveness of the crackdown, Nixon said.

Nixon claimed to have "knocked some bureaucratic heads together" to cut through red tape and eliminate interagency rivalries, and pledged:

"We are going to keep the heat on until these despicable profiteers in human misery are driven out of their hiding places and are put in prison where they belong."

Nixon's declaration that he would cut off both economic and military assistance to countries not cooperating in the campaign against drug traffic was the latest in a long series of steps he has announced in this area since taking office. It also appeared to be at least partially a response to Sen. George S. McGovern.

McGovern, noting that Nixon was appearing before the narcotics control meeting, accused the President of turning his head to heavy drug trafficking from Southeast Asia.

"One-quarter to one-third of the heroin entering the United States comes from Southeast Asia," the Democratic presidential nominee said Sunday.

"...The reason that Richard Nixon has been unable to prevent this is that our allies in Laos, Thailand and South Vietnam are involved in the narcotics trade. The administration does not crack down on them because it needs air bases in Thailand, Lao mercenaries and Vietnamese soldiers to fight its war."

In his speech, Nixon said: "The men and women who operate the global heroin trade are a menace not to Americans alone, but to all mankind.

"These people are literally the slave traders of our time—they are traffickers in living death. They must be hunted to the end of the earth. They must be left no base in any nation for their operations.

"They must be permitted not a single hiding place or refuge from justice anywhere in the world."

Federal Case Sought By Some Over Story On Food Stamps

Marin County officials today sought to make a federal case of an Independent-Journal reporter's disclosure of how easy it is to get food stamps illegally.

Reaction to the report Friday by reporter Marlene Freedman ranged from praise to hints that she and others could be prosecuted for conspiracy under federal law.

Miss Freedman, masquerading as an unwed, unemployed mother deserted by her breadwinning boyfriend, got $64 worth of federal food stamps after about 20 minutes performing in the offices of the county's public social services department.

The performance was an experiment to test reported laxity in administering the food stamp program.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, reacting today to the story, said anyone who falsifies records should be prosecuted, whether a reporter or not. He said he will bring the matter up at tomorrow's board meeting to "review what occurred and existing procedures" to check eligibility.

Hiring more investigators might be "spending $100,000 to lop off $20,000 misspent," he said.

Donald Sanford, assistant director of the county department, said that only a small number of food stamps recipients are checked to see if their applications are truthful.

Sanford, who has declined to discuss the matter on the county counsel's advice, said he has referred it as well to state and federal officials, including the office of the inspector general in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's regional office in San Francisco. Federal and state officials could not be reached for comment.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. took a softer stance, saying there was no easy answer to cheating in the program since detailed information never has been presented to the board.

Arrigoni said the county should be given more power to set eligibility standards for recipients and that income tax returns be checked to establish eligibility.

Supervisors Louis H. Baar and Michael Wornum could not be reached.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said his office was researching the case, and added that it could be turned over to the U.S. attorney's office for possible prosecution under federal law.

Deputy County Counsel Thomas G. Hendrix said that Miss Freedman apparently had perjured herself when she signed a declaration in the county department that the personal information she gave was true. He said it was routine for Sanford's department to refer cases of possible fraud to the Bales' office and to the state and federal officials.

Hendrix's boss, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, said Miss Freedman should be prosecuted as any other person who perjures himself.

The maximum penalty under state law in the case would be a $500 fine and six months in the county jail. Under federal law, the maximum penalty would be a $5,000 fine and one year in prison.

If prosecuted as a conspiracy, the penalty could be far more severe.

PETALUMA DRUBS DRAKE

Tim Wallmark threw a 26-yard touchdown pass to Tom Mercado with one minute, 16 seconds remaining Saturday to give Petaluma High School a 12-7 football victory over Drake High at College of Marin in Kentfield.

In other games involving teams from Marin and Southern Sonoma counties, San Rafael demolished Lincoln of San Francisco, 38-0; Novato whitewashed Riordan of San Francisco, 19-0; Tamalpais lost to Bishop O'Dowd of Oakland, 8-2; and Tomales fell to Cloverdale, 19-6.

College of Marin lost to Merced College, 46-23.

Officials Dispute Account Allegations

San Rafael Asst. City Mgr. William J. Bielser said today that a revolving cash fund record which claims $60 was spent in an April 4 luncheon he shared with Councilman Lawrence F. Mulryan and the "Bureau of Outdoor Recreation" is incorrect.

Bielser said the $60, reported in an Independent-Journal story Friday, was a council authorized advance and that he returned $39.25 of the sum, as asserted in a separate "turn-in" transaction through the city treasurer's office on April 28.

Bielser said that he shared the luncheon with Mulryan, Jerry Russom, president of the Mont Marin Homeowners Association, and a Department of Interior official. The meeting concerned the Mont Marin assessment district, Bielser said.

Councilman John A. Miskimen said that though revolving account records claim he and Mrs. Miskimen received two $20 tickets to a San Francisco Bay Area Council dinner meeting on May 26, he and his wife never attended the meeting. Miskimen said he refunded the money to the city.

The officials' comments were in regard to the I-J report on luncheons held by city officials and charged to the city.

Finance Director John B. Averett said mention of the refunds was not made on original expense records because "it would serve no useful purpose."

"We don't go back and annotate the records. That's not a proper accounting procedure," Averett said.

Open Space Balloting Tomorrow

San Rafael residents will vote tomorrow on a $2.25 million bond issue aimed at preserving some of the city's fast disappearing open space.

A two-thirds majority of the votes cast is needed to pass the bond issue. The measure at the outset would cost taxpayers about 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, with the levy gradually decreasing over a 25 year period.

No priority list of parcels to acquire has yet been established by the city council.

Some 20,909 residents are registered and elegible to vote in the election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Expense Of Lawmakers: $2 Million So Far In '72

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Salaries and personal expenses of state legislators have cost California taxpayers $2 million so far this year, records of Controller Houston I. Flournoy showed today.

Of that, roughly $1.5 million was for salaries and the remaining approximately half million dollars went for personal expenses of legislators.

The lawmakers are now on vacation and will return Nov. 8, but during the first eight months of 1972, the typical assemblyman and senators received about $18,500.

Legislator's base pay to date is $12,800. Anything over that is expense money to date.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, was listed in the salary and expense records of Flournoy as the Legislature's biggest spender at $21,324. Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield, R-South Gate, was recorded as the smallest of the full-term lawmakers at $17,115.

Senator Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, occupied middle ground between Sen. James D. Mills, D-San Diego, with $20,116 in salary and expenses and least expensive Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, at $17,200.

California lawmakers are paid $19,200 a year in salaries, the highest in the nation. Additionally, they receive $30 a day, tax free, for expenses while the Legislature is in session or while they are on official business.

They also are entitled to late model automobiles leased by the state, rent-free officespace, an office staff and unlimited use of oil company credit cards.

The records show that from January through August, the 80-member Assembly spent $1.31 million for salary and expenses while the 40-member Senate spent $723,368.

The virtually year-round 1971 session cost $3.4 million for lawmaker salaries and expenses.

Officially authorized travel, approved by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, and the Senate Rules Committee, accounted for a major share of the total.

For example, Bagley, chairman of the Assembly Welfare Committee and a close friend of Health, Education and Welfare Undersecretary John Veneman, made three trips to Washington, one to Salem, Ore., and another to Denver.

Bagley's travels involved discussions with federal and state officials on welfare, taxes and school finance, the controller's records showed.

Unlike the Assembly, the reasons for Senate travel authorizations are not detailed for the state controller. They are approved by the Senate Rules Committee which does not specify a reason for the trip.

Members of a committee looking into the feasibility of constructing a new state Capitol last month traveled to Albany, N.Y., to examine a new state building complex there.

In January, Assemblyman Paul Priolo, R-Pacific Palisades, chairman of the Land Use Committee, and Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, chairman of the Assembly Judiciary Committee, went to Hawaii to discuss land use law and planning with Hawaii officials.

In February, Assemblymen Eugene Chappie, R-Cool, Newton Russell, R-Tujunga, Ernest Mobley, R-Sanger, and Kent Stacey, R-Bakersfield, visited Ft. Bliss, Tex., and the New Orleans Naval Station on a trip "relating to enlistment practices in the National Guard."

Ryan traveled to Washington in April "to meet with various congressional leaders regarding busing and other matters affecting this legislature."

Paper Claims Hundreds Killed By Israel In Raids Of Lebanon

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Beirut afternoon newspaper Lissan Al-Hal said today the weekend Israeli raids into southern Lebanon killed "hundreds" of persons and caused damage to towns and villages estimated in the millions of dollars. However the newspaper Al Nahar put the death toll closer to 80.

Israel today marked Judaism's most solemn holy day, Yom Kippur, with a report of even more fighting on the northern frontier following the weekend raid into southern Lebanon and said there were artillery duels with Syrian guns in the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights.

Lissan AL-Hal, commenting on the aftermath of the 36-hour Israeli incursion into Lebanon, said the government had not issued a final casualty toll because reports of dead and injured were still arriving in the capital.

One official quoted by the newspaper said more than 70 villages and towns in the south have remained without water supplies since Saturday because the Israelis blew up the water treatment station at Taibeh.

The Taibeh treatment plant, which cost $334,000, was inaugurated only a few weeks ago. Water tanker trucks have been carrying water to the affected areas.

The newspaper published the names of scores of civilian casualties.

Shortly after Israeli armored columns withdrew from Lebanon Sunday in time for the sundown start of the holy day of atonement, military sources said, gunners in nearby Syria opened fire with mortars on the Israeli-held Golan Heights.

Israeli artillerymen answered with a barrage at the mortar positions in Syria, the source said, and there were no reports of damage or casualties in the 9 p.m. exchange.

The weekend attacks into Lebanon were reported directed against areas believed to be strongholds of Palestinian guerrillas, and for the first time the Lebanese army fought back.

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — The 12-year-old son of State Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, was injured during the weekend when an elephant crushed his foot against a wall at Marine World-Africa USA.

Milton Marks III was given emergency treatment at the park Saturday and was then taken to his San Francisco home. He was confined to bed Sunday.

Chile Marking Its Anniversary

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)— Religious leaders pleaded for an end to political hatred in Chile Monday on the 162nd anniversary of the nation's independence.

President Salvador Allende, his cabinet and members of the diplomatic corps attended the service at the metropolitan cathedral.

The ceremony was held five days after the Marxist president accused "Fascist groups" of drawing up an elaborate "September Plan" to overthrow his government this month.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Aid Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee tday voted $4.2 billion for the overall foreign assistance program for the current year, although some doubt remained that the Senate would approve a sizable portion of it.

The total is $1 billion more than appropriated for similar programs last year, but close to $1 billion less than had been asked by the administration for the current fiscal year, which began July 1.

The money bill would provide nearly $1.2 billion for economic assistance programs, close to $2 billion for military aid, military budgetary support and military credit sales abroad, and more than $1 billion for such other programs as the Peace Corps, Cuban refugee relief, Bangladesh and Soviet refugee assistance, Inter-American Bank, and the International Development Association.

Three Divers Die

MARIANNA, Fla. (UPI) — The bodies of three members of a Georgia diving club were recovered yesterday from an underground cavern where they had drowned while exploring the murky depths of an underground stream.

A spokesman for the Jackson County sheriff's office said three other divers, two women and a man, went down into Blue Springs Mill Pond Saturday and returned safely. They notified authorities when the first group failed to surface.

The sheriff's office speculated that one of the divers may have become lost and the other two went looking for him and drowned.

Lawmaker Killed

NEPTUNE, N.J. (UPI) — State Assemblyman Silvio J. Failla apparently was shot and killed Saturday night during a struggle with a holdupman, police said yesterday.

Failla, 62, was found on a street in this resort community semi-conscious but unable to talk. He had been shot seven times. Police said an expensive watch and a wallet containing "a fairly large sum of money" were missing.

Failla was pronounced ead on arrival at the New Jersey Shore Medical Center. An autopsy revealed he had been shot twice in the head and five times in the left side, apparently with a handgun.

Police said he was returning to his summer home in Spring Lake from a day of golfing in northern New Jersey and apparently had stopped for a drink here before he was shot walking the one block to his car.

Stormy Arrival

TAIPEI (UPI) — Japanese special envoy Etsusaburo Shiina, who survived a stormy greeting by student protestors on his arrival yesterday, met Foreign Minister Shen Changhua today to explain Japan's new pro-Peking policy to Nationalist China.

Shiina looked tense but appeared not overly disturbed by the mob of about 500 students who halted his motorcade from the airport to downtown Taipei, kicking his car and beating on it with sticks.

The Nationalist government has angrily protested Japan's decision to break relations with it and establish ties with Peking.

Rep. Ryan Dies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rep. William Fitts Ryan, a pioneer critic of the Vietnam War and the first reform Democrat ever elected to Congress from New York, died last night of throat cancer. He was 50.

Ryan was the first congressman to vote against funds for the Vietnam War. Throughout his career, he was considered one of the most liberal members of the House.

Ryan was exhausted by the recent Democratic primary campaign, in which he defeated Congresswoman Bella Abzug in a race made necessary by reapportionment. Doctors said surgery he underwent in July for a perforated ulcer further weakened him, making him vulnerable to a recurrence of the throat cancer for which he underwent surgery in 1970.

Bobby Returns

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bobby Fischer, first American to win the world chess championship, flew home last night from Iceland looking rested and happy.

Rischer, wearing a plaid summerweight suit, walked briskly from the Icelandic jet to a limousine sent by Mayor John V. Lindsay.

To newsmen who shouted questions at him during the brisk 300-yard walk, Fischer said, "It's great to be back in America." Asked what his plans are, he replied, "I'm going to sleep." Asked where, he said, "In a bed."

Carrying a dog-eared wreath which was awarded him at the championship chess match, Fischer said he doesn't know whether he will attend the Chess Olympiad which starts Monday in Skopje, Yugoslavia.

Deadly Marksmen

BELFAST (UPI) — British army officers said today the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) is using a new breed of disciplined and deadly marksmen against troops in Northern Ireland.

"Make no mistake," an army spokesman said, "these men are just plain murderers. But as snipers they are top men, in a class by themselves. They have training, but good."

He spoke after nearly a week of attacks in which snipers in Belfast and Londonderry brought down a British soldier with nearly every shot from their high-velocity rifles.

He said the snipers were known to have U.S. Armalite rifles and at least two other kinds used by British troops. One, the "303," has an accuracy range of up to 1,000 yards, he said.

Valuable Art Found

NEW YORK (UPI) — Working on an anonymous tip, city detectives, railroad police and FBI agents opened a baggage locker in Grand Central Station Sunday and recovered $150,000 to $200,000 in stolen art works.

The 33 prints, four books and a woodcut were found in the locker. Although an inventory had not been completed, police said they included works by Toulouse-Lautrec, Picasso and the Norwegian impressionist Edvard Munch.

According to members of the city police art squad, the works had been stolen from "major institutions" in the city, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Museum of Modern Art and the New York Public Library, and museums in other parts of the country.

Police said the art works probably would have been smuggled to Europe or Latin America and sold to private collectors.

Former Rivals Gain Contracts

DOWNEY, Calif. (UPI)— North American Rockwell Corp., which won the $2.6 billion NASA contract to build the space shuttle, distributed more than $12 million in subcontract work to two former rivals— Grumman and McDonnell Douglas.

Northern American Rockwell competed with both firms for the prime contract.

North American's space division president, Joseph McNamara, announced the awards Sunday, saying the technological capability developed by the other firms "represents a perishable pool which could soon diminish if not effectively utilized."

The Grumman Aerospace Corp. received subcontracts estimated to be worth more than $8 million, and McDonnell Douglas Corp. for more than $4 million.

LATE SUMMER HEAT SPELL

Temperatures soared in Western Pennsylvania yesterday, and Penny Katsafanas of Pittsburgh was one of many people who sought relief in park and recreation areas. She played frisbee in 80-degree heat at Schenley Park in the Steel City. (UPI Telephoto)

Saigon Marines Take Another Key Sector; Reds In New Attack

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese marines today secured another key sector near the Citadel at reoccupied Quang Tri City, prepared to push further north and said Communist resistance was at its lowest point in nearly three months.

But other Communist troops launched a wave of attacks against strategic government outposts along the central coast and correspondents were warned it was not advisable to try to reach the area.

U.bs. warplanes stayed well away from the Hanoi area Sunday because of the release ceremony for three American war prisoners but flew 330 bombing strikes elsewhere across North Vietnam, the U.S. command said. One American jet was shot down by a surfaceto-air (SAM) missile and the two crewmen were listed as missing.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command also disclosed the loss Sept. 12 of an Air Force F4 Phantom jet to a North Vietnamese MIG and said both crewmembers are missing. An American crew downed a MIG over the North Saturday.

South Vietnamese military spokesmen said today government paratroopers had pushed across the Thach Han River north of Quang Tri City, 435 miles north of Saigon, in their northernmost drive since the Communists seized control of the province May 1. Government marines recaptured the city's fortress Citadel Friday.

POWs Released To Peace Group

TOKYO (UPI)—North Vietnam Sunday released three American prisoners of war to their waiting relatives and a U.S. peace group in Hanoi, the Communist Vietnam News Agency (VNA) said.

The VNA dispatch, monitored in Tokyo, said "a moving moment followed" when two of the three men—all pilots—were reunited with members of their families in the downtown ceremony.

The report said the prisoners "joyfully greeted" peace committee members David Dellinger, Mrs. Cora Weiss, Princeton University Prof. Richard Falk and The Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr. of Yale University.

The three men, all pilots, were Navy Lt. (j.g.) Markham L. Gartley of Dunedin, Fla., captured Aug. 17, 1969; Navy Lt. Norris Alphonzo Charles of San Diego, Calif., captured Dec. 30, 1971, and Air Force Maj. Edward Knight Elias, of Valdosta, Ga., captured April 20.

Charles' wife and Gartley's mother accompanied the peace group, called "The Committee of Liaison with the Families of American Servicemen Detained in North Vietnam," to Hanoi to meet the prisoners.

VNA said that after the ceremony the pilots, "their families and the peace group drove to the hotel reserved for them." A Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) radio report from Hanoi said the pilots and the visiting American group were expected to take "some tours of damaged areas" before returning to the United States.

It was not known what route the group would take out of Hanoi, but it was considered likely they would fly to Moscow on the Soviet Aeroflot airline next Saturday through Vientiane, Laos.

What PG&E is doing to keep you from running out of gas.

For years, natural gas has been an abundant, economical fuel and the major source of clean energy in this area. However, gas reserves are diminishing and the price is going up.

In some parts of the nation there are natural gas shortages already. Not so here, now. Our residential, commercial and standard rate industrial customers need not be concerned at this time about our capability to serve their requirements.

However, we may have to curtail the gas service of our lower rate "interruptible" industrial customers during cold spells this coming winter season in order to meet the public's heating requirements.

Faced with the growing gas supply problem, here's what we're doing:

1. Participating financially in gas exploratory projects in the Rocky Mountains, Canada and Alaska.
2. Encouraging California suppliers to find new fields within the state.
3. Studying the potential of synthetic natural gas and the import of liquefied natural gas from other continents.
4. Contributing $335,000 per year for four years to industry-wide research on gasification of coal.
5. Investigating coal reserves in the United States and Canada suitable for gasification.
6. Planning and building nuclear-fueled power plants which do not use gas or oil as fuel.

It all boils down to this: The era of abundant, low-cost natural gas in this nation has ended. The cost of gas has been rising. New gas supplies will be more difficult to obtain and probably will come from more distant places, hence will be even more costly. Inevitably, our rates will have to reflect these rising costs. We urge all our customers to make prudent use of this natural resource. PG and E

Voters will be asked on Oct. 3 whether they want to authorize $1.25 million worth of bonds to purchase about 125 acres of unspecified open space along Tiburon's ridgelands.

McGovern Blasts Nixon For 'Sitting On Poll'

LOGAN, W. Va. (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern drove two hours through winding mountain roads today to stand in the courthouse square here and denounce President Nixon for "sitting there in the White House smugly on top of his Gallup Poll."

Addressing a cheering crowd of about 1,000 townspeople, McGovern charged Nixon had "broken more promises than any other president in the history of the United States." He predicted Nixon would never come to Logan County unless he "drops in from a helicopter" and characterized the President as sitting out the campaign without even telling the voters what his name is.

"They call it the Committee to Re-elect the President," he said. "He doesn't even tell us what his name is. If my name were Nixon I'd keep it a secret too."

McGovern charged Nixon in 1968 promised five million new jobs, but instead through his economic policies had taken away the jobs of two million. He said it was "an insult" to unemployed West Virginians who take pride in hard honest work "to talk about them in cold and scoffing terms."

Nearly 4,000 local leaders attended the union convention that began today, and will run for the rest of the week.

Union President I. W. Abel, one of those who led the fight against giving AFL-CIO support to McGovern in his campaign for the presidency, said the issue would be thrashed out in full at the convention, but predicted the union would stand firm in favor of "neutrality."

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson said America must listen to its young and be willing to accept change if it is to remain great, It was his first public speech since his heart attack last Marsh.

"This nation came into being because people wanted change," Johnson told 1,800 persons at ceremonies marking the 75th anniversary of Scott and White Hospital in Temple. He is a former trustee of the hospital.

"The most fightening thing that could happen to us today would be for us to close our eyes to new idea and close our ears to those —particularly the young —in whom we have invested so much hope and effort through the years of our existence, and who are trying to tell us how they would go about perfecting the visions of America the beautiful, America the just, America the land of the free and the home of the brave," Johnson said.

Mrs. Shriver Talks At Jewish Rally

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eunice Shriver appealed for "love, wisdom and compassion" in the world Sunday at a Jewish rally. She spoke to about 2,000 persons gathered behind the White House to protest the emigration tax levied on Jews in the Soviet Union.

"We must all speak out against the persecution of Jews," she said, "and that persecution must stop." She substituted for her hsuband, Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver.

HERE'S HEALTH!
by JUNE EMBURY

Because of the nutritional importance of organ meats, we're following up last week's discussion by Dr. Carleton Fredericks and our brief reference to MALABAR. It's made from 100% pure beef organ meats; has no fillers; no cassein, milk or soy powder and provides 90% protein supplementation. Fat and fibres are removed for "intensified energy" and the organs are desiccated for easy digestion. Physicians are often concerned about "purines" in organ meats, which can spell trouble for some individuals. Purines are eliminated in MALABAR's preparation.

You may choose it in convenient tablet form or as a powder, to be blended into milk or juices. Either way, customers tell us they feel an energy pick-up after the first day's trial and that they consider it to be an indispensable part of their diet. Next week: Word of an exciting new product for maximum pet nutrition!

Benefit Nets $200 Toward Trip For Dance

A benefit dance and show in San Francisco Saturday night raised approximately $200 toward sending Scott Fetterly and Karen Keller of Novato to Australia to represent the United States in an international dance competition, according to Mrs. Ronald G. Keller, Karen's mother.

Mrs. Keller said that she thinks that they now will have enough for the young dance couple to make the trip. Holiday Magic donated the plane tickets to the couple, she said.

Other donations from Independent-Journal employees and management, individuals and a rummage sale to be held in Modesto should bring in the money she said. Mrs. Keller said that with the plane tickets, the couple needs about $500 to $600 for hotel and expenses.

Contributions may still be sent to the Overseas Travel Fund, 1130 Ferris Drive, Novato.

Finance Status To Be Discussed

The Novato Unified School District board will consider formation of a community task force to study the district's financial status at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Novato High School lecture hall.

Trustees also are expected to react to a suit filed last week by the American Civil Liberties Union asking that homosexual speakers be allowed to speak at San Marin High School.

Trustees also will review a list of building needs including a location for North Marin High School, now housed in leased quarters.

Development Limit On Novato Agenda

The Novato City Council will consider establishing flood control districts to limit development along Novato Creek at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Novato Community House.

Proposed is that building be banned in the creek channel and restricted in nearby lands where flooding could occur.

2 Developments On Corte Madera Council's List

Corte Madera Town Council will occupy itself with two continuing controversial developments on the east side of town at its meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall: the multi-unit Madera del Presidio project and the Quarry site.

Yet another chapter in the lengthy saga of Madera del Presidio is slated to be written when councilmen consider the question of school site designation. A letter from Mill Valley School District Board will inform them of a "hands-off" attitude by that district.

On the Quarry site — now zoned R-4 — councilmen will hear a report from planning consultants Sedway and Cooke which was paid for by American Savings and Loan Assn., who want to develop the 23.69 acres.

Ferry Proposal Before Council

The Sausalito City Council will hold an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today to discuss proposals from the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District to build a new ferry terminal in Sausalito.

The bridge district has already presented plans to build a new terminal at either it existing downtown site or in the Marinship area.

Representatives from the Sausalito Citizens Council are expected to attend today's meeting to oppose any proposal that would cause additional congestion in the downtown area with commuter bus traffic.

More Agency Members On List

The Corte Madera Redevelopment Agency — composed of town councilmen —will consider a request to add two appointed members to its board when it meets tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m.

The request comes from the Mariner Cove Improvement Assn., whose board of directors last week decided the agency had too much power over school district finances.

Also on the agenda is a contract with Sedway and Cooke planning consultants, and selection of a municipal finance consultant.

Choking Attempt Is Reported

A tall, black-haired man climbed in a window of the Marin Foundation Home at 622 Tamalpais Avenue Saturday night and tried to choke a girl resident, reported Corte Madera police today.

Genene Marie Ash was awakened by someone choking her, said police, and her ucreams awoke another girl, Tina M. Spry, who saw the assailant climbing out of the window.

Police, who are still investigating the incident, said flowers were smashed down outside the home.

Photo of House In Forest Knolls

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in identifying a home destroyed by fire which appeared in a page-one photograph.

Condition Good

Peter Willard, 20, of Sebastopol, was reported in good condition at Community Hospital of Sonoma County with internal injuries suffered when his car ran off Shoreline Highway into a ditch at 2:45 a.m. today. The California Highway Patrol had no details on the accident three miles north of Marshall.

Man, 51, Dies After Crash On Mountain

A 51-year-old San Francisco man, who had appeared uninjured in a head-on collision on Mount Tamalpais yesterday, collapsed in the tow truck removing his car and died.

Cause of the death of Patrick Joseph MacNeill will be determined by autopsy, accoridng to Deputy Coroner Bill J. Thomas.

The California Highway Patrol reported that MacNeil was eastbound on Ridgecrest Boulevard at 3 p.m. when his car collided head-on with one driven west by Sylvester Hazzard Christie, 27, of Oakland.

MacNeil did not appear to be injured but collapsed in the tow truck while his car was being towed away, patrolmen reported.

Kristi Leatherwood, 21, of Berkeley, a passenger in the Christie car received a cut forehead, patrolmen reported.

MacNeil was born in Canada. He had lived in Los Angeles and San Mateo for 15 years prior to moving to San Francisco a year ago. He was a commodities broker and partner in J and J Associates of San Francisco.

He is survived by several brothers, his mother and two children, all of Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Boas Declares Opposition To Air Base Joint Use

Democratic congressional candidate Roger Boas today declared his opposition to civilian use of Hamilton Air Force Base.

Once commercial aviation got a foothold at Hamilton, he said in a letter to Marin Alert, "the people would have limited, if any, control over its future growth. The potential, additional noise factor alone is cause for deep concern and opposition," he said.

The San Francisco supervisor also criticized the Republican incumbent, William S. Mailliard of San Francisco, for displaying "so little interestin the matter." Boas promised that, if elected in November, he would "take an active role in this matter."

Mailliard has not taken a position in the controversy.

He added that an independent environmental study should be made of the proposal. If it concludes that joint use would not harm the environment, he said, then the issue should be reopened.

Gallinas Opens Registration

Registration for the Gallinas Village Community Services District fall recreation program will be held from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. tomorrow and Wednesday, and 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday at the recreation center on Adrian Way.

Activities for preschool children, teen-agers, and adults will be offered.

Additional information may be obtained from the Gallinas Village CSD office.

WORD-A-DAY

Captured Whale Dies In Transit

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Tootoo the whale, who survived a two week journey from Hudson's Bay to Southern California, died only a short distance from its destination.

The 700-pound Beluga whale, 7 feet long, was captured in northern Canadian waters by Eskimos and a team from Sea World aquatic park here.

It arrived in San Diego during the weekend by plane from Ohio, in an animal shipment that also included a killer whale, five dolphins, five sea lions, six seals, six alligators and two chimpanzees.

The whale died while being transported to Sea World in a wet sling mounted on a flatbed truck.

It took over a gallon of oil to get Jack McGuire's heart running again.

Last July, in St. Francis Hospital in Evanston, Illinois, three surgeons and six nurses hovered over Jack McGuire. For five hours, all their skill was concentrated on one small section of his opened heart.

That day, no one connected with Jack McGuire was thinking about oil. Yet without it, Jack wouldn't be alive today.

The surgeons' gloves and gowns, the plastic tubing, the x-ray films, and even the thread that sewed up Jack's chest. They all came from the same raw material. Oil.

Yet oil's most important contribution was energy.

To keep the operating room operating those five hours took 28.2 kilowatt hours. And it takes 1.7 gallons of oil to produce that much electricity.

Three gallons a day for every man, woman and child.

Oil and natural gas provide 40% of America's electricity, 75% of all this country's energy.

On the average, that means three gallons of oil and 300 cubic feet of natural gas everyday for everyone in America. A daily total of 600 million gallons of oil and 21.8 trillion cubic feet of natural gas just to keep the country running.

Year by year we use more.

And year by year we find less.

That's America's Energy Gap: the difference between what you demand and what we find.

Working to bridge the Energy Gap.

Today, domestic reserves of crude oil (excluding Alaska) are down to a nine-year supply, the lowest it's been since World War II.

That's why we're constantly searching for more oil and natural gas. In the frozen wilderness of Alaska. Beneath the seas. In all kinds of rough, remote terrain.

We're the Oil Companies of America. Working to bridge the growing Energy Gap. And when you're in Jack McGuire's shoes, it isn't hard to understand why a country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

America's Energy Gap vitally concerns you. Get the facts today. Write: Department H, American Petroleum Institute, 1801 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

A country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Tax Rate Reason To Buy Open Space

In conversation with us the other day, a knowledgeable San Rafael resident quite inadvertently presented an argument in favor of tomorrow's open space bond issue which had not occurred to us.

We were talking about tax rates, and this knowledgeable person commented that he benefited from a low San Rafael city tax rate because the city's valuation is approximately 55 per cent commercial and industrial to 45 per cent residential. By contrast, he observed, cities such as Ross and Belvedere must levy high tax rates to provide less services, because they are mostly residential.

This person knew what he was talking about, all right, for he is Bert W. Broemmel, the county assessor.

IT STRUCK US immediately that what he said not only is true but is a good argument for voting "yes" in tomorrow's election on authorizing a city bond issue of $2,250,000 to acquire open space lands.

Little of the open area remaining in San Rafael lends itself to industrial or commercial development. Except for some of the East San Rafael lands along the shoreline approaching San Quentin, it consists principally of hilly areas that because of topographyand location appear destined for residential development.

Plans already announced for development of eight parcels on the city's open-space list all call for residential use.

If these lands are filled with apartments, townhouses, and single-family homes, that 45 per cent of San Rafael's valuation in residential property will rise to a much greater percentage. And San Rafael residents no longer can expect to enjoy the city services they now get without a tax rate much higher than this year's 94 cents per $100 assessed valution.

TO US, that makes another pretty good argument for voting "yes" tomorrow — if any additional argument were needed.

Incidentally, polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., which allows plenty of time for everyone to vote. We hope for a big turnout —and a big "yes" vote, since two-thirds approval is necessary for a bond issue.

Rooted In Marin

Taken as a whole, Marinites are exceptionally well travelled. Yet, some of those who have travelled most and lived for years abroad are most deeply rooted here. Few places on earth have so much to offer in terms of natural beauty and climate. Our usually abundant rainfall makes Marin a botanical paradise. We have become rooted here by the roots of the plants and trees we have planted and tenderly tended over the years. Marin's soil has become our soil by proxy. We've no doubt we will go abroad again, but we are equally certain we shall return.

Hair-Raiser For Bus Commuters This Week

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A bold experiment to free commuter buses from congestion on the Waldo Grade will start this week.

Northbound evening buses will shunt through a gap in the median barrier to a southbound lane at the base of the grade — a vision bound to raise the hair of southbound drivers used to the separation of freeway traffic.

Assuming tests are successful this week with empty buses, passenger-carrying buses will start making the express run next Monday, whipping commuters around almost four miles of frozen congestion.

It is a good concept — the first of its kind in the nation — and we hope it does not earn black marks because details go awry. Some Golden Gate Bridge District officials are concerned especially about the difficulty of merging buses into regular traffic at the Richardson Bay Bridge. The merger distance is short, and perhaps would work better if the buses had their own northbound lane so other traffic instead could merge into the bus lane.

IT HARDLY seems possible, but we were assured that the California Highway Patrol never was consulted during planning for the experiment.

District officials coordinated planning with the state Division of Highways, but the Highway Patrol reportedly was not even informed of the experiment until two weeks ago. The Highway Patrol, although its expertise in handling traffic was ignored, now will be stuck with helping someone else's creation work.

Bridge officials are struggling to speed the placement of the army of plastic tubes and cones used to mark off the reserved southbound lane. District crews have to insert — and later remove — 483 tubes and 59 cones every weekday. So far, they have gotten it down to an hour and three-quarters for each trip out with the tubes and cones.

If the system succeeds, it probably will be extended late this year to morning commuter buses.

WE REPORTED last week that the Republican National Committee had dug up a Democrat in Sen. George S. McGovern's hometown of Mitchell, S.D., who is considering voting for Nixon.

A Mitchell source, however, reports the maverick Democrat, Jake Martin, 72, has been angry at McGovern ever since Jake's brother-in-law failed to win appointment as the town's postmaster. One man's peevishness hardly makes a national trend.

SPECULATION is afoot that if Beth Rowen is appointed county supervisor this would affect the candidacy of Barbara Boxer, but opinion is split on how. Some say it would hurt Mrs. Boxer because voters would be less inclined to put a second woman on the board. The contrary view is that Boxer would be boosted as a stronger liberal counterbalance to Rowen.

Take your pick. With Rowen calling the Boxer campaign the "Boxer Rebellion," you can smell the fireworks if both get on the board.

Conservation Groups Lacked Time On Issue

Your editorial tonight (Sept. 14) asked why conservation groups were silent on the "open space" bond election Tuesday. As a member of some of these groups as well as the committee working for passage of the bond I would like to give an answer —time.

This election is strictly municipal, and did not come to the attention of groups organized on a wider area basis in time. Many do not hold meetings during summer months because of poor attendance. Individual officers of such groups would offer personal support but could not endorse in the name of the organization without membership authorization.

Even our committee to support the issue was first formed about the beginning of August and got organized about the middle of the month. If some of the more concerned citizens of San Rafael were able to get together on this time schedule I think it entirely understandable that other groups with wider geographical basis and a membership to be consulted before endorsement have been silent.

Open Space Part Of Our Heritage

Contrary to popular opinion, historic preservation involves more than saving fine, old buildings. It also supports and overlaps with many other community programs, such as:

the creation of attractive and unique business districts to bring new consumers into towns;

the development of new educational projects;

the interaction of community groups to find office space which fits their needs;

and the preservation of viable open space.

Open space is as much a part of our heritage as any building, and it is disappearing in much the same fashion as our fine old landmarks. Parcel by parcel, building by building, our natural and man-made heritage are going down the drain as we indiscriminately scrape off the land to cover it with private development.

This kind of progress does not even make good economic sense. Other communities, such as Palo Alto, have discovered preservation of the hills as open space often costs the taxpayers less than all the services. . .schools, sewers, traffic management, etc. . .that go with development; and dozens of American towns have created thriving business districts out of old buildings regarded as relics of a bygone era.

Certainly, not every open space or old building can, or even should, be saved, but the visual quality and feel of a town have much to do with its social and economic health. Preservation is not a way of standing still, but one of the ways we can create the balanced and healthy community we all want.

Lessons Of The New Math Might Apply To Politicians

Stanford University's School Mathematics Study Group (SMSG) will soon disband after a successful, although often controversial, 14-year effort to make math a better understood language.

The final lesson offered by the SMSG professors is that it is possible to end a program after it has served its purpose — something many government officials seemingly haven't discovered. But the professors also learned a lesson or two themselves.

SMSG was one of the products of America's post-Sputnik drive to broaden and improve elementary and secondary education, particularly in math and the sciences. The drive, spearheaded by a number of forward-looking university professors, received federal backing through the National Science Foundation.

THE SMSG played a large role in promulgating the "New Math" which now is part of school curriculums throughout the country. A new generation of students can thank the group for aiding their understanding of a subject usually regarded as "difficult."

The trick was turned partly by injecting more of the "why" of mathematics into early training in place of rote and drill. A grounding in theory offered a better understanding of the numerical relationships mathematics describes.

But some of the early efforts in the New Math leaned too far towards theory, some of the pioneers now concede. As curriculums made greater use of materials that discussed "set theory" and other concepts, educators discovered taht in some schools students were not learning the basic computational skills that they would need later in life for, say, filling out their income tax forms.

TO THE CREDIT of the educators, they struck a balance between the new "why" and the old "how" of mathematics. As a result, most school youngsters today probably are better grounded in mathematics than were the school youngsters of 20 years ago. They have some understanding of such abstractions as points in space and they also can make change from a dollar bill if the need arises.

There may be a broader lesson to be learned in the New Math experience by those same political officials we were talking about earlier. We seem to hear a lot of ideas these days that are expressed in abstract terms — about income redistribution, tax reform and the like. This is an era of social ferment, of course, and theories and abstractions are the parents of substantive change.

But somewhere along the line, we all will have to learn the lesson the mathematicians learned. Questions of "why" improve interest and understanding of a subject, but it has not been fully grasped until there is also a concept of "how." We would like to see a bit more discussion of "how" in the programs politicans put forward this political year.

Soviet Union's Cheap Manpower Makes Weapons Buying Easier

Russia can more easily put money into weapons than the United States. The reason: Because of higher pay, it costs the United States twice as much to keep approximately the same number of men under arms. Military manpower costs amount to 57 per cent of the U.S. defense budget; in the Soviet Union, only 29 per cent.

RUSSIANS WANT TO CUT DEFENSE SPENDING. Dissident opinion in Russia, held down because of censorship, wants to see the Kremlin trim the military.

Zamizdat, the widely circulated underground Russian press, recently attacked the Soviet "military-industrial complex," saying:

"In no other country is the proportion of national income which goes to military needs as high as it is in the U.S.S.R. — 40 per cent."

In the United States the comparable figure is 12 per cent.

ECONOMIC LIGHTS CONTINUE GREEN. Figures for the gross national product are better than preliminary reports indicated. Real growth in the GNP is a very strong 9.4 per cent for the second quarter, the highest quarterly growth rate in seven years.

Most leading economic indicators have been moving up for well over a year. This indicates continued economic growth in the coming months.

INFLATION HERE AND ABROAD. Control of inflation is better in the United States than elsewhere. Inflation is waning in the United States; it is rising in most other industrial countries.

The rate of increase in the United States is down from 5.9 per cent in 1970 to around 3 per cent today. The rate of inflation is 5.5 per cent in Belgium, 8 per cent in the Netherlands. In Britain, Japan and Canada, inflational pressures are a growing concern.

UNITED STATES MUST EXPORT MORE. Export sales are going up slightly, but not enough to come near to redressing the adverse balance of trade. Experts say it will take two years before currency adjustments will correct the overall U.S. payments imbalance.

MORE TRADE WITH COMMUNISTS SOUGHT. Look for Congress next year to wipe out almost entirely longstanding restrictions on trade with China, Russia and other Communist countries. Only strictly military hardware will be banned. The sale of 10 Boeing 707 airplanes to China is just a token of more to come.

CHINA'S OPEN DOOR TO JAPAN. Peace between the two is shaping rapidly. Here are the terms the Chinese will present to Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka when he arrives in Peking:

1 — The American-Japanese security treaty is seen as no hindrance to the establishment of diplomatic relations between Tokyo and Peking.

2 — China will waive all reparations claims against Japan as a result of the war.

3 — Tokyo must find a way to invalidate its treaty commitments to defend Taiwan.

4 — Peking will expect apologies from the Japanese government for the wrongs inflicted upon the Chinese people in the past.

The Japanese are willing.

AFTERTHOUGHTS ON THE HORROR AT MUNICH. As the tragedy at the Olympic Games depressed the whole world, there was a lot of comment based on self-guilt.

What has mankind done to bring this on itself? Wasn't this terrorism the sign of a sick world?

It wasn't. It was a sign of sick men attacking a healthy world. There is no more healthy society than in Israel and Prime Minister Golda Meir had not one word of blame to lodge against the Germans.

Registration Of 'Disenchanted' Worries California Republicans

MONTEREY, Calif. — To bring yourself up to date on the Democratic voter registration effort in Northern California, you need to touch base at traffic court — and at the welfare line, the unemployment office, the public hospital and the public housing projects. If you want to know why people in such untraditional places are signing up to vote, listen to your favorite rock music station, where the idea of registering is being propagandized by such stars as Country Joe, the Temptations and Santana —and also by an occasional politician, such as Sen. Edward Kennedy.

This unprecedented effort to follow the old axion about going hunting where the ducks are is paying off for California's Democrats, who are moving in on a target of six million registered here in their party before the cutoff date of Oct. 7. Charles Manatt, state party chairman, maintained before Labor Day that new Democrats were coming aboard at a rate of 14,000 a day. A high proportion of these are from newly aroused voter groups, such as the young who can vote for President for the first time this fall, the conservationists, and the Mexican-Americans.

STILL, JUST WHAT the influx of all these unknown factors onto the rolls will mean Nov. 7 has politicians of both parties confused and Republicans especially worried. Their performance in previous elections, this year's public opinion polls, and the raw figures of the registration drive itself offer no firm answer because contests at different levels in the current campaign cut back and forth across party, age and ideological lines.

At the top, the native Californian in the White House leads George McGovern by eight percentage points, according to the latest statewide California poll conducted by Mervin D. Field. That is a wider margin than the ones by which Mr. Nixon carried the state against John Kennedy in 1960 and Hubert Humphrey in 1968, and is possible only because about a fourth of all the Democrats queried are ready at this point to cross over to support the President.

But that Nixon lead does not carry over to Republican candidates at lower levels, especially those running for Congress. Right now there are 20 Democrats and 18 Republicans in Congress from California. Reapportionment taking effect next year will add another five, making a total of 43. The California poll indicates that at this stage of the campaign there is virtually no pull atall to the presidential coattails, and the Democratic crossover that provides Mr. Nixon his margin in the survey disappears when voters are asked their preferences for Congress.

In fact, the eight-point bulge over McGovern is one that gives the Republicans concern and the Democrats what would seem unfounded optimism, based on those figures alone. Both sides concede that the McGovern campaign has only one way to go, which is up—and he needs to gain only about five points to take the projected lead. Beyond that, there is the American Party presidential candidacy of Rep. John G. Schmitz of Orange County, which will siphon away some of the President's normal backing in conservative precincts of Southern California.

THE REPUBLICANS realize that polls taken so far cannot account for the final upswing in young voter registration that is taking place with the return of students to campus. National polls indicating that the mass of young voters favors Mr. Nixon over McGovern do not apply in the same proportions to college students, especially those on the volatile California campuses.

In addition, broadly based opinion polls do not measure the intensity of voter interest, which brings a higher percentage of one group than another to the ballot box. McGovern's success against predictions in the primaries was credited heavily in this phenomenon. And to sharpen that intensity in November, a series of ballot propositions will insure the turnout of highly motivated groups whose special interests are at issue.

One of those propositions would relax laws on possession of marijuana. Another would force through a coastline conservation measure which has been turned down by the Legislature. Still another is a farm labor proposition opposed furiously by Cesar Chavez and his United Farm Workers, which is overwhelmingly Mexican-American.

All that is why Mr. Nixon and his colleagues—such as Robert Finch, who is flying back and forth from Washington to look out for his interests—can take little solace at the early eight-point span shown by the public opinion polls. They get the willies in a particularly virulent form when they see the registration potential still being tapped along Berkeley's Telegraph Avenue, in the welfare lines in San Francisco's ghettos, and in the vineyards of the great Central Valley.

Excursions Into Psychohistory Lead Up Some Strange Trails

James David Barber is a "psychohistorian."

And what, you may well ask, is "psychohistory"? What in the name of Clio, the muse of history, does a psychohistorian do?

In Professor Barber's case, he teaches political science at Yale and writes books with titles like "The Presidential Character: Predicting Performance in the White House."

PROFESSOR BARBER is firmly convinced that a politician's "character, world view, and style fit together in a dynamic package understandable in psychological terms." The Barber scale is based on two sets of variables. A President is either "active" or "passive," positive" or "negative" — or, of course, a combination of both.

Thus Lyndon Johnson was an "active" President ("a human cyclone," Professor Barber writes with awe). Calvin Coolidge, who slept 11 hours a night and then might take a nap in the afternoon for good measure, was — surprise! — a "passive" President by the Barber indicator. But — here it gets tricky — President Johnson tests out as "negative" as Coolidge with Barber. Meaning: Though he whirled like a Texas tornado, he got small pleasure from it.

All of which leads a psychohistorian to a definition of a "passive-negative" President: "someone who does little in politics and enjoys it less." But lest the reader assume this to be Barber's dumping grounds for the very worst, George Washington, he will have you know, was a "passive-negative."

PROFESSOR BARBER has a number of shrewd things to say. For instance: "A great deal of politics is about paying attention. The name of the game for many politicians is not so much 'Do this, do that' as it is 'Look here!'" He may even be correct to argue: "A President's fundamental self-esteem is his prime personal resource; to defend and advance that, he will sacrifice much else."

As a parlor game, psychohistory has its charms. But taken too seriously its categories can be bizarrely misleading. After all, what do George Washington and Calvin Coolidge — two "passive-negatives" — have in common? Furthermore, to assume that one can predict performance on the basis of these world-play diagnoses seems downright dangerous.

Psychohistory is hardly new. A World War II example has just surfaced, perhaps as a cautionary companion volume to Barber's thesis. "The Mind of Hitler" was originally a secret report, written in 1943 by a psychiatrist named Walter C. Langer as an assignment for the Office of Strategic Services.

DR. LANGER, like Professor Barber — like all psychohistorians — was looking for the Open-Sesame key: "the things that make Hitler tick." Politicians may not be predictable, but psychiatrists, alas, often are. Dr. Langer discovers, predictably, a harsh father, a protective mother, and the obligatory sexual aberration. Complexes — from Oedipal to messiah — richly abound.

How would Hitler score on the Barber scale? He was often "passive" and "negative." Terrible working habits. Rarely on time. Spent his nights watching double-feature movies and newsreels.

He was a compulsive eater: first breakfast at 7, second at 9. His "adjustment to people" was "very poor". Frequently he was depressed, indecisive, and given to temper tantrums. (Dr. Langer believes he really rolled on the floor, really chewed carpets.) In addition, he was messy.

Would you buy a used Volkswagen from this man? And yet ironically, tragically, he had what Professor Barber regards as the sine qua non of a successful politician: the "Power to persuade."

PSYCHOHISTORIANS are nothing if not pragmatic.

Dr. Langer calls Hitler "a neurotic psychopath bordering on schizophrenia." His summary is a staggering understatement of clinical caution. Hitler, he writes, "lacks adequate inhibitions."

In the presence of the enormities of 20th-century history, what do the sophisticated labels of psychohistorians tell us that we don't shudderingly — know already? By their technical pretentions, do they give us false hopes for simple solutions to problems of good and evil?

These are questions with no simple answers themselves. But certainly diagnosers need their own diagnosis.

A final question: Should everyone become a psychovoter in November, debating whether to vote for Nixon because a McGovern relative is rumored to have had a drinking problem? Or vote for McGovern because Nixon is said to have had a "traumatic" experience as a child, bumping his head on the wheel of a wagon? Risky business, especially if one considers that a psychohistorian would probably classify Abraham Lincoln as a "depressive personality" today.

"Personality" is such a paralyzing term, with its implications of a pattern hardened forever in early childhood. "Character" still seems a more human, a more generous word — the word of philosophies, religions, and the best works of art. Character, according to one definition, is the sum total of a man's moral choices. A voter — even a psychohistorian — can vote for that.

Martinelli Farms Plans Due Review

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9 a.m. at the civic center, again will review development plans for the Martinelli Farms project in West Marin.

The project, protested by conservationists and some West Marin residents, calls for 68 homes on a 260-acre parcel a mile north of Point Reyes Station.

Earlier this year, developer Lawrence J. Walters won approval from the county planning commission for 51 "ranchettes" on the site but later was turned down by the board of supervisors.

The board asked Walters to prepare new plans, moving some of the ranchettes away from areas designated as open space in the proposed countywide general plan.

His revised plans — to be considered by the board at 3 p.m. — subsequently were rejected by the planning commission.

The board also is scheduled to review criteria for granting "open space contracts" to property owners seeking tax benefits.

The open space contracts — similar in theory to agricultural preserve contracts — would give tax breaks to property owners willing to leave their land undeveloped for a certain period of time.

Tours To Open Space Areas Set

A public tour of open space areas will be held Sept. 23 to draw attention to the Nov. 7 vote on a regional park district in Marin.

The Marin Conservation League will conduct the all-day tour of the North Ridge, San Pedro Mountains and Mount Burdell areas, beginning at 9:30 a.m. It will be broken into three two-hour sections.

The tour will start from the parking area at Larkspur-Corte Madera School, with shuttle buses taking people to the mouth of Baltimore Canyon.

The San Pedro walk will begin at noon, with route maps to be distributed in the parking lot at San Rafael High School.

Finally, shuttle buses leaving San Marin High School at 2:30 p.m. will take persons to Mount Burdell.

Further information can be had by calling Penny Corbin at the league office in San Rafael.

Change In Sign Law Due Study

The Novato Planning Commission will consider revisions to the city signordinance at an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today at the community house.

Merchants, who claim the ordinance is too restrictive, and members of the city planning staff have proposed revisions for consideration by the commission.

Commissioners also will review precise development plans for initial development of 10 tennis courts, swimming pool, pro shop and parking area at the Olive Ridge Tennis Club, Olive Avenue and Deer Island Lane.

Chinese Turn To Petroleum

PEKING (UPI)—Four years ago a few hundred petrochemical workers moved into two farming valleys at the base of scenic Cat Mountain, 50 kilometers south of Peking, to build a model oil refinery.

Today, from a maze of fuel pipes along the ridges, dozens of giant distilling and catalytic tanks and spotless pumping rooms, 2.5 million tons of petroleum products are being produced annually. They range from heavy fuel oil to nonleaded gasoline for the cars of the country.

A few thousand yards away, goldfish swim in a pool of recycled water from the refinery which now has 13,000 workers and still is busy with new construction. The same purified water irrigates a small rice plot and feeds a pond for Peking ducks.

It is not the largest oil refinery in China but it is a showplace and Peng Shu-chen, one of the Army men who run the Peking Petrochemical Plant, points to "guest apartments" under construction for visitors.

The oil refinery has been completed. Two sections of the chemical plant are done. Work is proceeding on another chemical plant, power stations, three de-pollution plants and living quarters for the workers, some of whom are the peasants who once farmed the valleys.

Schools and stores are being built in the complex which spreads over more than 900 acres, an "instant town" in the countryside.

Peng says other refineries in the country are being modernized with emphasis on recycling the water and other waste and ending the customary practice of dumping pollutants into the streams.

"We do not want to harm the people's health," he says proudly in taking visitors through the water recycling area of the plant. Water is separated from the refined oil, pumped into the large tanks of the recycling area and then, through three steps, is stripped of sulphur, oil and phenol. A series of flotation tanks is used, each removing globs of oil; chemicals are added and the water is filtered step by step.

Peng says 600 tons of water are purified each hour.

Experiments also are underway in a small laboratory on using the cleansed water for human consumption.

One of the advantages of the purified water, Peng says, is that it can be used on crops without the need to add fertilizer. The water itself provides nutrients for the soil.

Polluted air from the factory also is recycled and used in the production of synthetic rubber.

Top engineers at the facility make about $75 per month. The average worker makes about $25. All eight levels of pay at the plant were increased during the summer, along with other industries in the country.

"We still have many shortcomings in the production of petroleum," Peng says. "Our technology in some aspects is not up-to-date. We have much to do."

China's primary energy source is coal, with the country ranking third behind the United States and the Soviet Union in coal reserves.

Western sources estimate the country was producing 18 million tons of petroleum in 1970 with the discovery in the '60s of large new oil fields in Ta-ch'ing and elsewhere. This is about the same production as Mexico and the equivalent of two weeks supply in the United States.

NEW MARIN BAY LINCOLN-MERCURY

Grand opening of Herk L. Viglienzone's new Marin Bay Lincoln-Mercury building at 475 Francisco Boulevard on San Rafael's Auto Row is set for Thursday. The new structure and grounds provide ample space for showrooms, parts, service, repair, and two new departments — motor homes department and American car rental department. Motor Homes, headed by Henry C. Tyler, carries Open Road, Sport Coach, and Revcon, the continental of the motor homes. It also has the Fifth Wheel, which hooks on to the backs of pickups. General sales manager is Kenneth Curley. Marin Bay moved last month from Third and Lincoln streets in downtown San Rafael. The new quarters has 22,500 square feet of floor space, more than double the old location, and includes 22 working stalls for car servicing. Viglienzone has owned the business for more than 14 years.

Events Could Forestall Market's Upward Move

By ROBER E. SPEAR

Q. I have read many opinions that the market will reach 1000 this year or next. In your calculated opinion what do you see ahead for the stock market?—V.R.

A. The market — as measured by the Dow Industrial Average — has struggled for some time to push through the upper 900s into the much touted 1000 area. While conditions appear ripe at this time for the final leap, any number of unexpected events could forestall the move. However, favoring a breakthrough is the long-term base in the Dow average between the 910-980 region. Technical analysts see this as providing a firm platform for an upmove. Fundamentalists cite the healthy business climate. The recent acceleration of the growth rate in factory inventories signifies a more bullish outlook by businessmen. Further, machine tool companies have reported sharp increases in orders — long considered a leading indicator of an upsurging economy. Although allowances must be made for possible nearby corrections, the outlook for the market is favorable.

With this in view, the shorter-term investor may well consider the advantages of cyclical rather than growth stocks at this time. The latter have been bid up over a period of years and are sporting P/E multiples that discount growth several years out. On the other hand, cyclicals have been largely ignored and carry multiples in the 10-to-20 area.

Market Stumbles In Early Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, in a rut since Labor Day, continued to stumble during the first two hours today in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Declines outnumbered advances, 639 to 417, among the 1,447 issues crossing the tape. The two-hour turnover amounted to more than 3,340,000 shares.

Analysts said many investors were taking the day off in observance of Yom Kippur. Thus trading was lighter than the already slow pace so far this month.

There was little news to influence the market. Investors remained skeptical about the economy and concerned about inflation and rising interest rates.

Prices were slightly lower in light trading on the American Stock Exchange. Imperial Oil was the most active issue, off 3-8 at 39 on 20,100 shares.

Gold mining issues were lower on the Big Board. Dome Mines lost 2 3-4, Campbell Red Lake 2 3-8, Homestake Mining 1 1-2 and American-South African 1 1-4.

Some authorities said gold prices were dropping in Europe because of selling by speculators who drove their prices up recently.

49ers' Excellent Showing In Opener

The 49ers looked like the best team in pro football yesterday, but the way the San Diego Chargers played, there is the distinct possibility that they could have made the Buffalo Bills look like division winners.

And Buffalo, home base of an American Football Conference team that managed to win just one of 14 games last year, is where the Niners will be next Sunday. It should be a toughie (yawn).

AS THE CURTAIN unfolded yesterday at Candlestick Park, the 59,438 fans in attendance expected to see a display of offensive fireworks from both sides of the field. John Brodie and Gene Washington lit the fuse for San Francisco but the Chargers are still looking for some matches.

"They played mistake free football," 49er head coach Dick Nolan said of his men after the 34-3 win. "Both our offense and defense got tougher as the game went along."

The biggest surprise to everyone was the amount of single coverage the Chargers gave to Washington. While San Diego's defense was putting double coverage on tight end Ted Kwalick Washington was getting just single watching. The plan was halfway successful. Kwalick came out with zero receptions. But Washington had eight catches, 140 yards and three touchdowns.

THE THING THAT impressed me was that the 49ers didn't turn to that boring game of three-runs-and-a-punt once they had built up that huge lead which was 24-3 at half and 31-3 at the three-quarter mark. I had always believed that in the past the 49ers turned too conservative after gaining a fat lead and put too much pressure on their own defense because of it. Brodie, a man who had a very successful day of completing 11 passes in 19 throws for 156 yards and three touchdowns, disagrees.

"I don't think we did anything different," Brodie said. "If you think we have been too conservative in those situations in the past, I just don't agree with you. Our last touchdown was scored on the ground."

In the last half, Brodie called 10 running plays and four pass plays until giving up the ball to backup man Steve Spurrier who called 12 running plays and six passes. That balance of 10 passes and 22 runs isn't too conservative and it at least gives you something to look at more than just reading your program or ogling the pretty girls in the stands.

ELMER COLLETT of Mill Valley, a member of the special teams, played left guard the entire fourth quarter and did a great job for Randy Beisler who got a rest, as did other members of the starting unit.

"It was all right," said Collett after the game, "but I think the real fun is playing on the special teams." Elmer, you see, likes to get a chance to tackle people on kickoffs and punts. About the game, he said, "Yes, I expected San Diego to be tougher, but you have one of those games sometimes. Our defense played well against them."

Defensive end Cedrick Hardman put it in other words: "Lay it on the D. Call it a good game plan."

DURING HALFTIME, 49er players of the past were introduced to the crowd as part of alumni day activities and they were driven into the stadium in autos, some old and some new.

For Al Endriss, athletic director at Redwood High who played defensive end for the 49ers in 1952, transportation was provided by a bright red 1906 Thomas Flyabout, a car that sold for $6,000 when new. Marin Catholic football coach Bruno Banducci was driven in a red 1973 Plymouth. The wrong car for a guy who sold Cadillacs and Pontiacs when he wasn't playing guard for the 49ers during the 1946-54 era.

LOOKING 'EM OVER — Petaluma High School running back Tom Mercado (25) looked around for a hole in Drake High's defensive line in a game Saturday at College of Marin in Kentfield. Drake's Dave Foti (23) fought past Petaluma's Dan Solis (33) to pursue. Petaluma won, 12-7.

Petaluma Stops Drake '11'

By LEW CODDINGTON

In utter defiance of Dr. Spock's timetable, Petaluma High School's young football team went from childhood to maturity in 30 scant minutes Saturday afternoon, surviving a frantic second half to defeat Drake High, 12-7, at College of Marin in Kentfield.

"We grew up in the third quarter," said Petaluma's first-year coach, Tony Kehl, whose Trojans stopped Drake three times on the lip of the goal in the period, and once more early in the fourth stanza.

Actually, Kehl could have expanded that comment to include the entire fourth quarter, for Petaluma (1-0) did not win the game until Tim Wallmark completed a 26-yard touchdown pass to Tom Mercado with just 1:16 remaining.

The toss came three minutes after Drake's Ken Zepponi returned a pass interception 75 yards and Martin Andreas added the conversion for a 7-6 Pirate lead.

After a frustrating first half in which they were badly outgained, 178 yards to minus one, the aroused Pirates (0-1) threatened menacingly.

First, quarterback Tom MacAusland shook off a strong rush and drilled an apparent scoring pass to Zepponi, but the Pirates were called for offensive pass interference, cancelling the touchdown.

Shortly afterward, Phil Wilkinson reocvered a blocked punt in the end zone, but the score was nullified by an offsidespenalty. Instants later, following a short punt, Drake had first and goal on the eight but was stopped on downs.

On the first series of the fourth quarter, Drake tight end Corky Ingraham tried for a sprawling catch in the end zone, but as he juggled the ball on his fingertips, Petaluma de-

49ers' Camp Joy: Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— There are nothing but smiles today in the San Francisco Forty Niners' camp.

But down in San Diego, the Chargers are shedding enough tears to fill a king size bucket.

From the contrasting settings it's obvious the Forty Niners beat the Chargers in the season-opener for both clubs Sunday. Officially, the score was 34-3 but that doesn't even come close to telling the story.

For the Forty Niners, seeking their third consecutive National Football Conference West title, there was a lot to be happy about. Even Coach Dick Nolan, who rarely smiles, managed a creasing of his cheeks, mostly because his team played a "pretty much mistake free game."

It was the kind of game where scoring came easy for the Forty Niners as John Brodie combined three times with star wide receiver Gene Washington for touchdowns throwing 14, 23 and 45 yards. All three came after the San Francisco defense forced San Diego mistakes.

"Gene Washington ate us up alive," said Chargers' Coach Harland Svare. "We never did get anything moving on offense. It's not new to see a team go that bad but it's a long time since I've seen it. We couldn't cope with anything."

Jimmy Thomas bolted four yards for San Francisco's other TD and Bruce Gossett added field goals of 43 and 20 yards. San Diego's lone score came on a 29-yard field goal by Dennis Partee.

Brodie hit on 11-of-19 passes for 156 yards before turning the ball over to Steve Spurrier, who completed two of six for an additional 22 yards.

The three TDs for Washington fell one short of the club record and the total was one less than Gene scored all of 1971. In all, Washington had eight receptions for 140 yards.

Brodie said the victory was a real team effort.

"When you beat someone 34-3 a lot of people have to have outstanding games," said Brodie. "Our offensive line had to be super because everyone knows how good San Diego's defense is."

While it probably won't take much for Nolan this week to get his team ready for the Buffalo Bills next Sunday, there more than likely will be a lot of film viewing and plotting for Svare to get his club up for the Denver Broncos, who whipped Houston 30-17 Sunday.

STEELERS ROLL

Madden Angry; Raiders Edged

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Oakland Coach John Madden slumped on a stool, disconsolate because of his team's defeat. But he suddenly bristled at a reporter's question.

"Why didn't you use (Daryle) Lamonica earlier in the game?" he was asked.

Madden sat up.

"Anytime you use three quarterbacks and then lose—the press always second guesses you," Madden said. "Pittsburgh is a much improved team. But a blocked punt, interceptions and then fumbles gave them too many things in the first half. But our boys bounced back in the second half."

The Pittsburgh Steelers defeated the Raiders, 34-28, Sunday with the help of the defense which scored one touchdown and set up three other tallies. Terry Bradshaw ran for two scores and his 57-yard touchdown aerial to Ron Shanklin in the third period proved to be the margin of victory.

Lamonica, who did not play until the third period ran out, figured in three touchdowns in the final period. Mike Siana was twice a scoring target, one on a 24-yarder and then on a 70-yard bomb. Lamonica's passing set up a 78-yard scoring drive capped by Don Highsmith's one-yard burst.

Lamonica tried to mask his disappointment when he was asked if he would have preferred to have been in the game sooner.

"Sure, I was disappointed, but I'm not trying to second guess the coach," he said. "I'm ready when he calls and then I give it 100 per cent. Our offensive line did a good job and the

A's Hunter Wins 20 Vs. Lowly Rangers

OAKLAND (UPI) — Jim (Catfish) Hunter admits the first time around was the hardest, but it's just as nice to be a 20-game winner for a second time.

Hunter, a sturdy righthander who never pitched one inning in the minors, bagged his 20th victory of 1972 Sunday on a two-hit, 4-1, triumph over the lowly Texas Rangers.

The fact the victory enabled the Oakland A's to widen their lead over the Chicago White Sox to five games in the American League West made it that much sweeter.

"Winning 20 games for the first time is every pitcher's goal," Hunter said. "I know how great I felt when I made it for the first time last year. It's nice to win 20 again but I certainly don't feel that now I'm going to win 20 every year. It's too dificult a goal to set but I'll be trying."

Hunter gave up a first-inning single to Dave Nelson, and it cost him a run, and a double to Ted Ford with two out in the seventh. In between, he retired 20 batters in order, striking out a total of six and walking only one.

Gene Tenace drove in two runs with a pair of doubles to help Hunter to his milestone victory: It was his finest hitting performance of the year but Tenace wanted to talk instead about Hunter.

The A's are off today but start a two-game series with the White Sox on Tuesday night. The pitching matchups are Tom Bradley vs. John Odom on Tuesday and Wilbur Wood vs. Ken Holtzman on Wednesday.

The A.L. West race now has reached the point where the White Sox need a sweep of the short series to stay alive. A split would just about kill their chances barring, of course, an Oakland collapse.

In the numbers game, the A's "magic number" now stands at nine.

FIRST OUTING

San Rafael In Grid Victory

If anybody had any doubts that this year's San Rafael High School football team is as good as last year's, the doubts were dispelled Saturday night, when the Bulldogs annihilated visiting Lincoln of Uan Francisco, 38-0.

"It was a good team effort and it taught us a lot," said San Rafael coach Bob Muster. Mostly, it taught the same lessons that the 1971 team learned enroute to a co-championship in the Marin County Athletic League.

The Bulldogs, the MCAL's top rushing team a year ago, rolled up 299 yards on the ground, using 10 different running backs. Most spectacular was Chris Valentino, who bolted 74 yards down the sidelines for the first touchdown of a 20-point first quarter. Most productive was Craig Saunders, who scored the next two touchdowns on runs of 10 and 11 yards.

Valentino racked up 84 yards, quarterback Lance Loughlin 54, and Saunders 38 to lead the stable of runners.

Lincoln, which was obliterated last year by a similar score of 33-0, made a brief effort to get back into the game late in the first quarter. The Mustangs drove downfield behind the passing of quarterback Bruce McCall, but were hit by penalties, and the drive died at the Bulldog 30.

San Rafael reserve quarterback Dave Steele scored on a 13-yard run in the second quarter, and after a scoreless third period, Brad Carry and Fred Schroeder scored on runs of five and six yards, respectively, in the final quarter

Bob Guelfi of 730 Del Mar Avenue, Novato, a deputy with the Marin County Sheriff's office, holds up a 49-pound salmon he caught yesterday while fishing in San Francisco Bay off the Tiburon Naval Net Depot. The 24-year-old Guelfi was fishing with neighbor Paul Stefani on the Guelfi boat and using live shiners (small fish) as bait. He caught it using a steel rod that dates back to the 1930s, and it took him about 10 minutes to win the battle. It is one of the largest salmon ever caught in that area. MARIN AMATEUR

Cage Coach In Golf Triumph

Bob Gaillard, evidently doesn't restrict his expertise to basketball.

Gaillard, who coaches the varsity basketball team at the University of San Francisco, Saturday won the Marin Amateur Golf Championship by shooting a two-under-par 72 on the San Geronimo National course.

A resident of Novato and member of Marin Country Club, Gaillard played conservatively over the last two holes after reaching the 17th tee with a one-stroke lead over Chuck Freitas of the home course.

Gaillard's closing two pars kept him one shot ahead of Freitas, who carded 71. Kasey Bedolla of San Jose was third with 72, followed by Bob Cranston of Sausalito at 73 and Geof Becker of San Francisco at 74.

Last year's winner, Stewart Schroeder, did not play.

A field of 189 golfers participated, and a gallery estimated at 500 watched.

For his efforts, Gaillard won a three-day, two-night vacation for two in Las Vegas, $50 in cash and a trophy.

Doug McHugh of San Francisco won three days and two nights in Disneyland for his victory in the putting contest with 14 putts in nine holes.

Flight winners:

First, B. Hickman, 78-12-66; Second, Willliam Rains, 70-8-62; Third, B. Zabosky, 91-22-69; Fourth, D. Gramor, 87-27-60; Fifth, J. Barncat, 98-45-53; Sixth, P. Scheller, 114-54-60.

Tomales Bows To Cloverdale In Grid Opener

Tomales High School opened its 1972 football season Saturday with a 19-6 loss to visiting non-league foe Cloverdale.

The Braves' lone score came on a 74-yard run back of the second half kickoff by Spirito Ballatore. Cloverdale's Eric Johnson accounted for 13 points with a 77-yard touchdown reception, a four-yard run and an extra point.

"We played a good second half, holding them to no points. The first palf the kids were flat," commented Tomales Coach Davis Danielsen.

By TOM THOMPSON

Novato High School wasted little time in serving notice that they are ready to defend its Marin County Athletic League Football co-championship. Saturday the Hornets stunned powerful Riordan of San Francisco, 19-0, in a pre-season opener at Novato.

Some 1,000 fans watched as quarterback Tom Conklin made his debut impressive, passing for two of the Hornet's touchdowns and completing 12 of 17 for the afternoon.

The Black and Gold opened the scoring with 3:47 left in the first half. Three consecutive Conklin completions were all the Hornets needed before the short drive was culminated with a 22-yard Joe Robinson touchdown pass reception.

The Hornets scored again in the third quarter when, led by the rushing of Joe Powell and Jeff Lipe, they picked up yardage through the tough Riordan line. The last run was a Lipe four yard dive through the middle.

The issue was settled with just less than eight minutes left in the game when Conklin threw for his second touchdown, this time to Powell. After being set up by a Crusader fumble. the Hornet whoops ran three plays before Powell accepted a 29-yard touchdown pass.

The Novato Junior Varsity downed Riordan, 38-14, Saturday in Novato.

Petaluma's first touchdown came on the game's opening series, as Wallmark hit Mercado for 26 yards on a bold call on fourth and two.

Petaluma could have two other touchdowns, but open receivers twice dropped receptions near the goal in the first half.

Petaluma's Don White gained 89 yards in 18 carries to lead all rushers, and twice got crucial first downs as the Trojans drove 53 yards in eight plays for the winning score.

Football: Tam Falls In Opener

Even the football players realize that baseball season is going on, especially at Tamalpais High School, which lost a football game by a baseball score Saturday afternoon to Bishop O'Dowd in Oakland, 8-2.

"It was one of those games," said Tam coach Mike Davlin. "A very frustrating afternoon. We scored all the points," he cracked.

The winning O'Dowd touchdown came in the third quarter, after Tam fumbled on its own seven yard line. Dominic D'Ambrosio ran three yards for the score.

Tam yielded a safety in the first quarter when a snap from center sailed over the punter's head out of the end zone. The Indians got it back in the second quarter when Bill Duvall blocked an O'Dowd punt, which rolled out of the end zone inches ahead of his grasping hands. "I thought he had it for a touchdown," said Davlin.

Tam almost pulled the game out at the end, as Alvin Price rambled 55 yards on a draw play to O'Dowd's 20. On the next play, quarterback Tim Nowell was sacked and suffered a broken collarbone. He'll be out five weeks.

The defensive unit drew Davlin's praise, especially after stopping O'Dowd from the five yard line in the first quarter.

BOXER VALDEZ SETS CAREER WITH YOUTH

HOUSTON (UPI) — Olympic bronze medalist Jesse Valdez of Hamilton Air Force Base says his heart isn't in the fight game anymore and that he would like to spend his time working with underprivileged children.

"I've been married a year and four months and my wife has been awfully patient," Valdez said this weekend on his return from Munich. "She knew I wanted to fight in the Olympics and what I was working for, but my obligations are elsewhere.

"Boxing isn't in my heart anymore, but boxing is in my blood," he said.

Valdez, 25, is an Air Force sergeant who will be discharged in November. He said he has not made up his mind about a career but would like to work with youngsters.

Tars Walloped By Merced In Football

"We just couldn't contain their speed," said glum College of Marin football coach Dick Read. "They just outran us. We played well, but we had our hands full."

Read's Tars lost their 1972 season opener to Merced College Saturday night in Merced, 46-23, as the hosts struck for three touchdowns in the third quarter to increase a 19-14 halftime lead to 39-17.

Duke Bessee and Neale Given made spectacular catches for two of the Tars' three touchdowns, Bessee on a 48-yard pass from Kevin Donohoe in the second quarter, and Given on an 18-yarder from Harold Fain in the final period.

Leon Howard netted Marin's first score on a three-yard run, and John Loane kicked a 41-yard field goal and two conversions.

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

All the motivation was there —revenge, pride, a new season —for Kansas City but when it was all over it was the Chiefs flat on their faces again and the Miami Dolphins celebrating Christmas in September.

The setting was perfect for the Chiefs. Here was a chance to avenge their Christmas Day American Football Conference title loss to Miami in the longest pro game in history before a home crowd of close to 80,000 in their new home— Arrowhead Stadium.

But it was Miami which proved that last Christmas was no fluke as the Dolphins manhandled the Chiefs 20-10 Sunday on the opening day of the National Football League season.

Bob Griese threw a 14-yard TD pass to Marlin Briscoe in the first period and the Dolphins then broke open the game in the last minute of the first half as Garo Yepremian, the hero of the Dolphins' Christmas upset, kicked a 47-yard field goal and Larry Csonka plunged over from the one after safety Jake Scott's interception had given Miami the ball.

In other opening day action, Pittsburgh stunned Oakland 34-28, San Francisco ripped San Diego 34-3, Dallas downed Philadelphia 28-6, Los Angeles routed New Orleans 34-14, the New York Jets crushed Buffalo 41-24, Detroit trounced the New York Giants 30-16, Green Bay romped over Cleveland 26-10, Denver trimmed Houston 30-17, Cincinnati beat New England 31-7, Atlanta outlasted Chicago 37-21 and St. Louis upset Baltimore 10-3. Washington is at Minnesota tonight.

Dallas opened defense of its Super Bowl crown as Craig Morton threw a pair of third quarter TD passes to spark a victory over the Eagles.

Bob Thomas ran for two scores and Roman Gabriel passed for another to lead the Rams over New Orleans. Archie Manning had a pair of TD passes for the Saints. Emerson Boozer scored three TDs and John Riggins rushed for a career-high 125 yards as the Jets rolled over Buffalo.

Greg Landry's three TD passes boosted Detroit over the Giants and rookie Chester Marcol's four field goals and two TD passes by Scott Hunter enabled Green Bay to rout the Browns. Steve Ramsey threw for one TD and ran for another and Jim Turner kicked three field goals as Denver gave new coach John Ralston a victory in his debut by beating the Oilers. Lemar Parrish's 51-yard punt return for a score highlighted a 21-point second half that lifted Cincinnati over the Patriots.

Bob Berry passed for two TDs and ran for another as Atlanta beat Chicago and Donnie Anderson bulled four yards in the third period for the deciding score in the Cardinals' upset of Baltimore.

Cincinnati Next Stop For Giants

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants brought their road show to Riverfront Stadium tonight for the start of a three-game series with the front-running Cincinnati Reds needing a winning streak to keep alive their chances of grabbing fourth place in the National League West.

The Giants had an opportunity to close the gap on fourth place to a game Sunday but dropped a 7-4 decision to Atlanta and now trail the Braves by three games.

With 13 games left to play, including tonight's tussle, San Francisco's chances aren't all that good but Manager Charlie Fox keeps insisting "we'll make it. We're now playing to our potential but we still make too many mistakes."

Pitching mistakes cost the Giants Sunday's game. They were in front, 4-2, going into the seventh when Ron Bryant ran out of gas and reliever Randy Moffitt proved no mystery to the Braves as they scored four times in the eighth for the winning margin.

A bright spot was Dave Kingman's 26th homer, plus two hits by Ken Henderson.

Boston On Minds Of A.L. Teams

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Detroit Tigers and the Baltimore Orioles both have Boston on their mind.

"It will all depend on our seven games with Boston," said Dick McAuliffe Sunday after he hit two homers to pace Detroit to a 6-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers that moved the Tigers to within .001 of the Red Sox in the tight American League Eastern Division race.

"We've got to win five of our six games with Boston if we're going to make up three games in the loss column," Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said after the Orioles lost a 2-1 decision to the New York Yankees and remained 1 1-2 games back in third place.

The Red Sox lost some ground with a 9-2 loss to the Cleveland Indians and Gaylord Perry but they're still the team with the best chance of deciding their own fate.

In the other three games Sunday, Oakland stopped Texas 4-1, Kansas City edged Minnesota 10-6 in 10 innings and California edged Chicago 3-1.

In the National League contests, Houston outlasted Los Angeles 15-11, Chicago topped New York 6-4, Philadelphia nipped Montreal 3-2, St. Louis stopped Pittsburgh 5-4, San Diego downed Cincinnati 10-7 and Atlanta beat San Francisco 7-4.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Someone in Marin County has no great love for road signs, as these pictures indicate. The three signs, all on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Samuel P. Taylor State Park, were knocked over this weekend by vandals. The Marin County Sheriff's Department, the California Highway Patrol, and the Public Works Department say they have no idea who did it, or why. (Independent-Journal photos)

Planners Will Reconsider Ban

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will reconsider adopting a strict temporary ban on building, rezoning, and subdividing when it meets at 8 p.m. tonight.

The proposed ordinance was held over from last Monday's meeting after the commission decided portions of it should be redrafted for clarity.

The ban would prevent any permanent change to undeveloped land without a use permit.

The measure would be in force for four months and could be extended for as long as two years. It would cover all undeveloped parcels and commercial lots.

The commission also will consider a request for use permits to operate a restaurant and cabaret at 726 San Anselmo Avenue and a delicatessen at 21 Mariposa Avenue.

Fallen Jetliner Pulled From Bay

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A cargo jet that skidded off a runway during takeoff, was pulled from San Francisco Bay Sunday night and moved to a hangar for repair.

The Boeing 707, owned by Trans World Airlines, broke in two when it careened into the mud and water of the bay Wednesday with a load of perishables aboard. The three crewmen escaped injury.

Fuel had to be pumped from the craft and 87,000 pounds of cargo removed before two giant cranes lifted the front section back onto the runway. The main fuselage was put on a barge for transfer to land today.

Property In Old San Rafael Shows Slight Value Increase

Assessed valuation of commercial property in old San Rafael rose only 3 per cent per year from 1968 through last fiscal year, Marin County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel reported today.

This compared with annual increase of 6.8 per cent for commercial property in Marin County as a whole, he said.

Virtually all the commercial property in old San Rafael — the portion of the city soth of Puerto Suello Hill — is within the area proposed for redevelopment by the San Rafael City Council.

Old San Rafael's multiple residential property — a majority of which also is within the proposed redevelopment area — rose in assessed valuation since 1968 at an average rate of 5.9 per cent per year, compared with county-wide average for such property of 8.7 per cent, Broemmel reported. Most of the apartment property is in the East San Rafael portion of the proposed redevelopment area.

Some spots within the area proposed for redevelopment have been experiencing rapid increase in valuation through new construction, however. Broemmel cited a section around Jacoby Street in East San Rafael which increases from $934,000 four years ago to $1,534,000 last year.

The assessor noted that the area proposed for redevelopment is approximately 65 per cent commercial and 35 per cent multiple residential. He said it totals just under half of the city's assessed valuation.

The declining status of San Rafael's downtown-Francisco Boulevard commercial district is reflected in another statistic cited by Broemmel: In 1938 San Rafael, without counting Northgate, had 30 per cent of all commercial valuation in the county. Last year the percentage was 26.5.

Larkspur Councilman To Address Meeting

A session of Larkspur Town Meeting will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. at town hall when Councilman Joan Sestak will speak on city decisions during the summer.

It will be the group's first meeting since June. Secretary Sallyanne Wilson said plans also will be made for the third annual Town Meeting to be held later this fall.

Interior Secretary Hesitates On Ban

BUTTE, Mont. (UPI)—Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton hesitated Sunday to endorse a ban on automobile traffic in the nation's national parks as suggested in a report by the Conservation Foundation on National Parks.

The study, prepared under government contract, urged that cars, campers and commercialism be kept out of national parks. Morton declined comment until he reads the report, but said cars are the only feasible means that some people had to see the scenic areas.

THE OPEN SPACE DISAPPEARS...

San Rafael's open space has been disappearing for years. Now we have a real chance to save a lot of it. If the Open Space Bond passes on Tuesday, it will raise about $2.25 million for the acquisition of undeveloped land now privately owned and threatened with development.

Most planners now believe the costs of new development . . . schools, streets, utilities, sewage, fire and police protection, recreational facilities, and all the other things people require . . : is probably greater than buying the land and leaving it as open space.

San Rafael's Open Space bond issue will cost homeowners less than 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation per year. If your home is assessed at $40,000, for example, your taxes will increase by less than $10 per year — about the same as a modest dinner for two.

If the bond issue fails, we may never have another chance to save much of the open space in San Rafael. To pass, the bond issue requires a ⅔ "yes" vote. Don't forget to vote on Tuesday, and VOTE 'YES' FOR OPEN SPACE.

Marin Women

WOMAN IN U.N.

She Will Wield A Strong Gavel

By RICKY ROSENTHAL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — On a shelf near her desk, a book stands out among the other titles. "Technique de la Revolution," it is called, and one assumes it deals with the armed kind. Mrs. Jeanne Martin Cisse created a revolution of her own recently, disarmingly if you like.

As the new permanent representative to the U.N. from the Republic of Guinea, a post of ambassadorial rank, she became the first woman to be her country's resident representative on the Security Council. (Guinea began a two-year term in one of the 10 nonpermanent seats on the Security Council of Jan. 1 of this year.)

Many women have served on U.N. delegations to the General Assembly. The Security Council presidency, however, is considered more political and gives scope for maneuvering possibilities, depending upon accumulated skill or talent for the job.

INDICATIONS ARE that Mrs. Cisse will wield a strong gavel when her time comes to preside over the 15-nation Security Council, where the principal of rotation governs.

"She is a tough woman," said one African. An observer who was present when she made her maiden speech on Aug. 10 before the Security Council, which met on the Bangladesh application for UN membership, labeled Mrs. Cisse, "innocent, but that does not mean necessarily unintelligent."

Mrs. Cisse says she feels no qualms or terrors about being chairman of the Council.

"It's a great responsibility, but the 20th century is a great epoch for women," she said with a confident sweep of her hand. "I have been vice-president of the Guinean National Assembly for two years; I realize the United Nations is a more important and difficult job."

Just before arriving in New York she completed a trip to Dar es-Salaam. Tanzania, for a celebration of the 10th anniversary of the Conference of African Women, of which she is secretary-general. The conference embraces all the women's organizations of the Organization of African Unity.

"ALL ARE affiliated with the liberation movements of thier countries," Mrs. Cisse said." . . . the Guinean experience was examined, what we are doing and how we are doing it to push for our involvement in the economic development of the country." Three hundred women attended.

The Guinean experience, she further explained, involves setting up cooperatives, teaching midwifery from village to village, and encouraging women to become educated. "If opportunities are given to women who were denied them before, they can react more readily than men," she said.

Her presence here at the U.N., she believes, reflects her long experience first in regional woman's organizations, then national, and now continent wide.

"I think I will push behind the scenes; I have many ideas," she said.

"Injustice was never acceptable to me," she emphasized in an interview. "I come from Kankan, up country, with some boundary with the Ivory Coast and not far from Mali. My mother is a mid-wife and my father is a doctor. He went to the federal school for West Africans in Dakar."

SHE IS PROUD of her Malinke background. Her ancestors ruled the great 13-th century Mali Empire, which at its apogee could boast one of the most enlightened rulers of its day. Its ancient frontiers, which some say roughly approximatethe French colonial administrative unit of the Republic of Mali, included part of Guinea, Senegal, the Gambia, part of Niger, and a sliver of Upper Volta.

"Since independence we are organizing along nontribal lines," Mrs. Cisse said. Pride in her past and injustice in the not too distant past she recounts with a sweet ferocity:

"In colonial times there was only one federal school for eight or 12 African countries. If there were two children in a fmaily:6a boy and a girl, the boy would go to school . . . I was very lucky.

"I DON'T discriminate today," she continued with a laugh. "I have three boys and three girls. All are in school, the girls in secondary schools, the boys are attending universities."

As a student, Mrs. Cisse went to the federal school in Dakar, and then to the Ecole Normale for teacher training. This was in 1950-57.

"Educational opportunity, even if limited, was the most positive aspect of colonialism," she said. "It was good for building understanding and cooperating . . ." Returning home to Guinea, she began teaching; later she became head of a school.

"It was not easy; the power system was against us," she recalled. "There were heavy sentences for political activity. I wasn't afraid, only now I realize how dangerous it was. If I was late to school I would have to put in more work; they knew I was active." She later founded the teachers union.

In New York without most of her family for the moment (her husband is governor of the Mali region of Guinea), she expressed her personal feelings toward her new post. Flashing a smile, she said, "Oui et Non." and explained, "If I have friends, yes, . . . but my apartment is empty."

Unique Summer Home For A Marin Family

By MOLLY MARIN

Blue Mist, a 32-foot sailboat, became home to the Ron Hill family of San Anselmo this summer. The Vanguard was trucked to Tacoma, Wash., on July 1 where it began a two-month cruise of Northwest and Canadian waters. She sailed north, two-thirds of the way up Vancouver Island's coast.

"We tried to live off the land," said Alice Hill about her family's fishing, clamming, oystering and crab hunting. Their three children enjoyed the family's first long ocean trip.

They plied the Gulf Islands, putting in at Desolation Sound and Princess Louisa Inlet to see the mountains and falls.

The Hills tied up before the parliament and the Empress Hotel at Victoria to go sightseeing.

Friends from Paradise Yacht Harbor in Tiburon, Dr. and Mrs. Richardson of Larkspur and Victor Piltch of Novato went to Seattle on Sept. 1 to help sail Blue Mist home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Eide have returned to their home in Novato following a six weeks trip to Norway visiting their brothers, sisters and other relatives.

Mr. Eide has three sisters and a brother and many nieces and nephews in Bergen, where he was born, and Mrs. Eide has five brothers and sisters and other relatives in Stavanger. Mrs. Eide spent five weeks in Stavanger in the home where she was born, now the home of one of her brothers, and then she spent a week with Mr. Eide's relatives.

Mr. Eide went fishing with his brothers on Lysefjord and went on trips to Sognefjord and Hardangerfjord, where his niece has a cabin on Hardanger plateau. He spent three weeks with his relatives and then two weeks with Mrs. Eide's relatives.

MR. AND Mrs. George Weatherstone of Novato have returned home from two weeks at Waikiki, Hawaii, where they stayed at the Reef. The trip was a birthday gift to Molly Weatherstone from her husband. Joining them for the first week were Chris Bolton and Terry Watson from Novato.

Japanese Are Wed In Marin

Two residents of Japan came to San Rafael to be married on Friday afternoon.

Kanae Yoshida of Osaka and Jun Mokudai of Tokyo exchanged vows at 4 p.m. Friday at Trinity Lutheran Church in San Rafael and received guests for a buffet dinner and reception afterward at the home of Mrs. Alverna Kavanaugh in San Rafael, a longtime friend of the bridegroom.

Attending the wedding from Japan were the bride's mother, Mrs. Hisae Yoshida; the bridesmaid, Emiko Mokudai of Tokyo, the bridegroom's sister; and the bride's brothers, Satoshi and Takashi Yoshida of Osaka; and the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Shimpei Mokudai of Tokyo.

Other guests attended from Japan, Honolulu and California.

After a wedding trip to Switzerland and Austria, the couple will live in Kanagawa, Japan.

The bride attended business college in Salt Lake City, Utah, and is an airline attendant for Pan American World Airways.

Jun attended the University of Oregon and frequently spent his vacations in San Rafael. He later returned to be graduated from Keio University in Tokyo and is a Pan American flight service supervisor in the Orient, headquartered in Tokyo.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin M. Sousa of San Rafael and the brother of Jeffrey R. Sousa. Vichael is a graduate of San Rafael High School and attended the College of Marin. He is employed at the San Rafael Police Department.

The couple plans a spring wedding.

President's Assistant: Washington Is Watching

By BARBARA HOSMER

Washington is watching very closely to see what retail stores do about lowering the price of beef, Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant for consumer affairs, told a Marin audience yesterday.

"Carcass beef is at its lowest wholesale price in 10 months. Reductions in retail price are beginning to be apparent. We hear that reductions of 10 to 20 cents a pound are in effect, but I'm not sure here locally," she said.

There are always seasonal fluctuations, she added. She said that President Nixon's limiting of import restrictions of meat affects only commercial beef — that "used for hamburgers and hotdogs."

"WE'RE EATING double the amount of meat that we did 20 years ago, but it still takes two years to turn a calf into a steak. There are 13 per cent more cattle in feed lots now and we eel prices will stabilize.

"Of course, pork rushes up and down," she added.

She said that the Cost of Living Council's telegram to retail chains to pass on reductions to the consumers last February has helped, and that the telegram stated that if retailers didn't bring meat prices down, the council "would tie it in more closely with wholesale prices."

Mrs. Knauer participated in the Consumer Education Forum at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael sponsored by the Marin Republican Council. Dressed in red, white and blue, she came not to talk about the high cost of beef, but the track record of the Administration on consumer problems. Saying that Congress has stalled President Nixon's recommendations on consumer legislation, she described actions of the Office of Consumer Affairs which she directs from Washington D.C.

"The President asked me to open up dialogue with business and industry on consumer problems, so we found a good shortcut," Mrs. Knauer said. Ford Motor Co.'s announcement last Monday of its new nationwide auto repair guarantee was an example. It was the first to be initiated on a national basis, she said.

MRS. KNAUER and two other panel speakers agreed that consumer education should be integrated into the public schools curriculum. One, John T. Kehoe, director of the California Department of Consumer Affairs, recommended that consumer education go into every public school grade. He also announced that problems of senior citizens were to receive nw emphasis by his state consumer office.

Joseph Barish of Belvedere, chairman of the Governor's Consumer Advisory Council, suggested that bringing in persons from nearby financial institutions and large stores to discuss purchasing, credit and related matters with high school students "for even a few hours" would be beneficial and cost the education budget noting, which drew applause from the sparse audience.

All speakers, including Assemblyman William T. Bagley and William D. Lee, director of the National Business Council for Consumer Affairs in Washington, D.C., stressed the need for general consumer education.

Joshua Thomas of the Marin County District Attorney's office said that the office was opening a consumer fraud department.

IN AN INTERVIEW Mrs. Knauer ticked off the three hottest topics on which people write letters to her office: automobile, credit and appliance problems.

"When I first went to Washington I was hounded about appliances — the high costs and the breakdowns," she said. "Now it has dropped to number three."

She credited voluntary action by industry, which developed a complaint system of its own, for alleviating appliances as the top complaint to her office.

Now people are annoyed about automobile servicing, complaining about the high cost of repairs, the time it takes and the unnecessary repairs made.

"Anything about a car outrages people if it goes wrong," she said.

Mrs. Knauer cited California's new auto repair licensing law as an experiment drawing the eyes of the other 49 states to see if it has success here.

"It may be the first step in that industry. Now if they don't deliver, they could lose their license," she said of auto repair firms in California.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Admire In-Laws, Don't Try To Match Their Perfection

DEAR HELEN:

I've read a lot about imperfect in-laws, but what do you do when yours are PERFECT? I mean really, I'm not being sarcastic. It's tough following an act like that.

My mother-in-law can entertain with no apparent effort, practically runs three social and political clubs, looks gorgeous, even when she's scrubbing out the bathtub, and manages to read all the latest books besides.

But my sister-in-law outshines her! She works; keeps house so you can eat off the floors (if you can assume the Lotus Position); she makes a master chef blush with shame the way she whips up homemade cream puffs, etc.; she wallpapers the house when she can't find anything better to do, like racing around playing Lady Bountiful to elderly aunts, with a bowl of chicken soup under her arm (homemade naturally).

Don't tell me I shouldn't feel inferior to them . . . hell, I AM inferior. So is everyone else. The amazing part is I like them. But I dread the day when my husband wakes up and sees he married a — KLUTZ

DEAR KLUTZ:

It's just possible your husband would rather have you "klutzy" than any other way. "Tough following an act like that," says you? Think how much tougher it is LIVING with it, if one can't match the perfection. Admire your in-laws but don't compete. Perhaps for the first time in his life, your man is able to relax. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Class reunions! Why don't they update them. I've never heard of one yet that doesn't offer prizes for:

1. Most children and (or) grandchildren;

2. Who has travelled the greatest distance. Then they usually introduce the guy who was the star quarterback; but never the class valedictorian.

In these days when producing vast numbers of offspring isn't the zenith of achievement and the rah-rahs are getting the haw-haws, why don't reunion planners single out people who have done most for their communities; tell a few success stories? Maybe then they'd draw more of the interesting alumni back to these now somewhat ghastly affairs. — TRIED IT, DIDN'T LIKE IT

DEAR TIDLI:

Maybe instead of asking "how many children?" reunionists should offer combat ribbons for most divorces, highest child support payments, greatest number of visits to psychiatrists . . .

Seriously, I doubt we'll ever change the format of class reunions. They're as locked into tradition as "The Star Spangled Banner" rendition — before major fooball games. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My heart goes out to the epileptic who lost many job opportunities and finally had to lie on his application form before he could find rewarding work. And to "Shunned," who was asked to resign from a church choir, due to "fits." By the grace of God, this has not happened to me.

I went to a normal employment agency after finishing college and got a job as secretary, with the agency knowing I am an epileptic (which is now almost completely under control).

Aside from being the mother of three children, I work for a Cultural Council, am chairwoman of a local club, and secretary for the County Epilepsy Society, whose aim is to broaden people's outlook toward epileptics. When I have a petit mal seizure people show concern and warmth, not shock.

There is hope for epileptics. What people understand they no longer fear. May your correspondents soon receive such understanding. — P.C.

ADVICE TO DRIVERS

Saving By Changing Habits

Automobile owners can save $100 or more a year by changing some of their driving habits, according to a newsletter for women motorists.

Motoress Aid gives the following advice to save:

The easiest way to cut your gasoline costs is to aovid wasting fuel. Here's how: After starting the engine, don't race it — that just pours gasoline into the carburetor and you get nothing in return. And, if the engine is cold, racing it before the oil has a chance to circulate freely causes excessive wear on engine parts — shortening their life considerably.

ALSO, CONTRARY to the common opinion that it's a good idea to warm up the engine for 5 to 10 minutes before driving it during cold winter days — this is not a proper habit. An idling engine does very little work, wastes gasoline and can cause harmful corrosive condensation. Taking off slowly after starting the engine and driving at moderate speed for the first mile or two actually warms the engine faster and more properly.

Always accelerate smoothly as if there was an egg between your foot and the gas pedal. This will help you save on gasoline and at the same time will help you reduce wear on your rear tires. It will also increase the life of your transmission by preventing overheating of the transmission fluid — a serious condition. Keeping your transmission cool is saving you money.

WHEN YOU see a red light or stop sign ahead, ease up on the accelerator and let the engine help slow the car as you approach the intersection. This will not only save gasoline, but will also substantially increase the life of your brake linings.

By downshifting to the next lowest gear while going down a steep hill or mountain road, the engine compression will help keep the car under better control without the need for pumping the brakes constantly or holding the brakes hard.

IT'S ALSO IMPORTANT to note that the faster you drive, the more gasoline your car consumes. Usually the average full size American car traveling between 75 and 80 miles per hour will use about twice as much gasoline as it would at 50 miles per hour. Although not as great, the fuel waste at high speeds is significant for smaller cars.

Government Now Prepared For Bike Safety Standards

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The federal government is preparing to issue safety standards for bicycles later this fall.

The Bureau of Product Safety feels that such standards could reduce the rising toll of injuries and deaths attributed to bicycles.

According to the National Safety Council, collisions between bikes and cars kill about 850 people and injure 40,000 more each year. The U.S. Public Health Service puts the total number of bicycle injuries close to 1 million a year.

Most of the victims are youngsters, and most of the injuries involve high-rise vehicles which have become popular in recent years.

A 1970 study by the Safety Council showed that high-rise bikes are involved in more than half the accidents though such bikes account for less than half the bicycles in use. A government survey of 166 bike injuries showed 92 involving high-rise vehicles and 42 involving standard ones.

RIDING A bicycle brings a certain amount of risk to the rider. Nobody expects to eliminate accidents or injuries. The goal is merely to reduce some of the more obvious hazards which may increase the chance and severity of serious injury.

The main areas of concern are the small front wheels, high handlebars and awkward placement of certain equipment. The so-called "sissy bar," which rises behind the seat, is criticized for making it difficult for the rider to dismount rapidly in case of emergency.

The samll front wheels and high handlebars make turning difficult for small children, who frequently have to handle vehicles too large for them. Many parents buy a bike larger than a child can handle on the theory that he will grow into it and thus avoid an extra bike purchase.

Another problem is the placement of gear shift levers on the horizontal bar so close to the seat that they cause serious genital injuries.

The bicycle industry itself has grown increasingly concerned about the accident statistics and the criticism aimed at bike design.

Manufacturers have developed a set of standards known as "BMA/6." Bicycles meeting these standards bear labels indicating so.

BUT THE standards are voluntary and do not go very far. Among their requirements are reflectorized pedals, front and rear reflectors, gear shifts as far forward as possible and both wheels of the same diameter.

The Bureau of Product Safety plans to adopt these standards plus others. The others would ban the "sissy bar," require lower seat posts, non-slip pedals and side reflectors. Also under consideration is elimination of front-wheel hand-brakes for the smallest youngsters.

Government officials have arranged a meeting with manufacturers in October. Federal standards may be issued shortly afterward for comment by any interested persons.

Neither government nor industry standards, however, can substitute for proper training and caution in the use of bicycles. Parents can do much to reduce accidents and injuries by considering safety features when buying bikes and by helping to train and educate youngsters in the use of them.

Some simply adjustments can eliminate some of the hazards on existing bicycles which do not meet present or proposed safety standards.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Just Knowing How To Play Won't Make You An Expert

Knowing how to bid and play will not make you a bridge expert. When your opponents get into an argument, they may ask you to settle it for them, and you have to know how to do this quickly and firmly. Test yourself on today's hand.

LED SMALL

Declarer took the first trick in dummy with the ace of hearts and led a small spade to finesse with the green. This won, but South still had to lose a trump trick to East. South also had to lose two clubs, but could ruff his last club in dummy and therefore made his contract.

Dummy began the hostilities: "Why didn't you lead the jack of spades for the first trump finesse? It couldn't cost anything. You'd capture the king and discover the bad break. You could easily get back to dummy and finesse through the ten. Why aren't you willing to score an extra 30 points without the slightest risk?"

ANSWERS QUESTION

South had an answer to this question. "I played the hand 20 seconds faster by taking only one trump finesse. That would give us more time for bridge if you'd only stop arguing."

That's when they turned to me to settle the argument. Since I had just lost the rubber, I was in no mood to discuss how the opponents could have scored an additional 30 points. "Shut up and deal," I growled.

BEST WAY

And there is the lesson, the result of 40 years of practice and study. Those four words are the best way to end a discussion and get the game started again.

When the game ends, you can tell North he was 100 per cent correct. Leading the jack for the first finesse cannot lose but may gain.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold:
♠ - None

ANSWER: Pass.

If you respond on this 5-point hand, your partner's next bid may be more spades and you will be even unhappier. The best way to stay out of trouble with a bad hand and a bad fit is to pass at your first opportunity.

Silver Dollars Will Be Sold

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The federal government will turn a nice profit, possibly as much as 400 per cent, on the sale of 2.9 million "cartwheel" dollars the U.S. Treasury didn't know it had.

The coins were minted in Carson City, Nev., from the famed Comstock lode between 1878 and 1891, but were never circulated.

General Services Administration auditors found the coins in their original mint bags in a sub-basement of the U.S. Treasury in Washington, D.C., in 1964.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Birthday Editor:

If the U.S. is nearly 200 years old, why is it we are only celebrating the 100th anniversary of our National Park System this year? Wasn't anything done to protect the the land until 1872? M.G.P.

Dear P:

Not on a federal scale! Even after the Congress authorized the first nationalpark at Yellowstone on March 1, 1872, that was merely the first step. It took farsighted men like John Muir (born April 21, 1838) to campaign for more protection, which meant keeping men and sheep from clipping the forest bare. So this year we thank those who began a federal park program 100 years ago that today gives us 38 national parks to enjoy. We can thank Ferdinand Vandeveer Hayden (born Sept. 7, 1829) for leading the geological survey party in 1872 which established the boundries of Yellowstone and enabled Congress to protect its wonders against encroachment. At the Grand Tetons today (Sept. 18) the Second World Conference on National Park begins.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

who lived in a shoe had so many children she didn't know what to do until she saw our shoe in San Anselmo. The "Old Lady" remarked, "My, you have five or six or even seven bedrooms, and I can train all my children to be Olympic Champions in the huge heated & filtered swimming pool." And after they're through, they won't catch cold because there are 2 fireplaces in this shoe. This is not an "Old Boot," by any means, and doesn't need a new heel or sole. If this shoe sounds good, then try it on.

Developers Ask Permit To Fill

Developers of the planned $35 million regional shopping center in Corte Madera have applied to the Army Corps of Engineers for a permit to place a million cubic yards f fill on the 75-acre site east of Highway 101.

According to the corps, the fill will be placed in two phases. First a central portion will be filled and compacted to an elevation of 9.8 feet above mean low water level. Then a surcharge will be put on top, spread over the entire acreage, and left for about a year.

The application for the fill permit was made by Ernest W. Hahn Inc., 2311 West El Segundo Blvd., Hawthorne, developers of the shopping center which is being supported by Corte Madera's redevelopment agency.

Any objections or comments on the fill permit applications may be made in triplicate to the corps at 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco, before Oct. 5.

ART REVIEW

Decisive Craftsmanship In Marin Faculty Show

By ADA GARFINKEL

Decisive craftsmanship and incisive attitudes are characteristic of most of the work in the current Faculty Show at the College of Marin Fine Arts Gallery.

Introspection is the subject of Barrie McDowell's pair of sculptures, the smaller a foot-long polished chrome object. And newcomer Eric Stoelting's exquisite pencil drawing titled "Mitral Valve Replacement" is a close-up section of open-heart surgery.

This artist also has an ink drawing in a triangular frame of an anthropoid, showing the nine progressive stages described in his title: "Fear-anger Continuum, Stump-tail Macaque."

Another new faculty member, Richard Wold, presents a print of a hyperactive, potentially violent youngster in "Eric the Foo."

Introspection in the Renaissance visual sense is brought out in two oil paintings of his contemporaries by Bart Jones, while "The Hand of Buddha," a painted terra cotta sculpture by Ross Curtis, turns eastward. And Gil Wheat's "untitled" acrylic painting in soft pinks, browns and greys, with its scratchy surfaces and centrally clustered shape, is like an interior landscape with dream writing.

Alton Raible's "Self Portrait" drawing finds him ensconced in a crumpled and floating paper bag, and Martin Stoelzel's meticulous figure paintings carry judgmental connotations in his titles: "Cathedral of the Absurd, Patron's Main Altar," and "White Cargo."

A bizarre situation is projected by Alonso Gonzalez, who attaches a real zipper and message tag to a model's stomach, in his oil painting: "Painless Childbirth."

Other thought-provoking works are several massive steel sculptures by Farhad Moezzi; "Blood Boy" in bronze by Rick Hall; Allan Widenhofer's stoneware "Tree Fountain"; Richard Miller's ink drawing, "Before You Know It," and Tron Byke's circular "Path I."

Conceptual art is presented by Richard Marquis in the form of a graniteware coffee pot with conic sections marked off, and by Tom Meisenheimer in a graphic describing the process of human anatomical dissection. And photographer Ed Douglas improvises an unlikely happening between Smokey theBear and an old blue Ford.

Rounding out the faculty exhibit are two energy-field paintings by Bruce Lauritzen; a miniature stained-glass-bottle wall by David Arnold; covered ceramic jars by Dale Roush and Thano Johnson; hanging ceramic planters by Ann Jack; a handsome pendant necklace by Nancy Bott, and an actively agile football scene in bold colors by Betty Wilson.

The gallery is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. weekdays. The exhibit will continue through Oct. 13.

Tax Bill Chairman Steps Down

Robert A. Roumiguiere of San Rafael, a leading candidate for John F. McInnis's vacant seat on the county board of supervisors, has resigned as Marin chairman of the campaign for the Watson tax revision initiative.

The initiative's primary opponent in the Legislature is Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who will have a major voice in recommending candidates for appointment by the governor to replace McInnis.

Roumiguiere, declaring he still will push for passage of the initiative, Proposition 14 on the November ballot, said he resigned as its local chairman to avoid "a slap in the face" to both Bagley and the governor, who also strongly oppose the initiative.

Roumiguiere insisted that he had not resigned to enhance his chance of being appointed to the board of supervisors.

He said he had resigned from the chairmanship last week, but added he will do anything the local campaign committee asks him to do to help it pass.

The initiative would limit sharply the property tax levies that could be imposed by local government.

Rembrandt Goes For 'A Bargain'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jan Kolar, an engineer who said he doesn't know much about art, paid $7,700 at auction for a Rembrandt pen and wash drawing titled "Study of an Aged Woman."

The drawing was valued at more than $10,000 when it was appraised three years ago, because it is one of only 25 known signed sketches by Rembrandt.

Star of Siam, which handled the auction for the sketch's owner, Los Angeles Baptist College, called Kolar's purchase a bargain.

Asked if he had an art collection, or was a connoisseur, Kolar of Laguna Beach, Calif., replied: "No, but I've heard of Rembrandt."

'Boom Or Boomerang' For Marin?

As many questions about Marin's growth were raised as answered Saturday at a conference arranged by Marin Alternative at Dominican College in San Rafael.

About 200 people attended the third annual conference which had as its theme: "Growth — Boom or Boomerang?"

It was a mixture of Levis and backpacks, chic pantsuits and suits and ties; bicycles, motorists and walkers.

Five workshops discussed, but didn't resolve,some penetrating questions.

Can population growth be limited by law? What health services are affected by growth? How can the demand for open space be resolved along with the need for housing for all income groups? What should the priorities be for transportation needs of local and commute traffic? What are the implications of reclaiming and recycling waste water?

Amid objections of vagueness, several resolutions were adopted for consideration by the steering committee of Marin Alternative.

They included: that the Marin Transit District place top priority on a free, public intra-county transportation system; that all expansion of water and sewage systems be subjected to vote until a master plan is adopted and that a countywide health information and referral service be established.

Dr. Donald Watson of Livermore, chairman of the Clean Air Coordinating Committee, luncheon speaker, outlined his group's successful campaign to limit growth in the Livermore-Amador Valley.

He said voters in the 100-square-mile area recently passed an initiative preventing the issuance of building permits for new subdivisions if they contribute either to overcrowded schools, overburdened sewage facilities or water shortages.

He advised the audience to campaign for the inclusion of air quality as an environmental consideration in any general plan that is adopted.

Dr. Jay Martin Anderson, a member of a two-year research project on the limits of growth at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said all evidence indicates that on a global scale, the death rate will overtake the birth rate sometime in the next century.

Presenting slides of technical graphs, he said that even if pollution were to be controlled immediately and agricultural productivity substantially increased that the long-range effects of pollution were already under way.

"Up until a few years aog," he said, "I thought science and technology could solve all problems."

In response to questions, he said critical limitation of resources could very well lead to international warfare.

James S. Rummonds of Palo Alto, a member of the Presidential Commission on Population Growth and the American Future, urged the audience to bring their ecological arguments to local regulatory agencies.

These agencies, he said, citing city councils, county boards of supervisors, zoning boards and special districts, in essence, control population policies.

He said the commission found that on the average, 50 to 80 per cent of the members of these agencies are landowners, developers, real estate agents or insurors, all with some kind of special interests in their decisions.

However, he added that Marin's agencies don't appear to come anywhere close to that high a percentage.

He urged the group to investigate the interests of members of all local regulatory agencies for just that reason.
